Expensive Computer Stands Idle

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

Mini-computer equipment which has already cost Lancaster County taxpayers about $58,000 in rental, salary and other expenses will continue to sit idly collecting dust for months.

No one can say just how many months.

The latest bug in a series of problems that have delayed use of the equipment since April is the County Board's decision to transfer all county data processing functions to the city data processing department.

That decision, intended to help solve the county's long range data processing problems, indefinitely postpones the use of the already leased mini-computer equipment in the county clerk and county treasurer offices.

Ordered last summer, the equipment arrived in mid-November and since then the county has been paying almost $2,000 a month in lease costs to IBM. The lease contract does not expire until November 1977.

In addition, the county has paid about $40,000 in salary costs for programmers and for extra equipment needed to make the equipment useable, said Elmer Cheek, county fiscal analyst.

"Why do we have to make the transition so suddenly, just when we're ready to go on (start to use) the things?" Clerk Carl Hartman asked the board Tuesday afternoon.

"I have a program I could use. Now I have to wait a year or longer to get this done," he said.

The program which will make the equipment usable is completed, Cheek verified. But the man who drew up the program, who should be around when the equipment is first used, is being dropped from the county payroll, he said.

Cheek, who was in charge of the county data processing functions until the county's decision to switch over to the city department, will lose the two employes who handled the technical programming of the county computer systems.

Both men have been told they can apply for similar positions with the city. But the pay would be about $1,000 a year less than they earned as county employes, and the man who designed the program for Hartman's office plans to leave Friday for three weeks of vacation and compensatory time. He probably will not return to city employment, Cheek said.

Hartman questioned why commissioners had not retained the county data processing employes for a few months "to allow for a smooth transition ... It's like throwing the baby out with the bathwater."

The decision was one of policy, said Jan Gauger, the commissioner most directly involved with the data processing transfer.

"We had to go with the total city approach or add additional people to our own staff to finish the clerk and treasurer's office," she said.

Mrs. Gauger's answers satisfied neither Hartman nor Treasurer Frank Golden.

Head of city data processing, Dean Block, could give no estimate on when the computer system for the two county offices might be completed and only an inkling of when the city might start to work on the county project.

"I can't speak to the time involved," he said.

But he did say that some preliminary work might be started as early as September and new employes needed for the county project might be hired by mid-October.

Whether the program for Hartman's office already completed will ever be used is also questionable.

The city intends to start from the beginning, documenting the needs for equipment, then moving on to programming.

In other action the board gave approval for a class C — liquor by the drink — license for the Nebraska State Fairgrounds. Final approval is left to the State Liquor Commission.

Swine Flu Program Revived

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation that revives the government's faltering swine flu immunization program was passed by Congress and sent to President Ford on Tuesday.

The House adopted the bill, 250 to 83. Senate passage came by unanimous voice vote just hours before.

Congressional leaders moved with unusual swiftness to get the bill out before adjourning their houses Tuesday night for the Republican National Convention.

They expressed concern that the mass immunization plan, described by Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare David Mathews as in a state of collapse, would be further jeopardized by any more delays.

President Ford made personal appeals to House leaders earlier Tuesday to get the legislation passed before the recess. If the vaccine were not distributed to the public and swine flu did erupt, it would cause many deaths, Ford said.

The Senate bill, passed unanimously by voice vote, would make the government responsible for defending any lawsuit arising from alleged injuries or deaths resulting from the immunization program, and paying judgments and settlements.

The government, in turn, could seek to recover its costs from any manufacturer or participant in the program if the injury resulted from negligence.

In addition, the bill provides that manufacturers must sell regular swine flu vaccine to the government without profit, and will be limited to a "reasonable profit" for special swine flu vaccine intended for the elderly and persons with chronic health problems.

A two-year statute of limitations would be imposed on anyone making an injury claim. The bill, substituted for the administration's version, also strengthens informed consent provisions.

It directs HEW and the National Commission for the Protection of Human Subjects of Biomedical and Behavioral Research to prepare a form before Sept. 1 explaining the benefits and risks of swine flu vaccine for every person getting a shot.

The four drug companies, which already have produced 120 million doses of vaccine, have refused to sell any to the government until they have protection against liability claims.

The administration agreed to shoulder the burden after private insurance carriers failed to produce an insurance package acceptable to the manufacturers.

Public health leaders say that few injuries have resulted from vaccines in the past. Insurers and manufacturers counter that they cannot predict what will happen in a mass immunization program of a scope and size never before undertaken.

The Senate Appropriations Committee, asked to look at the bill just before passage, voted it out without recommendation. The panel expressed concern about its possible cost to the government.

"Nobody knows," said Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark.

House supporters have estimated the cost at as low as $15 million, but one insurance industry official said claims could reach into the billions of dollars.

The Senate bill directed the secretary of HEW to submit reports semiannually, beginning one year after the program's enactment, detailing the number, value, nature and status of all damage claims, and an explanation of the reasons for not seeking recovery if that should occur.

Belle Slows Down In New England

By The Associated Press

Hurricane Belle, diminishing to a tropical storm, played itself out over New England Tuesday night after moving up the Atlantic, brushing the New Jersey coast and pounding its way across Long Island and into Connecticut.

Three persons were reported killed by the storm, and several others died Monday and Tuesday in storm-related traffic accidents.

Barbara Chamberlain, 32, and her son Russell, 7, were killed when the footbridge they were crossing near their Huntington, Vt., home was swept away by a rain-swollen branch of the Huntington River. Carol Mayer, 19, was killed when she was hit by a falling tree in the eastern Long Island town of Wading River.

Throughout the storm's path, officials were trying to estimate the damage wrought by Belle.

Belle had been moving up the East Coast for three days with winds up to 110 miles an hour, sending high winds and waves ashore from the Carolinas northward. The powerful heart of the storm finally went ashore for the first time early Tuesday morning on Long Island, but its winds had dropped from 110 m.p.h to 90 m.p.h.

Enroute up the coast, portions of the storm flooded coastal highways and towns in New Jersey, caused millions of dollars damage in beach erosion in that state and sent coastal residents fleeing inland.

On Long Island, which felt the brunt of the storm, damage was reported lighter than anticipated. But roads and basements were flooded, small boats were smashed and power lines and trees were downed by the fierce winds.

New York Gov. Hugh Carey requested an estimate of damage to determine if Long Island should be classified a disaster area.

"We were extremely fortunate that the storm started to come apart just before it reached us," said Suffolk County Executive John Klein.

In New Jersey, Belle provided cover for the first successful escape from Trenton State Prison in more than 15 years. A prison spokesman said an inmate serving a life sentence sawed out of his cell, ran across the roof of the prison and jumped 30 feet to the ground. The storm had knocked out one of the lights on a nearby guard tower, obscured vision and made so much noise that the guard on the tower noticed nothing even though the inmate must have been no more than 8 or 10 feet away.

Tuesday was a day of cleaning up the damage, restoring power and giving thanks that the storm wasn't any worse. In Connecticut, Gov. Ella Grasso said, "God was with us."

In Paxton, Mass., a large tree crashed through the roof of a trailer home and smashed a crib where Joshua Mello, 1½, was sleeping. Joshua wasn't hurt. His grandmother, Irene St. Onge, explained that instead of sleeping the way he usually does — with his head at the bottom of the crib — Joshua had squirmed about, just out of the path of the tree. "It's a miracle he wasn't killed," said Mrs. St. Onge. The rest of the family also escaped injury.

Police Request Tops Demands

By GORDON WINTERS

A proposal by Lincoln police for a 25% wage hike and increased fringe benefits apparently is tops among contract demands submitted this year by city employe groups.

No contracts have been signed for the coming year, although the City Council plans to adopt a budget after a public hearing Thursday night.

Employe representatives are quick to point out, however, that the council can change the budget up until five days before Sept. 1.

Traditionally, information on wage negotiations in City Hall is somewhat sketchy, with only bits of information leaking out.

The Star, however, found some sources willing to divulge information as the deadline approached for contract settlements.

One of the largest employe groups, the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, began negotiations with a proposal for an across-the-board hourly hike of $1.05 an hour.

The proposal reportedly met with administration disfavor since negotiation traditionally has been on a percentage basis.

The Fire Fighter Union Local 646 is reported to be seeking a 15% wage hike, plus fringe benefits, according to a source in the fire department.

Negotiations with the firemen apparently have become complex, with an issue being a administration proposal for an out-of-court settlement of a suit by fire fighters against last year's wage package.

Fire fighters have been working since last September without a contract while the suit was decided by the State Court of Industrial Relations, then appealed by the city to the State Supreme Court.

Another employe group, the bus drivers, are reported to be seeking a wage hike of about 20%.

The City Employes Association (CEA), made up employes who are not members of other groups and flavored heavily with middle management employes, began negotiations with a proposal for a package increase of about 7%, including fringe benefits.

The group has the reputation of beginning with a comparatively low demand, but sticking stubbornly to it during negotiations.

The highest offer from the city reported by any of the employe groups was to the CEA, which said the city had offered a 5% wage hike, plus increases in fringe benefits amounting to an additional 1.16%.

Many of the employe groups reported that the city opened negotiations with an offer of 2½%. Firemen reported the city currently is offering around 5%. The AFSCME said the city has made an offer of 3%.

The employe groups also reported that the city is abandoning a long-held practice of considering pay increases only in increments of 2½%, which in the past had limited negotiations to jumps of 2½%, 5%, 7½%, 10% and so on.

'Son' Can't Make A Claim

Wailuku, Hawaii (AP) — A petition filed by a New England factory worker in an attempt to support his claim that he is the first-born son of Charles A. Lindbergh was dismissed by a judge here Tuesday.

Second Circuit Court Judge S. George Fukuoka ruled that Hawaiian law does not provide for a son not mentioned in a will to become a party to probate proceedings.

Fukuoka dismissed Kenneth Kerwin's petition, which would have entitled Kerwin to try to claim part of the famed aviator's estate.

Peters To Recommend 3% Sales, 17% Income Tax

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Tax Commissioner William E. Peters said Tuesday "a reasonable solution" to Nebraska's financial shortfall will require a 17% state income tax and 3% on sales — both record highs.

Peters proposed retroactive application of the income portion to Jan. 1. It would represent a 13.3% boost in an individual's federal tax liability for calendar 1976, now at 15%.

A 3% tax on sales would represent a 20% increase from the current 2.5% rate. It would be effective Sept. 1. For residents of Lincoln, Omaha, Bellevue and after Oct. 1, North Platte, the cities' additional 1% tax on sales would mean a 4% rate on the dollar.

Peters said, "I probably will" recommend the 3% and 17% rates for adoption by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment when it meets Thursday in emergency session.

Asked what practical effect the new rates would have on a typical family's pocketbook, Peters said the Revenue Department was in the midst of making calculations. But he forecast generally that individuals' income tax refunds next spring will be reduced. That also means no refunds for some taxpayers who otherwise would have received them.

It will also help the state during the first six months of 1977, the last half of the fiscal year when Peters said "the worst cash flow is expected" to pay Nebraska's fixed bills.

Gov. J. James Exon, asked if he will vote for the .5% and 2% rate increases, said in an interview, "I have always gone along with his (Peters') recommendations in the past. I regrettably will have to go along with his recommendations on this occasion."

Exon is chairman of the Equalization Board. Peters is secretary and has a vote. The governor cited the necessity of enforcing a tax rate that will meet legislative appropriations, based on Revenue Department analyses.

The corporate tax rates are calculated on a two-step formula, a percentage of the income tax rate. Under the new proposal, the 3.75% rate for up to $25,000 would increase to 4.25%. The 4.125% on $25,000 or more would go to 4.675%.

Those would also be record levels. The 2.5% sales and 15% income tax rates were set in 1972 and again in 1976.

A report Peters completed Tuesday to distribute to Equalization Board members indicates the need for the rate hikes.

Using the current 2.5-15% rates, the state will incur a paper deficit of $62,655,644 on June 30. The real deficit excluding the statutory 3% overlevy of $13,821,706 would amount to $48,833,938 assuming 100% expenditures. However, the constitution prohibits the state from going into debt.

The problem results because FY76-77 general fund appropriated obligations from state taxes total $460,723,517. However, the total of estimated net general fund receipts and ending fund balances is $411,889,579. That is money that would be left after the state makes income tax refunds and returns to cities the sums generated by their additional sales taxes.

Under current rates, the sales tax would produce $148.2 million after paying out food sales tax credits and city refunds. The individual income tax would generate $158.5 million after refunds. Corporate taxes would produce $41.8 million after refunds.

The projections also include a $1,821,579 ending balance last June 30.

Under the 3% and 17% rates, the estimated general fund balance next June 30 would be $15,877,062. Minus the $13,821,706 cushion at 3% — the minimum overlevy allowed — the treasury would hold $2,055,356 assuming $00% expenditures.

Using the test of adequate cash flow only, at 96.1% expenditures, Nebraska next June could end up with a $33,815,000 balance, according to Revenue Department projections.

The increased rates would generate $476,600,579 in total estimated general fund receipts to apply against the $460.7 million appropriated (including encumbarnces and reappropriations).

After refunds, the 3-17% formula would bring the state $178,625,000 in sales tax receipts, $191,142,000 from the individual income tax and $43,503,000 from the corporate tax.

Miscellaneous taxes — mainly on liquor, cigarettes and pari-mutuel wagering among a long list — would produce approximately $61,509,000 under either formula.

The emergency rate-setting session was called after general fund receipts were 11.6% below projections in July. Expected revenues totalled $32.33 million and actual collections totalled almost $28.58 million. A fiscal year-end deficit of at least $30.89 million was projected.

The new formula does not include any deficit appropriations the 1977 Legislature might make, Peters said. The $15.8 million projected balance could be slashed by expectations of pressures or needs for a $2.5 million late allotment to education, another $500,000 for political subdivisions and possibly a sum for technical community colleges.

Governor Warns Legislators He Will Offer 'Austere Budget'

Gov. J. James Exon Tuesday rejected the need for a special session of the Legislature to help resolve the fiscal 1976-77 tax revenue shortage, but issued a warning to the Unicameral.

Exon promised he will present "a very austere budget" to the Legislature, when its 1977 session convenes in January.

Unless state senators "somehow can recognize and realize" they must join the governor "in making realistic and conservative budgets," Exon said, "we have to increase taxes accordingly."

"I clearly outlined this predicament we are in" last April when the Legislature adjourned, Exon reminded, in the face of record state tax rates to be set Thursday.

The Nebraska Young Americans for Freedom executive board adopted a resolution asking Exon to call a special legislative session to consider budget cuts, and opposed any increase in state taxes.

Exon said, "The problem that confronts us is whether the legislative session next time will agree to essentially holding the line on budgets, and reducing them where we can and if we can.

"The Young Americans for Freedom have evidently sat by and allowed the Legislature to make excessive appropriations without any statement at all, and now that the horse has left the barn, they're making irresponsible statements."

Asked if his comments indicate an upcoming money confrontation with state senators, Exon replied, "There have been head-to-head clashes ever since I've been governor.

"Every year, the Legislature has spent more money than I had recommended, except for one year when they accepted my budget in toto.

"I hope the Legislature will have a different attitude when they come back in regular session in January," Exon said pointedly.

Flames Sweep Hotel In Paris

Paris (UPI) — A fire swept through a downtown hotel early Wednesday, causing a panic in which two persons leaped to their deaths from windows on upper floors.

Fire brigade sources said a first survey indicated 10 persons were killed — eight of them by asphyxiation and two others as they jumped to their deaths from their blazing hotel rooms.

Peters To Recommend 3% Sales, 17% Income Tax

Tax Commissioner William E. Peters said Tuesday "a reasonable solution" to Nebraska's financial shortfall will require a 17% state income tax and 3% on sales — both record highs.

But he forecast generally that individuals' income tax refunds next spring will be reduced. That also means no refunds for some taxpayers who otherwise would have received them.

It will also help the state during the first six months of 1977, the last half of the fiscal year when Peters said "the worst cash flow is expected" to pay Nebraska's fixed bills.

Gov. J. James Exon, asked if he will vote for the .5% and 2% rate increases, said in an interview, "I have always gone along with his (Peters') recommendations in the past. I regrettably will have to go along with his recommendations on this occasion."

Exon is chairman of the Equalization Board. Peters is secretary and has a vote. The governor cited the necessity of enforcing a tax rate that will meet legislative appropriations, based on Revenue Department analyses.

The corporate tax rates are calculated on a two-step formula, a percentage of the income tax rate. Under the new proposal, the 3.75% rate for up to $25,000 would increase to 4.25%. The 4.125% on $25,000 or more would go to 4.675%.

Those would also be record levels. The 2.5% sales and 15% income tax rates were set in 1972 and again in 1976.

A report Peters completed Tuesday to distribute to Equalization Board members indicates the need for the rate hikes.

Using the current 2.5-15% rates, the state will incur a paper deficit of $62,655,644 on June 30. The real deficit excluding the statutory 3% overlevy of $13,821,706 would amount to $48,833,938 assuming 100% expenditures. However, the constitution prohibits the state from going into debt.

The problem results because FY76-77 general fund appropriated obligations from state taxes total $460,723,517. However, the total of estimated net general fund receipts and ending fund balances is $411,889,579. That is money that would be left after the state makes income tax refunds and returns to cities the sums generated by their additional sales taxes.

Under current rates, the sales tax would produce $148.2 million after paying out food sales tax credits and city refunds. The individual income tax would generate $158.5 million after refunds. Corporate taxes would produce $41.8 million after refunds.

The projections also include a $1,821,579 ending balance last June 30.

Under the 3% and 17% rates, the estimated general fund balance next June 30 would be $15,877,062. Minus the $13,821,706 cushion at 3% — the minimum overlevy allowed — the treasury would hold $2,055,356 assuming $00% expenditures.

Using the test of adequate cash flow only, at 96.1% expenditures, Nebraska next June could end up with a $33,815,000 balance, according to Revenue Department projections.

The increased rates would generate $476,600,579 in total estimated general fund receipts to apply against the $460.7 million appropriated (including encumbarnces and reappropriations).

After refunds, the 3-17% formula would bring the state $178,625,000 in sales tax receipts, $191,142,000 from the individual income tax and $43,503,000 from the corporate tax.

Miscellaneous taxes — mainly on liquor, cigarettes and pari-mutuel wagering among a long list — would produce approximately $61,509,000 under either formula.

The emergency rate-setting session was called after general fund receipts were 11.6% below projections in July. Expected revenues totalled $32.33 million and actual collections totalled almost $28.58 million. A fiscal year-end deficit of at least $30.89 million was projected.

The new formula does not include any deficit appropriations the 1977 Legislature might make, Peters said. The $15.8 million projected balance could be slashed by expectations of pressures or needs for a $2.5 million late allotment to education, another $500,000 for political subdivisions and possibly a sum for technical community colleges.

Governor Warns Legislators He Will Offer 'Austere Budget'

Gov. J. James Exon Tuesday rejected the need for a special session of the Legislature to help resolve the fiscal 1976-77 tax revenue shortage, but issued a warning to the Unicameral.

Exon promised he will present "a very austere budget" to the Legislature, when its 1977 session convenes in January.

Unless state senators "somehow can recognize and realize" they must join the governor "in making realistic and conservative budgets," Exon said, "we have to increase taxes accordingly."

"I clearly outlined this predicament we are in" last April when the Legislature adjourned, Exon reminded, in the face of record state tax rates to be set Thursday.

The Nebraska Young Americans for Freedom executive board adopted a resolution asking Exon to call a special legislative session to consider budget cuts, and opposed any increase in state taxes.

Exon said, "The problem that confronts us is whether the legislative session next time will agree to essentially holding the line on budgets, and reducing them where we can and if we can.

"The Young Americans for Freedom have evidently sat by and allowed the Legislature to make excessive appropriations without any statement at all, and now that the horse has left the barn, they're making irresponsible statements."

Asked if his comments indicate an upcoming money confrontation with state senators, Exon replied, "There have been head-to-head clashes ever since I've been governor.

"Every year, the Legislature has spent more money than I had recommended, except for one year when they accepted my budget in toto.

"I hope the Legislature will have a different attitude when they come back in regular session in January," Exon said pointedly.

Flames Sweep Hotel In Paris

Paris (UPI) — A fire swept through a downtown hotel early Wednesday, causing a panic in which two persons leaped to their deaths from windows on upper floors.

Fire brigade sources said a first survey indicated 10 persons were killed — eight of them by asphyxiation and two others as they jumped to their deaths from their blazing hotel rooms.

Machine Out; Warning Late

Loveland, Colo. (AP) — A broken National Weather Service machine caused a delayed warning for residents of the Big Thompson Canyon the night a flash flood struck the area, the Rocky Mountain News reported Tuesday.

The paper quoted Robert Beck of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration as saying a broken remote radar transmitter in Limon, Colo., cost the Denver forecaster on duty some precision in pinpointing severe weather and also slowed his work.

Beck is directing the disaster investigation team probing the performance of the Denver office of the weather service in the flood.

The NWS issued its first bulletin at 8:35 p.m. CDT the night of the flood. It warned of severe thunderstorms in eastern Larimer County and of the possibility of flooding in low areas.

However, no mention was made of the Big Thompson Canyon until a flash flood warning was issued at midnight CDT. Officials later said the crest of the flood roared through the canyon between 9:30 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. CDT — well before the flash flood warning was issued.

And by midnight CDT, the water level at the Olympus Dam in Estes Park, located at the top of the canyon, had begun to recede.

Weather service forecaster John Schwab, said he didn't think the balky machine 90 miles from his office "was a big factor" when he worked to provide weather warnings on the night of the flood.

But Beck said his team was unanimous in deciding the broken-down machine "did degrade the capability of Mr. Schwab to get a precise warning out as quickly as he would have been able to if he had it (the machine)."

The machine, which broke down on July 30 and thwarted repair efforts, is monitored by a weather service employe. The forecaster in Denver is responsible for interpreting the radar data and issuing reports.

But Beck said because the machine wasn't working, Schwab had to spend time on the telephone to the technician in Limon and couldn't be as precise in pinpointing storms as he could have been had he seen the radar screen.

Beck said the time spent on the phone caused a delay in the warning and caused Schwab to concentrate on storm activity north of the Big Thompson.

Rubber Negotiators Apparently Balking

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators in a 16-week rubber strike were closeted with Labor Secretary W.J. Usery Jr. most of Tuesday after they apparently balked at his proposal for settling the dispute.

An aide to Usery still held out hope, however, that a settlement could be near. "We might have something in a couple hours," he said, "but they could still be in there come morning."

Usery frequently demands round-the-clock sessions when he sees a strong possibility for a breakthrough.

On Monday, the secretary gave negotiators for the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., and the United Rubber Workers union the night off after handing them a government recommendation for settlement.

The two sides were to have given him their answer when the talks resumed in his office Tuesday morning, but the hours wore on with no official reports of progress.

The strike by 60,000 rubber workers began April 21 and has idled 47 plants owned by Firestone, Goodyear, Uniroyal and B.F. Goodrich. The plants account for 60 per cent of the nation's tire production.

Their continuing shutdown means "widespread economic hardship and human suffering," Usery has said.

The principal bargainers in the dispute are Joseph Cairns of Firestone, the union's target company, and Peter Bommarito, head of the rubber workers. Officials for the other companies, expected to follow Firestone's lead, were standing by in Washington should Usery call.

The union has been demanding a $1.65-an-hour raise over three years, coupled with an unlimited cost of living escalator. The industry's last offer was a hike of a $1.30 an hour over the same period and a limited inflation rider.

Rubber workers earned an average of $5.50 an hour under the old contract.

Food Stamp Reform Advanced

Washington (UPI) — A major food stamp reform package, including a ban on stamps for strikers, was approved Tuesday by a sharply divided House Agriculture Committee. The legislation, approved 21-19, would tighten stamp eligibility rules and reduce or eliminate stamp benefits for an estimated 6.3 million persons.

House Passes Energy Compromise Bill

Washington (UPI) — The House Tuesday passed a compromise bill designed to lift price controls on about 15% of the oil produced in the United States and provide energy conservation incentives. The bill would extend the life of the Federal Energy Administration through the end of next year and give it $227 million to spend.

House Votes Not To Pay For Abortions

Washington (UPI) — The House Tuesday voted for the third time in less than two months to bar use of federal funds to perform abortions.

Senate Votes To Extend Jobs Program

Washington (UPI) — The Senate Tuesday easily passed a bill to extend an emergency public service jobs program — opposed by the administration — until September 1977.

House Votes To Protect River

Washington (UPI) — The House voted Tuesday to protect the prehistoric free-flowing New River in Appalachia — considered the second oldest in the world — from a hydroelectric dam project.

Republicans See A War Of Nerves

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The pre-Republican Convention war of nerves between Ronald Reagan and President Ford centered Tuesday on the GOP platform committee where party conservatives vowed to fight for a document that would reflect their views.

The move was led by Reagan backers who pressed for planks that would mirror the former California governor's positions on the Panama Canal, detente, school busing and abortion.

And, in an unexpected move, Reagan representatives at the platform committee asked for time for an appearance before the panel by Sen. Richard S. Schweiker of Pennsylvania. Gov. Robert D. Ray of Iowa, the Ford supporter who is chairman of the committee, quickly agreed.

Then, as suddenly as the request had been made, Schweiker's staff notified Ray that the senator had a schedule conflict and would be unable to appear. They said Schweiker, a liberal Republican Reagan has tagged as his choice for a running mate, would submit a statement outlining his views.

A spokesman for Schweiker, reached at his office in Washington, said, "At no time did he (Schweiker) plan to go out there."

At the same time, Ford strategists scored a preliminary victory when the party rules committee voted to require delegates to abide by state laws requiring them to support primary election winners. Reagan had opposed the rule. His strategists hoped to convince some delegates bound to Ford to abstain during early balloting. The issue will come up again before the convention rules committee where Reagan has more support.

Since the convention vanguard arrived in Kansas City on Sunday, the Reagan forces have sprung a rapid-fire series of surprise moves designed to keep Ford off guard and to weaken the President's hold on party and convention machinery.

Mistrial Not Granted

LOS ANGELES (AP) — William and Emily Harris' trial judge, ignoring sworn accusations of prejudice and perjury against a jury member, refused to grant a mistrial Tuesday and allowed the jury's verdict to stand.

In a startling series of revelations at an unprecedented post-verdict inquiry, one alternate juror testified that the youngest member of the jury panel fashioned a "hangman's noose" out of cord or string.

In addition, five of the 16 jurors and alternates said they saw another man build a miniature gallows in a jury room on which he hung the Harrises in effigy.

Chief defense attorney Leonard Weinglass predicted the disclosures will ensure reversal of the Harris convictions on appeal. The Harrises were acquitted Monday on six counts of assault, but were convicted of two kidnapings, one robbery and two car thefts.

Weinglass told the judge, "I think both the court and the prosecution are sitting on a boiling cauldron, and no matter how hard you sit on the top of that cauldron the facts keep oozing out the sides that this was not a fair proceeding."

Ellen Hall, the last of 16 persons questioned in Tuesday's inquiry, drew gasps in the hushed courtroom when she quietly said she saw 26-year-old juror Jonathan Beres tie knots in a string to produce a "hangman's noose."

She said the incident occurred during jury selection in the Harris trial "in one of the jury rooms . . . where we had to wait awhile."

"Do you know his name?" asked Superior Court Judge Mark Brandler.

"Jonathan," she said.

The judge, implying she might be mistaken, asked if it might have been another man — a dismissed alternate who was identified as the architect of the miniature gallows.

She said she didn't know his last name. Pressed on the identification she said it was Beres, the only Jonathan on the jury.

"Whatever was done was just to pass the time and keep the group laughing, I think," she said.

But she indicated jurors who witnessed the noose tying were aware it was misconduct and told Beres not to leave the noose on the table because "it might be taken wrong."

"It was cute, but it wasn't right," she said.

Beres, the youngest juror, was questioned about prejudice before Mrs. Hall was called.

He told the judge he had seen a prospective juror, Patrick Shanahan, construct a miniature gallows and hang from it two paper dolls apparently representing the Harrises.

Brandler asked if he had seen anyone fashion a noose out of rope.

"No. Not a rope. I know what you're referring to," he said. "I saw paper dolls." He then identified Shanahan.

He made no mention of fashioning a noose himself.

After Mrs. Hall's testimony, Weinglass suggested an attorney be summoned to protect Beres' Fifth Amendment rights against self-incrimination during any further questioning. The judge ignored the suggestion.

She said she didn't know his last name. Pressed on the identification she said it was Beres, the only Jonathan on the jury.

"Whatever was done was just to pass the time and keep the group laughing, I think," she said.

But she indicated jurors who witnessed the noose tying were aware it was misconduct and told Beres not to leave the noose on the table because "it might be taken wrong."

"It was cute, but it wasn't right," she said.

Beres, the youngest juror, was questioned about prejudice before Mrs. Hall was called.

He told the judge he had seen a prospective juror, Patrick Shanahan, construct a miniature gallows and hang from it two paper dolls apparently representing the Harrises.

Brandler asked if he had seen anyone fashion a noose out of rope.

"No. Not a rope. I know what you're referring to," he said. "I saw paper dolls." He then identified Shanahan.

He made no mention of fashioning a noose himself.

After Mrs. Hall's testimony, Weinglass suggested an attorney be summoned to protect Beres' Fifth Amendment rights against self-incrimination during any further questioning. The judge ignored the suggestion.

Pickup Over Line; 7 Killed

DeWitt, Iowa (AP) — Only Gary Vance escaped with minor injuries when his sister, grandmother and five other persons died in a crash near DeWitt Vance was asleep amid bales of hay in the rear of a pickup truck when it collided with a car.

Vance told investigators that he was awakened by the impact and noise. He was greeted by a scene of devastation when he clambered over the side of the truck.

State Trooper Glenn Hedrick, DeWitt, said,"It was all burnt metal and bodies when I arrived. There were bodies all over the road."

The driver of the car, Terry Diffenderffer, 32, Clinton, was killed, as were three of his passengers: his wife, Jeannie, 19; Alan Berner, 22, Charlotte; and Debra Jo Delashmutt, Clinton. Another passenger, Terry Schroeder, 20, DeWitt, was taken to University Hospitals in Iowa City, where he was in serious condition.

The driver of the truck, Steven Rickertsen, 25, Charlotte, was taken to DeWitt Community Hospital in guarded condition. His wife, Delilah 25; Helen Vance, 69, Charlotte and her granddaughter, Debbie Vance, 16, Danville, were killed in the accident. Gary Vance, 13, Charlotte, brother of Debbie Vance, was in fair condition at the DeWitt hospital.

Hedrick said that, "The pickup truck, as far as we know, was going to the DeWitt fair." As far as the car was concerned, "we have no idea where they were going."

Hedrick explained that, "In this general area where the accident occurred, there is a very sharp curve. 'And (Diffenderffer)...drove to the left side of the highway in a skid and striking (Rickertsen)...headon. And we had witnesses that said he (Diffenderffer) was traveling at a high rate of speed and he just plain drove off the curve. It was a simple case of missing a curve."

The car careened into a ditch after it struck the pickup truck, said Hedrick, and caught fire.

Birmingham, Ala. (UPI) — Former Gov. James E "Big Jim" Folsom has been left almost blind by an apparent stroke last week, it was revealed.

Jack Folsom, son of the two-term former governor, said his father is legally blind and doctors feel there is only a 20% chance his sight will improve.

He said his 67-year-old father apparently suffered a mild stroke last week and was admitted to University Hospital.

"The right eye is damaged pretty bad," the younger Folsom said. "He can't get around without somebody helping him and he can't read. The eye is the only damage they have found so far."

The younger Folsom said his father, who was already blind in the left eye, was in Montgomery at the time of the apparent stroke. He said he believes it was brought on by Folsom's concern over a suit attacking a state law under which former governors are granted a pension.

Safety Board Looks Into 6-Fatality Crash

Cedar Point, Kan. (AP) — The National Transportation Safety Board has entered the investigation into the car-train crash here that claimed six lives Sunday.

"The crossing is bad," said Gerald Carpenter, a Cedar Point fireman and businessman. "It can't be seen until you're almost on it"

Railroad officials said the crossing is on a primary entrance to the city because of bridge repairs along what was the main road

The deaths of the six children, age 7 to 17, combined with the death of a young couple two weeks ago in a car-truck accident, have reduced the population of this town by nearly 10%.

"We're just a small Flint Hills town," said Mayor Dean Thompson. "You take eight young folks out of a community and it makes everyone stop and think."

National Transportation Safety Board officials, the Kansas Highway Patrol and Safety Board officials, the Santa Fe officials were to study the wreck Tuesday

Dead were the driver, Kevin L Cox, 17, and Kim E. Stahl, 14 Also killed were four members of the Edwards family, Brenda, 14, Rick, 13, Brad, 11 and Renee, 7

Pursuit Policies Differ

The issue of high-speed pursuits by police officers came up during a legislative hearing this week. Very apparent was the difference between the policies of the Omaha and Lincoln police departments.

Omaha Police Chief Richard Andersen, under questioning by Sen. Ernie Chambers of Omaha, defended his department's policy. Chambers charged that "Omaha police chases have resulted in death, injury and destruction of property . . . and none of them involved a felony violation."

Andersen said "the policy (allowing such chases) has to be broad. We need to rely on the judgment of officers, and they do make errors."

On the other side of the coin, Lincoln Police Chief George Hansen testified later that his department has a policy authorizing high-speed chase only as "the very last resort." Police officers are "discouraged" from employing such pursuit in misdemeanor cases, Hansen said.

High-speed pursuit incidents in Lincoln are not without tragedy, either, as the record will show. But Lincoln's restrictive policy as compared with Omaha's "broad" policy seemingly involves less risk. The Lincoln policy places its emphasis, in our opinion, on the safety of the officers and innocent bystanders.

Chambers said he would review the Lincoln police policy regarding high-speed chase as a possible guide to state legislation and he is well advised in doing so. Lincoln's policy of restraint is a proper model.

A Matter Of Too Much Work

It is reasonable for the Lincoln Railroad Transportation Safety District to implement a policy of restricting the full-time director to Lincoln district work only and banning outside employment.

There is a question of how much full-time work and outside consulting work one official can handle and if the district board wants to resolve the question by banning outside work, that is within the scope of its authority.

Furthermore, the board's decision ordering that the RTSD find office space of its own and not share space where there might be the appearance of a conflict of interest is a good move in our opinion.

But regarding the RTSD board's decision this week telling District Director John Longsdorf to either give up his outside consulting work or his full-time salaried position, a couple of points should be emphasized:

—Longsdorf has done nothing illegal and his contention that he was not involved in a conflict of interest, that he has done nothing unethical, seems to have substance.

—Longsdorf told the board last year he was going to do consulting work for the Norfolk and Hastings RTSDs. If the board misunderstood the scope of that outside work, that is partly its fault.

We were not sold on Longsdorf's original appointment because he was on leave from a railroad job and that, in our mind, opened up a possibility for a conflict of interest.

But it would appear that the only thing Longsdorf could be accused of in this instance is taking on too much work.

The "shock and dismay" expressed by board members on hearing of the extent of his consulting work was too much of a protest.

One can wonder if the outside consulting work was the real reason behind this flap.

Postcard Controversy

If postcard voter registration means that it would be easier for more Americans to exercize their right to vote, we're all for it.

What we can't determine right now is the potential for fraud involved in the mail registration program.

It is also apparent that opponents of Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter will seize on his advocacy of postcard registration as evidence that he wants to stack the voter lists to insure his election.

Perhaps it would be better if postcard registration were debated in Congress after the election in a less politically-charged atmosphere.

It is obvious, however, from whence comes the opposition: from election officials, who almost automatically oppose something new and from Republicans, who understand that new registrants are more likely to be Democrats.

As we said before, if postcard voter registration, given suitable protection against massive fraud, can improve on the dismal showings by Americans who stay away from the polls in droves, it is something to take seriously.

Set For Laughs

NEW YORK — There are fewer typographical errors, it seems to me, since body type is set automatically. Years ago compositors sat at big jangling machines sniffing pots of melted lead as they spelled out the newspaper stories line by line.

The machine was error proof, but the printers weren't. Some of us, working on newspapers, used to save the errors which induced instant white hair in editors. Dick Hyman composed a book of typos; mine are in a scrapbook.

Bear in mind that an error which does not give the sentence a meaning not intended is worthless:

A Wildwood, N.J., paper: "One of the most interested events for the ladies will take place when there is a petting and approach contest on the golf course." "The salary was good but I have a widowed mother living with men so I hesitated."

Sometimes the mistake is made by a sleepy reporter. One, writing for the St. Petersburg Evening Independent, typed: "If you want to go to Bermuda by air, take a plane. That's the best way to travel through the air."

The director of a beauty contest shouted, "I have fought for five years to get the bathing suits off the girls." Kansas readers noted this one: "A woman was overcome by gas while taking a bath but owes her life to the watchfulness of her janitor."

In Solano, California: "The police chief, who was wearing high top boots and was minus his uniform, exhibited his credentials." In Greensboro a paper stated: "Southern girls marry at an early urge." A social note stated: "Miss Brown played the old favorite, Carry Me Back to Old Virginity."

The Pittsburgh Press stated of its governor: "Mr. Fine wore a bow tie — all he ever wears." Sometimes we read hilarious home hints: "When she washes the dishes, he should wash the dishes with her. When she mops the floor he should mop up the floor with her."

The Pomeroy Democrat wrote: "For 59 years he practiced medicine, being responsible for most of the babies born in this community." "When Miss Smith awakened to find a burglar at her bedside, she gave him a shave and screamed for help."

In Knoxville: "Ten years ago, a gentleman wouldn't consider anything but pure white cotton shorts. Now the same man not only welcomes color, but enjoys a little frivolity in his drawers." An ad in Tucson: "Don't kill your wife. Let our Bendix washing machine do your dirty work."

A Western reporter covered an Indian encampment: "An Indian woman squatted over a fire and you could smell fresh meat cooking." Baby sitters are not immune to mistakes: "Middle-aged woman who enjoys boys by the hour, mostly at night."

Billboard, the theatrical weekly, made sense and nonsense in a few words: "Tamer wants tame lion." In Texas: "Bridegroom of three months dies in action." A Philadelphia headline: "Goose Given to President." And Boston: "Autos Killing 110 a Day; Let's Resolve to do Better."

☆ ☆ ☆

Waverly, Ohio, published a mystifying headline: "Former Girl Wins Top Honors in Dog Show." Sometimes the copy desk doesn't mean what it says: "Women Urged to Flatten Cans." The Montreal Herald was writing about a big ship when it announced: "Electric Girls on Queen Elizabeth Is Navel Secret."

"Mr. and Mrs. J. Brown announce the betrayal of their daughter." "The bride's father was dressed in mauve lace and a shell pink hat."

Once in awhile a newspaper will detect an error and correct it with a fresh error. This happened in a small town in Virginia. The original story read: "Colonel Eustis is well remembered as the battle scared veteran of the wars." The colonel, who was an old home boy, threated to horse-whip the editor. After much thought, the newspaper ran a correction: "Colonel Eustis is well remembered as the bottle scarred veteran of the wars."

Ford Vs. Carter On Unemployment

NEW YORK — President Ford said the other day that the major accomplishment of his administration had been a turnaround in the economy, with both inflation and unemployment having been reduced.

Well . . . yes, unemployment has been reduced, from 9.2% in May, 1975, to 7.3% in May, 1976, but it's been going up again for the last two months, to 7.5% in June and 7.8% in July. The record rise came in the wake of a confident White House pronouncement in July that the economy would improve at a faster rate for the rest of the year.

It's true that the rises in unemployment in June and July resulted mostly from an expansion in the work force — that is, to record numbers of new job-seekers coming into the market. It's also true that employment was up in July, by 410,000 to 87.9 million people with jobs.

Ford's claims for the economy, therefore, are not without basis; but there are a number of problems with his assessment, nevertheless:

—Politically, Ford can't now claim, as he has been doing, to have produced a clearly falling rate of unemployment; even if the rate declines again in August or September or both, the summer increase will have produced an unwelcome bulge in the curve and the yearly average.

—Besides, an expanding economy is supposed to be able to absorb an expanding work force; to say that the work force is expanding more swiftly than expected is only to say that the economy is not expanding as swiftly as needed.

—Even at the 7.3% unemployment rate for May, before the summer increases, not only were more people out of work than at any time since World War II, but individual categories within the overall figure were at astronomical levels — with the black unemployment rate, for example, nearly twice that of whites.

None of these figures, moreover, reflect the hundreds of thousands of discouraged persons who have simply quit looking for work, thus dropping out of the labor force. Black teen-age unemployment, a significant factor in both urban street crime and the future of American cities, is officially near 40%; but if black teen-age dropouts from the labor force were included, the figure probably would be nearer 60%.

On the assumption — still strongly disputed by Ronald Reagan — that Ford will be the Republican presidential nominee, his pride in his economic record will mark what appears to be the most clear-cut difference between him and the Democratic nominee, Jimmy Carter of Georgia.

From the WIN buttons of his first days in office to his veto of emergency jobs legislation this summer, Ford has placed his emphasis on reducing inflation, at whatever cost in unemployment. By all his pronouncements so far, by the Democratic Party platform and by the legislative record of his party, Carter is committed to shift the national emphasis toward putting people to work.

These are not necessarily mutually exclusive policy choices. It seems reasonably clear, however, that Ford's concern for inflation, expressed primarily through a hold-down in government spending, will not produce jobs at a rate fast enough to avoid excessive human costs; even his optimistic July forecast did not project an unemployment rate below 6% before 1978. It may well be, moreover, that high unemployment, with its attendant benefit costs and loss of tax revenues, increases the federal deficit more than spending programs.

Carter's commitment to employment, on the other hand, need not necessarily produce inflation. He has been unwilling to pledge himself to a goal of less than 3% adult unemployment — about a 4% overall rate — although some economists believe any target under 5% unemployment threatens inflation.

The conventional assumption is that high employment is the major cause of inflation, and therefore the prime remedy for inflation is unemployment. But this assumption leaves out of account other inflationary forces, such as the power of concentrated industries and strong unions to hold or push up prices and wages, regardless of the unemployment rate; and this assumption usually rules out what might be the necessary accompaniment to a full employment program, controls on wages and prices.

Carter does not seem to have rejected the conventional assumption. He is not talking about full employment at any cost, but in his decision to emphasize jobs above inflation, he has given voters a clear choice on one of the most important issues they face.

Protests MACOS

Lincoln, Neb.

Jerome Bruner, once a chief of psychological warfare during World War II, developed the MACOS course in the early 1960's. It was turned down by 50 publishers at that time because of its objectionable content and philosophy and not desired by American parents and children.

Behavioural psychologist B. F. Skinner also helped design the course.

It is interesting to note in the teachers' introduction to "MACOS," self-avowed French Marxist Claude Levi-Strauss states: "There is a justification for using children's lack of awareness and immaturity to share new values."

It makes me wonder why an "educational" course needed so many professionals with the talent of mind-manipulation to put it together.

We as taxpayers must protest paying for a course dealing with communal living, sexual permissiveness and promiscuity, violence, elimination of the weak and elderly in society, etc. I would rather my money is used for real education.

The Early Years

Lincoln, Neb.

There are tiny white replicas of the old windmill, made of wood. The wind nearly always blows in Nebraska, and the large ones turned in the wind. They were of steel construction, built at Beatrice, Neb. by the Dempster Company.

There was one on every farm to supply water for livestock and for human consumption. The water was cold and refreshing. We had one on the farm we rented for 28 years, east of Walton.

Our little cottage had seven rooms, all on one floor. There were three bedrooms and not a closet in the house. One room we called the parlor, for company only. There was a large dining-room and a large kitchen where we served meals for the family and the hired help, using a cob-and-wood-burning stove.

We lived through the times when crops were destroyed by drought and hail. We lived many winters on our egg and cream money. We sold corn for 10 cents a bushel, and eggs for 10 cents a dozen. It was not much, but it helped. It helped three kids get a college education so they could go out and earn what we call "cash."

We followed the slogan, "Waste not, want not."

Lincoln Alliance

Lincoln, Neb.

My attention has been called to The Star editorial of July 20, "Alliance: Friend Or Enemy?" In that editorial, the Alliance is charged with bringing to its member groups "a ruthlessness that none of them would likely have on its own."

These charges of ruthlessness are clearly unsubstantiated. As a member of the American Lutheran Church of Lincoln, and representative of that body in the Lincoln Alliance, I resent the implication that our church is somehow becoming "ruthless" because of our association with the Alliance.

As I try to understand the mind-set of the editorial, it occurs to me that where the word, "ruthlessness," is used, a more accurate substitute might be the word, "effectiveness," as: "The Alliance brings to these groups an effectiveness that none of them would likely have on its own." And perhaps that is what is really feared.

Citizens' participation in important decisions affecting the future of our community is sorely needed. I believe the Lincoln Alliance will make it possible for ordinary people who would otherwise have little influence to have a say in what goes on.

It's Hard To Get Good Help

Lincoln, Neb.

The Star recently ran an article on how Governor Exon didn't like the quality of convict sent to work at the governor's mansion. Well, Guv, you know how it is — you just can't get good help any more.

If the guv would cat at the prisoners' quarters some time, maybe he would understand why the poor and the powerless don't make good servants in that palace the taxpayers support.

But maybe he wouldn't. You know how hard it is to get good governors these days.

Plumbers Uncover Leaks

WASHINGTON — Ex-President Richard Nixon's infamous Plumbers, so named because of their efforts to plug White House news leaks, wound up their nefarious works with an investigation of congressional leaks.

Their purpose was to embarrass Nixon's detractors by portraying them as security risks. Instead, the plumbers found Washington so porous that they couldn't sort out all of the leaks. It was "difficult to prove," reported one of their investigators, that any given "leak came from the Hill."

The Plumbers' secret findings have a special significance today in light of all the excitement on Capitol Hill over leaks. The House Ethics Committee, suddenly more concerned about leaks than ethics, has invested $150,000 to find out who leaked a House report to CBS newsman Dan Schorr.

Earlier, the committee stopped short of condemning Rep. Michael Harrington, D-Mass., for an alleged leak. And now the Justice Department is investigating Rep. Robert Leggett, D.-Calif., for allegedly leaking classified information to the South Koreans.

☆ ☆ ☆

The White House Plumbers discovered three years ago that government information channels would spring leaks faster than anyone could plug them. The plumbers started out to investigate the leaks on Capitol Hill. Chief Plumber David Young sought the help of the Pentagon. He contacted Fred Buzhardt, then the Defense Department's general counsel, who assigned Pentagon investigator W. Donald Stewart to ferret out the security risks in Congress.

Stewart reported back on Feb. 13, 1973, that Capitol Hill was a sieve but that many of the leaks originated in the downtown agencies, including the Pentagon and the White House.

On the Hill, he found classified documents stored in ordinary cabinets, transmitted without the regulation double envelopes and scattered around offices for any visitor to see.

The Secretary of Defense hasn't given adequate instructions, Stewart suggested, "detailing what can be given or cannot be given to members of Congress or the procedures for transmitting classified documents."

Stewart found that government agencies often shower congressmen with classified information they don't want. "Many situations arise," he reported, "where members of Congress desire to 'dump' unwanted classified material on military liaison officers on Capitol Hill."

In a lengthy memo, Stewart cited a number of lax security practices in Senate offices. But invariably, he found that leaks had their beginning in the State Department, Defense Department or White House.

For example, he investigated a New York Times leak on July 23, 1971, about the arms limitations talks. He reported that the New York Times correspondent, William Beecher, had been referred by a State Department source to the office of Senator Henry Jackson, D-Wash.

The FBI, joining in the probe, spoke to two of the senator's employes. They admitted discussing the subject with Beecher but denied revealing the classified details.

Observed Stewart: "Circumstantial evidence would tend to point the finger at Sen. Jackson, as we had learned that a State Department briefing was held in his office on subject matter with him prior to the publication." But there was no proof.

☆ ☆ ☆

Stewart also suspected that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee had leaked information to reporters about U.S. bases in Spain. But before he could question the suspects, he was headed off by William Macomber, then an assistant secretary of state.

According to Stewart's memo, Macomber declared emphatically that then-Foreign Relations Chairman William Fulbright, D-Ark., "would not look favorably on such interviews." The investigation was halted in its tracks.

Stewart also failed to establish that his leading subject, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., leaked stories to the press about the spiraling costs of producing the Air Force C-5A transport plane.

But Stewart learned that the information came from some confidential charts that had been slipped to Proxmire by a person identified only as "hostile toward the Air Force."

Of course, the government uses the classification system to censor embarrassing news, which officials don't want the people to read. The government has the authority to classify embarrassing facts, the ability to shut off channels of information and the power to intimidate sources who could tell the truth.

Well . . . yes, unemployment has been reduced, from 9.2% in May, 1975, to 7.3% in May, 1976, but it's been going up again for the last two months, to 7.5% in June and 7.8% in July. The record rise came in the wake of a confident White House pronouncement in July that the economy would improve at a faster rate for the rest of the year.

It's true that the rises in unemployment in June and July resulted mostly from an expansion in the work force — that is, to record numbers of new job-seekers coming into the market. It's also true that employment was up in July, by 410,000 to 87.9 million people with jobs.

Ford's claims for the economy, therefore, are not without basis; but there are a number of problems with his assessment, nevertheless:

—Politically, Ford can't now claim, as he has been doing, to have produced a clearly falling rate of unemployment; even if the rate declines again in August or September or both, the summer increase will have produced an unwelcome bulge in the curve and the yearly average.

—Besides, an expanding economy is supposed to be able to absorb an expanding work force; to say that the work force is expanding more swiftly than expected is only to say that the economy is not expanding as swiftly as needed.

—Even at the 7.3% unemployment rate for May, before the summer increases, not only were more people out of work than at any time since World War II, but individual categories within the overall figure were at astronomical levels — with the black unemployment rate, for example, nearly twice that of whites.

None of these figures, moreover, reflect the hundreds of thousands of discouraged persons who have simply quit looking for work, thus dropping out of the labor force. Black teen-age unemployment, a significant factor in both urban street crime and the future of American cities, is officially near 40%; but if black teen-age dropouts from the labor force were included, the figure probably would be nearer 60%.

On the assumption — still strongly disputed by Ronald Reagan — that Ford will be the Republican presidential nominee, his pride in his economic record will mark what appears to be the most clear-cut difference between him and the Democratic nominee, Jimmy Carter of Georgia.

From the WIN buttons of his first days in office to his veto of emergency jobs legislation this summer, Ford has placed his emphasis on reducing inflation, at whatever cost in unemployment. By all his pronouncements so far, by the Democratic Party platform and by the legislative record of his party, Carter is committed to shift the national emphasis toward putting people to work.

These are not necessarily mutually exclusive policy choices. It seems reasonably clear, however, that Ford's concern for inflation, expressed primarily through a hold-down in government spending, will not produce jobs at a rate fast enough to avoid excessive human costs; even his optimistic July forecast did not project an unemployment rate below 6% before 1978. It may well be, moreover, that high unemployment, with its attendant benefit costs and loss of tax revenues, increases the federal deficit more than spending programs.

Carter's commitment to employment, on the other hand, need not necessarily produce inflation. He has been unwilling to pledge himself to a goal of less than 3% adult unemployment — about a 4% overall rate — although some economists believe any target under 5% unemployment threatens inflation.

The conventional assumption is that high employment is the major cause of inflation, and therefore the prime remedy for inflation is unemployment. But this assumption leaves out of account other inflationary forces, such as the power of concentrated industries and strong unions to hold or push up prices and wages, regardless of the unemployment rate; and this assumption usually rules out what might be the necessary accompaniment to a full employment program, controls on wages and prices.

Carter does not seem to have rejected the conventional assumption. He is not talking about full employment at any cost, but in his decision to emphasize jobs above inflation, he has given voters a clear choice on one of the most important issues they face.

Protests MACOS

Lincoln, Neb.

Jerome Bruner, once a chief of psychological warfare during World War II, developed the MACOS course in the early 1960's. It was turned down by 50 publishers at that time because of its objectionable content and philosophy and not desired by American parents and children.

Behavioural psychologist B. F. Skinner also helped design the course.

It is interesting to note in the teachers' introduction to "MACOS," self-avowed French Marxist Claude Levi-Strauss states: "There is a justification for using children's lack of awareness and immaturity to share new values."

It makes me wonder why an "educational" course needed so many professionals with the talent of mind-manipulation to put it together.

We as taxpayers must protest paying for a course dealing with communal living, sexual permissiveness and promiscuity, violence, elimination of the weak and elderly in society, etc. I would rather my money is used for real education.

The Early Years

Lincoln, Neb.

There are tiny white replicas of the old windmill, made of wood. The wind nearly always blows in Nebraska, and the large ones turned in the wind. They were of steel construction, built at Beatrice, Neb. by the Dempster Company.

There was one on every farm to supply water for livestock and for human consumption. The water was cold and refreshing. We had one on the farm we rented for 28 years, east of Walton.

Our little cottage had seven rooms, all on one floor. There were three bedrooms and not a closet in the house. One room we called the parlor, for company only. There was a large dining-room and a large kitchen where we served meals for the family and the hired help, using a cob-and-wood-burning stove.

We lived through the times when crops were destroyed by drought and hail. We lived many winters on our egg and cream money. We sold corn for 10 cents a bushel, and eggs for 10 cents a dozen. It was not much, but it helped. It helped three kids get a college education so they could go out and earn what we call "cash."

We followed the slogan, "Waste not, want not."

Lincoln Alliance

Lincoln, Neb.

My attention has been called to The Star editorial of July 20, "Alliance: Friend Or Enemy?" In that editorial, the Alliance is charged with bringing to its member groups "a ruthlessness that none of them would likely have on its own."

These charges of ruthlessness are clearly unsubstantiated. As a member of the American Lutheran Church of Lincoln, and representative of that body in the Lincoln Alliance, I resent the implication that our church is somehow becoming "ruthless" because of our association with the Alliance.

As I try to understand the mind-set of the editorial, it occurs to me that where the word, "ruthlessness," is used, a more accurate substitute might be the word, "effectiveness," as: "The Alliance brings to these groups an effectiveness that none of them would likely have on its own." And perhaps that is what is really feared.

Citizens' participation in important decisions affecting the future of our community is sorely needed. I believe the Lincoln Alliance will make it possible for ordinary people who would otherwise have little influence to have a say in what goes on.

It's Hard To Get Good Help

Lincoln, Neb.

The Star recently ran an article on how Governor Exon didn't like the quality of convict sent to work at the governor's mansion. Well, Gov, you know how it is — you just can't get good help any more.

If the guv would eat at the prisoners' quarters some time, maybe he would understand why the poor and the powerless don't make good servants in that palace the taxpayers support.

But maybe he wouldn't. You know how hard it is to get good governors these days.

Plumbers Uncover Leaks

WASHINGTON — Ex-President Richard Nixon's infamous Plumbers, so named because of their efforts to plug White House news leaks, wound up their nefarious works with an investigation of congressional leaks.

Their purpose was to embarrass Nixon's detractors by portraying them as security risks. Instead, the plumbers found Washington so porous that they couldn't sort out all of the leaks. It was "difficult to prove," reported one of their investigators, that any given "leak came from the Hill."

The Plumbers' secret findings have a special significance today in light of all the excitement on Capitol Hill over leaks. The House Ethics Committee, suddenly more concerned about leaks than ethics, has invested $150,000 to find out who leaked a House report to CBS newsman Dan Schorr.

Earlier, the committee stopped short of condemning Rep. Michael Harrington, D-Mass., for an alleged leak. And now the Justice Department is investigating Rep. Robert Leggett, D.-Calif., for allegedly leaking classified information to the South Koreans.

☆ ☆ ☆

The White House Plumbers discovered three years ago that government information channels would spring leaks faster than anyone could plug them. The plumbers started out to investigate the leaks on Capitol Hill. Chief Plumber David Young sought the help of the Pentagon. He contacted Fred Buzhardt, then the Defense Department's general counsel, who assigned Pentagon investigator W. Donald Stewart to ferret out the security risks in Congress.

Stewart reported back on Feb. 13, 1973, that Capitol Hill was a sieve but that many of the leaks originated in the downtown agencies, including the Pentagon and the White House.

On the Hill, he found classified documents stored in ordinary cabinets, transmitted without the regulation double envelopes and scattered around offices for any visitor to see.

The Secretary of Defense hasn't given adequate instructions, Stewart suggested, "detailing what can be given or cannot be given to members of Congress or the procedures for transmitting classified documents."

Stewart found that government agencies often shower congressmen with classified information they don't want. "Many situations arise," he reported, "where members of Congress desire to 'dump' unwanted classified material on military liaison officers on Capitol Hill."

In a lengthy memo, Stewart cited a number of lax security practices in Senate offices. But invariably, he found that leaks had their beginning in the State Department, Defense Department or White House.

For example, he investigated a New York Times leak on July 23, 1971, about the arms limitations talks. He reported that the New York Times correspondent, William Beecher, had been referred by a State Department source to the office of Senator Henry Jackson, D-Wash.

The FBI, joining in the probe, spoke to two of the senator's employes. They admitted discussing the subject with Beecher but denied revealing the classified details.

Observed Stewart: "Circumstantial evidence would tend to point the finger at Sen. Jackson, as we had learned that a State Department briefing was held in his office on subject matter with him prior to the publication." But there was no proof.

☆ ☆ ☆

Stewart also suspected that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee had leaked information to reporters about U.S. bases in Spain. But before he could question the suspects, he was headed off by William Macomber, then an assistant secretary of state.

According to Stewart's memo, Macomber declared emphatically that then-Foreign Relations Chairman William Fulbright, D-Ark., "would not look favorably on such interviews." The investigation was halted in its tracks.

Stewart also failed to establish that his leading subject, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., leaked stories to the press about the spiraling costs of producing the Air Force C-5A transport plane.

But Stewart learned that the information came from some confidential charts that had been slipped to Proxmire by a person identified only as "hostile toward the Air Force."

Of course, the government uses the classification system to censor embarrassing news, which officials don't want the people to read. The government has the authority to classify embarrassing facts, the ability to shut off channels of information and the power to intimidate sources who could tell the truth.

Petition Started After Men Quit

Valley (AP) — A petition drive calling for a hearing on the Valley Police Department has started in the wake of the resignation of its two former New York City policemen.

The petition said the pair quit because of "alleged practices and procedures" of Chief Richard Blitz. It noted they had been denied an opportunity to appear before the town council in this eastern Nebraska community of 1,600 persons.

Mayor John L. Sullivan had said the department would be on the agenda for Tuesday evening's meeting. But the two former officers and their attorney, J. William Gallup, were told that because of a requirement of the state's open meeting law, there was not sufficient notice to make the addition to the agenda public. As a result, the police department matter was not placed on the Tuesday agenda.

The city council agreed to hear from the officers at the next regular council meeting Sept. 7 at the request of Mayor Sullivan.

Anthony Maniaci, 23, and Joseph Phillipaitis, 23, were laid off by the New York department during its financial squeeze last year. They joined the Valley department in January.

In recent weeks, a friend said, the two have applied for employment with other area police departments, including Omaha, Waterloo and Ashland.

Maniaci said the two did not start the petition drive and "we're not fighting to get our jobs back."

Asked if he felt the two could serve under Blitz, he replied. "No."

He said the two had asked the mayor last week to be permitted to appear before the council. He said Mayor Sullivan told him the council did not want to hear them.

Maniaci said both he and Phillipaitis feel the department has "poor leadership and administration" but did not give specifics.

Mayor Sullivan said the two came to him.

"I told the council about it and asked if they wanted to hear them. They (the council) said no," Sullivan said.

The petition said the two men "have been denied an opportunity to address their grievances to the Town Council by a vote of the council."

The petition objected to "the continued operation of the Valley Police Department without a public hearing as to its administration, practices and qualifications and without adequate public accountability."

During the seven months, Maniaci said each man had been suspended once.

He said he did not arrest a man for damage to another's auto after the second owner said she would sign a complaint only if the man refused to pay damages. For that, Maniaci said, he was given three days suspension.

Phillipaitis was given three days, he said, for going home 45 minutes early one morning. At the time, he said, the two were working 45 hours a week without overtime pay.

On both occasions, Maniaci said, Blitz asked each man to work for the three days he was suspended.

Drama, Ideas Given At Conference

You couldn't see the soapbox, but there was speechifying galore as more than a dozen young people jumped at the chance to speak their minds to a captive audience of their peers.

On the final morning of the three-day Nebraska Council of Youth conference which brought 300 young people together at the Nebraska Center, a group of delegates mounted the speakers platform with prepared five-minute speeches on topics they'd been mulling over in their minds.

Tuesday's speakers ran the gamut from patriots and political buffs to cause-espousers and crowd-pleasing comedians. Some lectured and cajoled, while others sermonized or criticized. Some just plain entertained the quick-to-laugh listeners.

Gregg Munn of Valley came to the soapbox with an "IALAC" sign ("I am lovable and capable") — his homespun acronym for self-confidence.

Ripping pieces from his once-whole sign, he demonstrated how thoughtless remarks can tear into a person's self-confidence.

Into drama, chorus and band — "el super jock," he joked as he placed one of his high platform shoes on the podium — Greg asked his audience to "respect me for what I am and what my interests are and, in return, I'll respect you."

Margaret Griesse of Tobias, speaking out vigorously against abortion, was welcomed to the platform with a hearty applause from the audience.

"Think of yourselves," she told the group. "What if your parents had considered aborting you?" Expounding a moral argument against abortion, she concluded that pro-abortionists "are putting people on the level of table scraps."

Touching another angle, Rebecca Dunbar of Lincoln posed some convincing arguments against over-population.

Diana Noland of Omaha, took issue with forced busing which will have her two sisters riding 10 miles across town instead of walking two blocks to the neighborhood school.

"Next the government might tell us where we can live and what our job will be," she argued.

Inequities in the electoral college system occupied the thoughts of J. Karl Scholo of Lincoln. "I think it's time our vote counts the same as a vote in Texas," he said.

Matt Lawver of Weston, criticized the fleeting bicentennial whoopla and Americans who have settled back into "political apathy." He urged his listeners to participate in the political process.

An optimist who admits that even winners lose some of the time, Janice Kluck of Schuyler, deliberated on "Ten Ways to Throw in the Towel or How to be a Good Loser." If all else fails, she suggested, just cry.

Colleen Dutch of Omaha had her listeners straining to catch every word as she started into her talk — "A Serious Question — What Makes A Hooker So Happy." Her "hookers," however, turned out to be fishermen and butchers' apprentices.

Councilwoman's Post Gets Her An Invitation

Grand Island (AP) — City Councilwoman Lou Ann Snyder will have her cake and eat it too.

She objected to plans by her six fellow city councilmen to ignore a city ordinance and move the time of the Aug. 23 council meeting from 7:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. so the six could attend a stag party.

As a result, Mayor Oscar Bredthauer assured Mrs. Snyder that he would get her an invitation to the party given annually by the Central Nebraka Engineers Club.

She agreed to go, but won her argument that the meeting time could not be changed because of the ordinance.

So the six men and Mrs. Snyder will arrive late for the stag.

"The only reason you are all invited to the affair is because you are all on the council," she said. "I'm on the council too and I've never been invited. It's out and out discrimination," Mrs. Snyder said before winning her invitation.

Touching another angle, Rebecca Dunbar of Lincoln posed some convincing arguments against over-population.

Diana Noland of Omaha, took issue with forced busing which will have her two sisters riding 10 miles across town instead of walking two blocks to the neighborhood school.

"Next the government might tell us where we can live and what our job will be," she argued.

Inequities in the electoral college system occupied the thoughts of J. Karl Scholo of Lincoln. "I think it's time our vote counts the same as a vote in Texas," he said.

Matt Lawver of Weston, criticized the fleeting bicentennial whoopla and Americans who have settled back into "political apathy." He urged his listeners to participate in the political process.

An optimist who admits that even winners lose some of the time, Janice Kluck of Schuyler, deliberated on "Ten Ways to Throw in the Towel or How to be a Good Loser." If all else fails, she suggested, just cry.

Colleen Dutch of Omaha had her listeners straining to catch every word as she started into her talk — "A Serious Question — What Makes A Hooker So Happy." Her "hookers," however, turned out to be fishermen and butchers' apprentices.

Councilwoman's Post Gets Her An Invitation

Grand Island (AP) — City Councilwoman Lou Ann Snyder will have her cake and eat it too.

She objected to plans by her six fellow city councilmen to ignore a city ordinance and move the time of the Aug. 23 council meeting from 7:30 p.m. to 5 p.m so the six could attend a stag party.

As a result, Mayor Oscar Bredthauer assured Mrs. Snyder that he would get her an invitation to the party given annually by the Central Nebraka Engineers Club.

She agreed to go, but won her argument that the meeting time could not be changed because of the ordinance.

So the six men and Mrs. Snyder will arrive late for the stag.

"The only reason you are all invited to the affair is because you are all on the council," she said. "I'm on the council too and I've never been invited. It's out and out discrimination," Mrs. Snyder said before winning her invitation.

Despite Blindness, Staplehurst Woman Pursuing Guidance Role

PULLING WEEDS . . . gives Miss Kunasek time to think.

By TOM COOK
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Staplehurst — Being blind is keeping Jan Kunasek from doing something she has always had a hankering to do.

Before she can help handicapped children and their parents learn to live a normal life, Miss Kunasek believes she must live one herself.

"Handicapped people don't feel like standing in the corner anymore," she said. "Handicapped people can make a choice on what they want to do with their lives."

Taking the guidance counselor's post in the Tecumseh Public School system this fall fits well into the University of Nebraska-Lincoln master of arts graduate's first love: working with youth.

After completing her undergraduate work in 1972, Miss Kunasek decided to teach for two years, required for certification as a counselor, before pursuing her master's at UNL.

About 100 applications later, Miss Kunasek was angered, but not defeated.

"I couldn't believe the ignorance of people," she said. "They wrote back asking if I could climb stairs, cook for myself and even claimed I would be an insurance risk. I don't know how they thought I got through college."

Finally with the help of a counselor she knew from the days at the Nebraska School for the Visually Handicapped, Miss Kunasek landed a social studies and English teaching job at St. Mary's Junior and Senior High in O'Neill.

There were problems, but the community responded beautifully, she said.

"There were some kinds who tried to sneak out of class, but I told them, look, I trust you, and you have to trust me. If you pull that kind of stuff the trust is blown."

Miss Kunasek made sure a tattletale system didn't develop, but relied on students for help.

"There are naturally those that want to help out," she said. "Just as there are those who want to take advantage."

Besides using her landlady to read assignments to her for grading purposes, Miss Kunasek also sought and received the assistance of students' parents.

"It worked in a twofold way," she said. "It helped me, and the parents were more than glad to see the kind of work the kids were doing."

If it was an opinion-type assignment, Miss Kunasek made sure a neutral person read it to her, so the student would not be intimidated.

Needing a reader during her college days provided an education for Miss Kunasek's mother and father, who farm near Staplehurst.

"I learned a lot by reading to her, much more than when I was younger and in school," Mrs. Charles Kunasek said.

Most of the time Miss Kunasek was able to order taped books in advance of her college courses.

"When the professor decided to change books on me at the start of a session, it was maddening," she said. "But I'd just stand up and say I need a reader. In fact, I got a lot of dates that way."

Miss Kunasek lost her sight as an infant and attended the State School for the Visually Impaired from kindergarten through high school, spending the week in Nebraska City.

"There wasn't any place I could have gotten a better education," she said. "But it was rough, and I got terribly homesick. A week at a time is an interminably long amount of time for a 5-year-old to fathom."

Miss Kunasek favors keeping handicapped children in public school when facilities and teachers are available to help them.

"There will come a day when the visually handicapped will be able to go to public school," she said. "But right now, I don't think so."

She attributes much of her success to her family, and hopes one day to help other parents of handicapped children to learn what her parents knew "naturally."

"The home is the reference point for social life, love and understanding," she said. "Acceptance must come from the family for a person with a handicap to learn to accept himself."

Miss Kunasek is nervous about her new job, "but no more nervous than anyone with a new job would be."

"I'm me. I'm a person," she said. "Whether I have a handicap or not shouldn't matter."

Next summer she hopes to fulfill another lifelong dream by touring Europe. It's a lot of people's hope, but chances are Jan will make it her reality.

First Bus Ride To Sunday School Ends In Cemetery

Palisade (AP) — Cindy Jo Minary celebrated her third birthday last Friday with cake and ice cream and a wish to attend Sunday school.

Tuesday morning, lying side by side in the same coffin with her 7-year-old sister, Debra Kay, Cindy Jo was buried in a tiny cemetery southeast of here, bounded on three sides by a corn field.

The girls were the daughters of Kenneth and Sandra Minary of Stratton and were among nine Stratton residents killed Sunday when a Burlington Northern freight train slammed into a church school bus.

Eight other children, including Anna Marie Minary, 4, were injured. Anna Marie remains hospitalized in serious, but stable, condition.

An overflow crowd of more than 200 persons, many of them young children, attended the funeral services at the Church of Christ in Palisade, about 30 miles north of Stratton.

The tiny sanctuary of the small, white-frame church is in need of paint. It was filled and more than 70 persons were forced to sit or stand in the church basement where Sunday School is conducted.

Another 15 or 20 persons could not squeeze even into the basement. They stood in the hot sun and listened to the services through the open front door.

The blue-grey metal casket sat before the raised dais in the light green sancturay. A large spray of pink and cream-colored chrysanthemums, interspersed with white daisies and baby breath, adorned the coffin.

About 20 other floral tributes were displayed in the sanctuary, including two which spelled out the names of the girls.

Tears silently rolled down the checks of some in attendance as Pastor Lloyd Overby of the Imperial Church of Christ consoled the family and the other mourners.

Pastor Overby did not attempt to explain why the children died.

He described Debra Kay as a "lively 7-year-old who loved swimming and softball and other things girls of her age enjoy." He then described the happiness of Cindy Jo's birthday last Friday, saying the girl had decided she was now old enough to attend Sunday School with her older sister.

"Aug. 8 was her first trip on the church bus," Pastor Overby said. "We are here to face a reality. . . death . . . it shows no favorites," he said. "Let your hope overcome your grief . . . for there are yet those in the family living."

The pastor urged the Minarys to "devote your love to them."

He then read the Lord's Prayer and other familiar phrases from the Bible, then read a poem from the Book of Issiah, which Mrs. Minary had given him.

The poem was the story of a shepherd who was trying to get his flock across a river. The animals balked until Jesus picked up one tiny lamb and carried the lamb into the water to the "distant shore." The other animals then followed.

There was no music or singing during the simple 30-minute service.

At the graveside ceremonies, attended by many children, Pastor Overby said, "My vocabulary is limited to give you the comfort you should have."

Dressed in blue pants, a striped shirt and no tie, Minary, his eyes reddened and downcast, listened silently to the minister. His wife, in a green dress and white shoes, sobbed quietly and bit her lip.

When the services were complete, Pastor Overby helped the family away from the grave.

Services for four of the other children killed in the crash are scheduled for today at Stratton High School.

They were Holly Schoenberger, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Schoenberger; and three of the five children of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Scarrow — Steven 3, Julianna, 4, and Jennifer, 7.

The bodies of Pastor Thomas B. Nerren, 44, the bus driver, his wife, Shirlene, 31, and their son, Thomas, 8, were flown to Abingdon, Va., for services Thursday.

Ex-Omahan Will Face S.D. Kidnaping Charge

Omaha (AP) — A former Omahan, Martin Dean Harless, was ordered removed to South Dakota Monday to face federal kidnaping charges, the U.S. attorney's office said.

Harless, 25, who escaped from a federal penal institution in Englewood Colo., was indicted by a federal grand jury in Sioux Falls.

Harless, a native of Sioux City, Iowa, was arrested in Omaha July 22 and was charged with kidnaping and extortion in connection with the July 17 abduction of a 13-year-old Flandreau, S. D., girl. The girl was found in an apartment not far from where Harless was arrested.

The FBI said the girl and her alleged abductor traveled to Omaha by car and that she was forced to call her parents several times to demand a ransom. The parents mailed $1,000 in marked bills to an Omaha address, a move which aided authorities in locating the girl.

Harless, who escaped from the Colorado prison in April, had served about two years of a seven-year sentence for kidnaping and assaulting a Sioux City woman.

South Dakota authorities have set Harless' bond at $25,000.

Panhandle Wheat Up This Year

Sidney (AP) — Increased acreage and higher than expected yields have led wheat experts to describe the 1976 crop in the Panhandle as gigantic.

A survey of county agents and others place the 1976 crop at 745,500 bushels above the 1975 estimate and more than five million bushels higher than the 1974 total.

Wheatmen said during the past two years, the acreage in 11 western counties has grown by about 46,500 acres to account for most of the increase in total bushels.

The 1976 crop is placed at 30,600,500 bushels, compared with a 1975 estimate by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service's (ASCS) headquarters in Lincoln of 29,855,000 bushels. The ASCS final figure for 1975 was 25,172,500 bushels.

Nearly every county in the Panhandle grew wheat on more acres this year than last. An exception was Sheridan, where the acreage declined by 6,000 bushels.

Had the crop been sold at harvest when the price was around $3 per bushel, it would have grossed nearly $92 million, but since that time it has tumbled to around $2.75, costing the farmers about $7.6 million.

Woman's Suit Claims Sex Bias

Omaha (AP) — An Omaha woman whose application for a job as a police officer in Papillion was denied in 1974 filed a sex discrimination lawsuit Mmnday in U.S. District Court.

In her suit, Maureen Parks Murphy said she applied for one of two openings on the Papillion department in February 1974.

Mrs. Murphy took all necessary written and oral tests and ranked second on a list of applicants from which the Papillion City Council eventually hired two officers, the suit said.

In keeping with a recommendation by Police Chief Fred Biesecker, the council hired the first and third ranking applicants, both men, and bypassed Mrs. Murphy, the suit said.

Mrs. Murphy's suit alleges she was denied employment on the basis of unlawful sex discrimination. She asked the federal court to award her $100,000 in damages and loss of income.

The case has been assigned to Judge Robert Denney. Thomas Monaghan is Mrs. Murphy's attorney

Sister Isabel Not Retired Yet

SISTER ISABEL . . . came to America in 1910 at 21.

Text by Cynthia Johnson

A diminutive figure clad in traditional nun's garb, Sister Isabel could have stepped from a painting into this world.

Her face is lined with 87 years of love and caring and patient serenity. Her hands speak volumes.

With just a hint of an accent that belies her German birth, Sister Isabel summarizes her life's achievements in one simple sentence: "That I am a Benedictine sister, that's the most important."

Sister Isabel has been a Benedictine for the better part of this century, serving missions in North and South Dakota and Nebraska.

Quick to tell you that she is not "retired," she has, for the past ten years or so, worked at the Madonna Professional Care Center.

Born in 1889 in Wurttemberg, Germany — "it was a kingdom in the old days" — Sister Isabel came to America in 1910 with eight other novices — young women who had not yet taken their religious vows.

Their destination was the Sacred Heart Convent in Yankton, S.D.

Sister Isabel had heard about the convent from a woman in her home town, and from that moment on she wanted to be a Benedictine and a member of the Sacred Heart Convent.

About two weeks after arriving in South Dakota, she was assigned to work in the kitchen at a Benedictine school in Hoven, S.D. And, she adds with a laugh, "I was in the kitchen ever since."

Sister Isabel worked as a cook in a number of Benedictine schools in North and South Dakota. The sisters still remember the delicious bread she used to bake, says Sister Phyllis Hunhoff, Madonna director.

"I was never, never homesick," Sister Isabel says, even though she saw her parents, brother and sister for the last time when she left Germany at the age of 21.

She still speaks fondly of the beautiful forests of her homeland. But when asked if she would repeat her decision to come to America, she responds, "Oh sure, where else would I find the Sacred Heart Convent?"

Although Sister Isabel no longer cooks or bakes that special bread, she has few idle moments.

Her days are filled with caring for the flowers and plants at Madonna, mending clothing, tending to her parakeet Gretel and feeding the "outdoor" birds and squirrels leftover bread crusts she rescues from the Madonna kitchen.

She has no intention of going back to the Sacred Heart Convent to retire — although the residents would welcome her there.

"I'll stick it out as long as I can," she says, adding with a smile, "I'm tough."

Sister Isabel Not Retired Yet

SISTER ISABEL ... came to America in 1910 at 21.

Text by Cynthia Johnson

A diminutive figure clad in traditional nun's garb, Sister Isabel could have stepped from a painting into this world

Her face is lined with 87 years of love and caring and patient serenity. Her hands speak volumes

With just a hint of an accent that belies her German birth, Sister Isabel summarizes her life's achievements in one simple sentence. "That I am a Benedictine sister, that's the most important."

Sister Isabel has been a Benedictine for the better part of this century, serving missions in North and South Dakota and Nebraska

Quick to tell you that she is not "retired," she has, for the past ten years or so, worked at the Madonna Professional Care Center

Experimental Tooth Transplants Tried At UNL

By JIM CAMDEN
Star Staff Writer

Kenny Watmore, 10, of 3815 S. 44th, used to have two extra front teeth; now he has a transplanted smile.

Kenny, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Watmore, is the beneficiary of some experimental work by Dr. Frank Monsour, a professor at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Dr. Monsour, a visiting instructor who recently returned to his native Australia, performed several tooth transplants at UNL in the past year as demonstrations for dental students.

Tooth transplants are becoming more and more common in Australia, Dr. Monsour said. "In the last 10 years, it's become predictably successful," he added.

But transplants are relatively new to the Midwest, said Dr. Max Martin, who assisted Dr. Monsour on some of the operations and is keeping an eye on the patients' progress now that Dr. Monsour has gone.

The operation involves removing a decayed or damaged tooth and replacing it with a similar tooth from somewhere else in the patient's mouth. Usually a wisdom tooth is used to replace another decayed molar.

"The nice thing about a transplant is it's not a sacrifice," Martin said. "The bad tooth has to come out anyway."

But Kenny Watmore's case was a little different. One of his front teeth, or incisors, was actually two teeth fused together. Behind another front incisor an extra tooth was growing. Instead of two front teeth, Kenny really had four.

Dr. Monsour removed the fused incisors in April. Then in May, he removed the extra tooth and transplanted it in the hole.

Now Kenny wears a brace around the tooth, and is careful about eating such things as apples. But otherwise, he has two good front teeth.

Dr. Monsour has had a high degree of success with his transplants, Dr. Martin said, and usually the teeth don't look any different from others in a patient's mouth.

In most cases, "if you didn't know it was done, you wouldn't have known it from looking at them," he said.

But transplants are not the cure for all decayed teeth, Dr. Martin said. The root structure of the tooth and the bone structure of the jaw has to be right. The patient's age is also a factor.

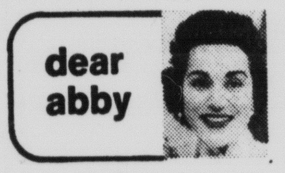
And the transplant has to be the same kind of tooth from the same side of the mouth. That's why wisdom teeth, basically useless teeth, are often used to replace other molars, Dr. Martin said.

Since all of Dr. Monsour's transplants were done as school demonstrations, cost to patients was minimal. Dr. Martin said he wasn't sure what such an operation would cost if performed in a private office.

The transplants may become more common locally with more research at the NU Dental College and more demonstrations for the students. Dr. Martin said he definitely was going to try one in the near future, and possibly a couple more.

And someday, when a youngster pipes up with, "All I want for Christmas is my two front teeth," a dentist might say, "It can be arranged."

Young Man Worries About His Fat Behind



DEAR ABBY: I am a 21-year-old male who needs your help with an embarrassing problem. It's my behind. It is enormous! I'm 5 foot 8 and weigh 180.

I work out three times a week at a health club and am in pretty good shape except for the abovementioned. I've tried every conceivable exercise and diet I've come come across, but I can't seem to lose any of the flab back there.

It's just plain fat, Abby, and no amount of exercise can firm it up.

Someone told me that it can be removed by surgery. Is that so? I don't care if the operation is painful and leaves a scar. Anything would be better than hauling around ths outsized caboose all my life. I'm not exaggerating; I look practically deformed. It's so bad I hate to go to the beach.

If this kind of operation can be done, who would do it?

A YARD OF LARD

DEAR YARD: A plastic surgeon. (But try to find one who doesn't mind getting a little behind in his business.)

DEAR ABBY: I live in an apartment building. Directly above me lives a woman and her 11-year-old son. He takes piano lessons and hates to practice, so her idea of the ideal punishment is to make him practice "extra time."

Lately he has been punished a lot, but I am being punished more. I have been hearing "The Blue Danube Waltz" in my sleep

The mother is a music lover, and she's decided that her son is going to learn to love music if it kills him.

Please print this. I know my neighbor reads your column, because every time you knock smokers she cuts out the article and sticks it in my mailbox. (I smoke.)

Thanks a million.

HIGHLAND PARK HEADACHE

DEAR HEADACHE: If your neighbor wants her son to hate music, she's going about it in exactly the right way. Now, stick this in HER mailbox, and lotsa luck!

Opening lead — king of clubs.

One of the most important principles of dummy play is founded on what is called Murphy's Law. According to this Law, declarer assumes that anything that can go wrong will go wrong.

Here is an example of the principle at work. West leads a club against four spades and declarer wins with the ace. South then plays the ace of spades and, after both defenders follow low, continues with the deuce of spades!

It is obvious from South's low trump play that he is a firm believer in Murphy's Law. He makes this unusual play because he realizes that the only real threat to the contract is the possibility of finding the trumps divided 4-1.

So, in an effort to guard against this danger as well as he can, South plays a low trump at trick three. When West shows out declarer plays the nine from dummy, losing the trick to East's jack. Declarer later enters dummy with a diamond and takes a trump finesse to wrap up the contract. His only losers are two diamonds and one trump.

Note that if the trumps prove to be divided 3-2, South loses nothing by his deuce of spades play. The opponents get a trump trick early rather than late, and the safety play proves to be unnecessary.

Note also that the safety play is ineffective if it turns out that West is the player with the Q-J-8-4 of trumps instead of East. Even Murphy's Law would not help in that case, because the contract would go down whatever South did. Actually, this possibility should be ignored by declarer, who should concern himself only with matters over which he can exercise control.

Book Buy

In the Sunday Parade section I read some information about the book "The Washington Fringe Benefit" by Elizabeth L. Ray. I know it's in paperback but haven't been able to find it locally. Who publishes the book?

—R.H.N., Hebron

ACTION LINE: Dell Publishing Co. is printing the paperback version of Miss Ray's book according to a Lincoln bookstore. If your local bookstore doesn't have a copy it probably can order one. Or you can write Dell Publishing Co., 1 Dag Hammaraskjold Plaza, 245 E 47th St., New York, New York 10017 to obtain the book.

Dry Season

There's been a lot of talk about drought in Lincoln this year. It seems to me, though, that we've had quite a bit of rain. How do the precipitation amounts shape up for Lincoln for this year?

—Curious, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: To date Lincoln is below normal in precipitation for the year, but is not as dry as in previous years. In January, Lincoln received .36 inch of rain — .26 below normal. From February through April, an above average amount of rainfall brought the yearly rainfall amounts to nearly two and a half inches above normal. In May the precipitation deficit began with a reading of 3.03 for the month — .46 inch below normal levels. A total of only .63 inch of rain for June brought a monthly deficit of 4.36 below normal. June was the second driest June on record since the climatology division at the university has kept records. In July a below-normal 1.59 inches of rain increased the yearly moisture deficit. Since 1878, there have been 15 Julys that have had as much or less rainfall than recorded in July 1976. For the year, Lincoln's rainfall is nearly three inches below normal. Not a record-breaker for a year yet.

Sales Pitch

We own a few parcels of land in Texas and New Mexico and were recently contacted by the Continental Marketing Services of Miami, Fla. offering to sell the property for us. They asked that we send the commission before they sell the property. Is this right? I thought real estate agents collected their commission after their sales were made.

—D.E.H., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: The Cornhusker Better Business Bureau supplied ACTION LINE with a report from the Better Business Bureau of South Florida. Regarding the marketing services corporation, the Florida BBB says it is issuing warnings to all persons "to be cautious of these (sales) offers as it (BBB) has not observed any sales of any consequence." Requests have been made to Florida authorities to prohibit this type of promotion in the state. The statement adds that there are real estate brokers who will attempt to sell property without charging an advance fee.

Recipe Cards

I ordered a set of Betty Crocker Step by Step Recipe cards with the knowledge that I could cancel my order for more at any time. After the first set I decided to cancel and sent a letter to this effect when I paid for the first set. Since then I have received several more sets. I've returned them, but I'm still being billed. What can I do to stop these from coming?

—Mrs. G.K., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Mrs. Dixon in customer service said the file does show you requested a cancellation after the first set. She wasn't sure why you continued to receive cards, but said that they would take care of the cancellation and check on the returned sets.

Cost of Funerals

ACTION LINE: Deaths and funerals are two of the least discussed subjects. Yet at some time, everyone will have to make decisions on funeral arrangements for a family member or close friend. The average cost of a funeral and burial in the United States is estimated at $2,000. The Federal Trade Commission has published a new booklet that explains what may or may not be necessary funeral expenses and ways to cut down on this cost. The booklet also explains terms common to death related industries and information on traditional burial, cremation and body donation. Reynolds To Give State Aluminum Time Capsule

Gov. J. James Exon will accept a bicentennial time capsule Aug. 23, to be filled with materials of the day and opened 99 years later on July 4, 2075.

The Reynolds Metal Co. of Richmond, Va., will present the capsule in 2 p.m. ceremonies in the governor's Capitol hearing room. It is one of 56 bicentennial gifts to the states, the District of Columbia and U.S. territories.

W. H. Honaker Jr. of Chicago, Reynolds Metals vice president, will make the presentation to Exon.

Weighing almost 100 pounds, the cylinder is made of a recyclable aluminum alloy protected from humidity and salty air by a layer of aluminum oxide.

The container has room for nearly two cubic feet of materials. To preserve them, the container will be sealed after being charged with argon gas. That will prevent oxidation of cellulose (the main part of the cell walls of a substance) and metal. Oxidation normally occurs when oxygen and moisture are present.

The cylinder will rest inside a square box marked with a special insignia.

The Nebraska American Revolution Bicentennial Commission made the announcement. Exon aide Norm Otto said the governor is selecting members for a committee "who will help determine what kind of documents will go into this capsule."

Otto said permanent location of the capsule will also be decided. Possibilities for the secure display include the Capitol or State Historical Society. An NARBC spokesman also mentioned the new state office building in Lincoln.

To Your Good Health:

Severe Injury Can Interrupt Senses Of Smell, Taste

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 68 years old. I had a bad fall last summer and have been without my taste and smell ever since. Everything tastes and smells horribly. I have to force myself to eat.

I was examined by three doctors, had many brain scans and x-rays, but they found no damage to my head or brain. I asked if there is anything they could do to get my smell and taste back, but they shake their heads and say they can't do anything.

I hope you can give me some advice about this.—W.M.

A severe injury, and even an infection as with a bad cold, can interrupt these senses of smell and taste — senses we don't appreciate until they are gone. For older folks it can mean more than just the loss of dinner table enjoyment. They must be careful about many things — the escape of gas from a stove, the edibility of leftovers, etc. — all of which depend on the senses.

Smell and taste work together. Most of us associate a certain food with a certain odor. For some, food must be just the right texture and color to taste right. All of this means that some pretty sophisticated nerve systems are involved, including body chemical balance. Also, with aging these senses seem to be less sharp.

There is really little in the way of help. Time usually brings a return. There have been reports of some success with zinc sulfate. I hesitate to suggest it because there are no guarantees, but it might be worth investigating. A neurologist might be able to help you investigate the possibility.

☆ ☆ ☆

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My baby girl was born with six toes on one foot. All the rest of her is normal, and she is real pretty and sweet. The doctor said it was inherited. No one on either side of the family ever saw or heard of it.

I've been advised to have the toe removed. What do you think?—R.T.

This bit of genetic "misformation" could have occurred on either side of the family long enough back in time to be lost to present memory. Or perhaps it never occurred before and this is its first appearance.

Surgery will spare her embarrassment or difficulty in walking later on. Consult an orthopedist about the timing of the surgery.

HEALTH TIP

FROM THE NEBRASKA MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

A cataract is a clouding of the lens which lies behind the pupil of the eye.

Though some children are born with cataracts which may not be detected until later in childhood, cataracts more often occur in adults 50 and over. They may, however, occur any time after age 35.

Symptoms are a milky cloudy eye lens.

When vision is reduced, cataract surgery becomes necessary. New surgical techniques permit the cataract to be removed at almost any time. It is necessary for the person who has had a cataract removed to wear either contact lenses or bifocal glasses.

The Nebraska Medical Association says that a blow or tiny puncture wound will cause a cataract in an eye. Because of the injury, the eye becomes inflammed and a white opacity develops in the pupil. Other cataracts develop because of low-grade chronic inflammation on the inside of the eye.

POSTCARD
by Stan Delaplane

Mendocino — Men from Maine settled this rockbound coast, so like the country they came from. When redwood built San Francisco — (and rebuilt it three times when it burned down) — the lumber men grew rich. They built ornate, gingerbread mansions.

When concrete replaced lumber, little towns like Mendocino went into a long sleep.

The winter storms ripped off the redwood shingles. Peeled the fading paint. Windows broke. Shutters hung flapping on rusty hinges. The storming rain poured into the homes.

I went over to Heritage House for dinner the other night. It was built as a farmhouse in 1877 for settlers by the name of Pullen. Bought in 1949 by Don Dennen, a fourth generation descendant of the first people to come to the redwood country.

He built the resort. Turned the apple warehouse into a recreation room. The beams came from an abandoned water tower in Mendocino. (No water towers are abandoned in Mendocino nowadays. They've been taken over by artists.)

The floor came from an old store in Fort Bragg.

You could pick it up and put it down in Maine and nobody would be the wiser. The Pacific splashes in white foam at the bottom of 300-foot cliffs.

☆ ☆ ☆

I came here a good many years ago. It was remote land. A few Californians were discovering it for weekends. The population sign at the beginning of town said: "Mendocino. Pop. 669."

There were only a few sheep farms and collapsed buildings along the rocky cliffs where Highway 1 edges the Pacific.

Now there are new, rich homes — the prices would astound the lumber kings.

There are more art galleries probably than in San Francisco.

Dennen did a lot of research into north coast history. In the course of it, he found out some things about Heritage House.

"A ship went down off Point Arena a number of years ago," Dennen said. "There were some divers around trying to raise it. Well, one of them was up here, and he asked me if he could take a look around."

The diver had been in the rum running business, Dennen said.

"He came into the old house and he said: 'Yes, this is the place all right. George used to sit there.' And he pointed to a place in the dining room.

"He said: 'There was a big table with a couple of pistols on it. That was where they laid out the money. George passed it out.' "

☆ ☆ ☆

The diver told Dennen they used to boat the liquor off the rum ships in the cove.

"Then we'd winch it up the cliff on a cable."

In 1934, the diver saw a story in the newspaper. Two FBI agents had been killed in a gun battle near Chicago. Dying, they killed famous George "Baby-Face" Nelson. He died in the arms of his gun moll.

The paper had his picture: "Baby-Face Killed!"

The diver said: "It was George."

☆ ☆ ☆

On these summer nights, the fog drifts through the redwoods. Down the cliff you can see the white water rushing up the rum runners' cove. On the cliffs, Dennen used to have the rusty winch and cable. Probably still has.

2% Increase In Air Fares OKd

Washington (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board on Tuesday approved a 2% increase in air fares for travel within the United States, effective next month.

The hike, effective in the 48 contiguous states, had been requested by all domestic trunk and local airlines, the CAB said. A spokeswoman said the rate increase can take effect Sept. 15.

The 2% increase would raise the cost of a coach ticket between New York and Los Angeles from $188 to $192.

The National Passenger Traffic Association had filed a complaint opposing the increase, charging that the airlines have had fare hikes totaling 8% since November.

That was dismissed by the CAB, however.

Book Buy

In the Sunday Parade section I read some information about the book "The Washington Fringe Benefit" by Elizabeth L. Ray. I know it's in paperback but haven't been able to find it locally. Who publishes the book?

—R.H.N., Hebron

ACTION LINE: Dell Publishing Co. is printing the paperback version of Miss Ray's book according to a Lincoln bookstore. If your local bookstore doesn't have a copy it probably can order one. Or you can write Dell Publishing Co., 1 Dag Hammaraskjold Plaza, 245 E 47th St., New York, New York 10017 to obtain the book.

Dry Season

There's been a lot of talk about drought in Lincoln this year. It seems to me, though, that we've had quite a bit of rain. How do the precipitation amounts shape up for Lincoln for this year?

—Curious, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: To date Lincoln is below normal in precipitation for the year, but is not as dry as in previous years. In January, Lincoln received .36 inch of rain — .26 below normal. From February through April, an above average amount of rainfall brought the yearly rainfall amounts to nearly two and a half inches above normal. In May the precipitation deficit began with a reading of 3.03 for the month — .46 inch below normal levels. A total of only .63 inch of rain for June brought a monthly deficit of 4 36 below normal. June was the second driest June on record since the climatology division at the university has kept records. In July a below-normal 1.59 inches of rain increased the yearly moisture deficit. Since 1878, there have been 15 Julys that have had as much or less rainfall than recorded in July 1976. For the year, Lincoln's rainfall is nearly three inches below normal. Not a record-breaker for a year yet.

Sales Pitch

We own a few parcels of land in Texas and New Mexico and were recently contacted by the Continental Marketing Services of Miami, Fla. offering to sell the property for us. They asked that we send the commission before they sell the property. Is this right? I thought real estate agents collected their commission after their sales were made.

—D.E.H., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: The Cornhusker Better Business Bureau supplied ACTION LINE with a report from the Better Business Bureau of South Florida. Regarding the marketing services corporation, the Florida BBB says it is issuing warnings to all persons "to be cautious of these (sales) offers as it (BBB) has not observed any sales of any consequence." Requests have been made to Florida authorities to prohibit this type of promotion in the state. The statement adds that there are real estate brokers who will attempt to sell property without charging an advance fee.

Recipe Cards

I ordered a set of Betty Crocker Step by Step Recipe cards with the knowledge that I could cancel my order for more at any time. After the first set I decided to cancel and sent a letter to this effect when I paid for the first set. Since then I have received several more sets. I've returned them, but I'm still being billed. What can I do to stop these from coming?

—Mrs. G.K., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Mrs. Dixon in customer service said the file does show you requested a cancellation after the first set. She wasn't sure why you continued to receive cards, but said that they would take care of the cancellation and check on the returned sets.

2 Counties Mailed Checks Based Upon Indian Lands

By United Press International

The first checks issued under a new law designed to fully implement the reformed version of Nebraska's so-called "Indian bounty law" have been mailed out.

The checks totaled $109,705 and were issued by the State Department of Administrative Services to Knox and Thurston Counties, both of which contain Indian lands, and the Nebraska Indian Commission.

On the books for years was a law that allowed the two counties to collect state money to run their jails, based on the number of Indians held in them. The idea was to help the counties replace the property tax revenue they lost by virtue of having Indian reservations within their boundaries.

Indian groups contended the law amounted to a bounty on Indian prisoners but the counties said they had to have the assistance or go under. A standoff on the issue occurred until 1974.

In that year, a new law was passed under the guidance of then State. Sen. Duke Snyder of Omaha. The per-prisoner bounty was taken out and a formula was adopted which gave the counties jail operations money based on the taxable value of Indian lands they had.

But also adopted in the law was a provision designed to encourage establishment of alcohol rehabilitation programs. County officials said that was the major reason they had so many Indians in jail in the first place.

The money allocated was to be split between jails and rehabilitation at the discretion of the counties.

During this year's session, lawmakers decided neither county discretion nor the money available was adequate and they changed the law again, this time separating financing of jail operations and rehabilitation.

Thurston County received $48,758 in subsidies for law enforcement and jail operations while Knox County received $24,379.

In addition, the Indian Commission received $36,568 for alcohol rehabilitation programs for both counties. Of that amount, $24,379 will be used in Thurston County for programs on the Winnebago and Omaha reservations and $12,189 will be used in Knox County on the Santee reservation.

The total dollars available for both law enforcement and jails and rehabilitation are based on the taxable value of land included in the reservations as was provided for in the 1974 law.

Law enforcement and jail operations get an amount equal to 30 mills on the dollar of assessed valuation and half again that amount is earmarked for rehabilitation.

Administrators Set To Discuss School 'Basics'

School administrators from across the state will discuss the "basics" during a three-day conference which opens at the Radisson Cornhusker in Lincoln Wednesday.

New administrators will spend Wednesday touring the State Department of Education offices and meeting with consultants to learn the functions of the department, sponsors of the conference.

Two nationally known educators will be the keynote speakers at Thursday and Friday sessions. Dr. Ralph Tyler will speak on "A Look at Basics, Past, Present and Future," Thursday morning at 9 a.m. Tyler is one of the founders of the National Assessment of Educational Progress and is currently serving as a consultant with Science Research Associates.

Dr. Robert Howsam, Dean of the College of Education at the University of Houston, will speak on "Teacher Education, Today and Tomorrow," Friday at 9 a.m.

Grand Island School Bond Issue Sought

Grand Island (AP) — The Northwest High School Board of Education has unanimously approved its 1976-77 budget and called for a bond issue to replace the sinking fund eliminated from that budget.

The proposed budget totals $1,087,050, including general fund appropriations of $962,050. The general mill levy will increase by 3.23 mills, but the total increase for the district is only 1.18 mills. That results from the discontinuance of the 2.88 mill sinking fund levy in the current budget.

In a statement to voters in the district, the board said the sinking fund levy, even if it was expanded to the four mills allowed by law, would not pay for the necessary building program. Instead, the board said it would drop that sinking fund and seek a bond issue, probably in the Nov. 2 general election.

Ship Orders Lowest

London (AP) — The number of new ships on order throughout the world is at its lowest level in six years, Lloyds Register reported.

Investigation Of Murder Of Roselli Requested

Washington (AP) — The Senate Select Committee on Intelligence asked the Justice Department on Tuesday to investigate the murder of John Roselli, a mobster who had told Senate investigators about his involvement in CIA plots to kill Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

A committee spokesman also confirmed that Roselli had made a secret appearance in April before Senate investigators probing the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Roselli's body was identified Sunday after it had been found in a chain-wrapped oil drum floating in Biscayne Bay off Miami. Dade County, Fla., officials said Roselli had died of asphyxiation and called it a gangland-style slaying.

'The Last 50 The Hardest'

Twins Falls, hIdaho (AP) — "The last 50 were the hardest," two Twin Falls boys agreed after trying to establish a world record for chewing gum balls.

Kent Heindel, 14, and Mark Akkerman, 12, each chewed 201 gum balls during the weekend in hopes of getting their mark in the Guinness Book of World Records. The book does not now contain such a listing.

They said they started with a few and gradually added to them. Their feat took three hours.

Hospitals Doubt Any Saving To Be Passed On

By The Associated Press

Another wrinkle developed Tuesday in the Legislature's effort to get some understanding of whether medical malpractice insurance rates for hospitals in Nebraska are too high.

The Public Health Committee heard nearly three hours of testimony, during which the Nebraska Hospitals Association said that, while some insurance costs have declined, others have increased.

That means there may be no savings to pass on to the public in terms of lower health care costs, NHA Executive Director Stuart Mount told the committee.

Omaha Sen. John Cavanaugh said he was "absolutely stunned" by Mount's testimony.

The thrust of the testimony boiled down to this:

Insurance Director Benjamin Nelson said that, on basic malpractice insurance rates, an increase of 150% has been allowed. Initially, the increase was 300%, but Nelson ordered that cut in half after a study by his department showed such a hike was unjustified.

Mount agreed with him on that point.

However, Mount then said that the savings of up to $500,000 for the state's hospitals apparently may be eaten up by increases in the cost of what is called "excess" malpractice insurance coverage, the amount hospitals buy after they purchase the basic.

Nelson testified again, saying he couldn't say for certain if Mount was right or wrong.

He said that "in some cases, many cases," the excess insurance premium is tied to the basic, and therefore the excess rate could drop accordingly.

Under questioning from Cavanaugh, Nelson said his department is involved in a study to determine if the excess rates are too high. The same kind of study led to the reduction in the basic rate increase.

"The hospitals realized a savings of up to $500,000 and now we are being told that that savings can't be passed on to the people of Nebraska," Cavanaugh said. "I find that incredible and intolerable."

Regarding testimony that the excess increase might more than outdistance the basic insurance savings, Cavanaugh said, "I think that that is untrue and if it is true it is unjustifiable."

"There is no reason why this savings should not be passed on to consumers," Cavanaugh said.

Cavanaugh urged Nelson to complete the study on excess insurance rates as soon as possible.

He also had high praise for Nelson for the initial study done by the Insurance Department that led to the cut in the increased premiums.

Nelson told the committee that, on basic malpractice coverage, the situation in Nebraska has improved for hospitals and is stable for doctors.

Last year the Legislature was concerned that malpractice insurance might become unavailable and passed legislation that proponents said was aimed at providing a better climate for insurance.

2 Counties Mailed Checks Based Upon Indian Lands

By United Press International

The first checks issued under a new law designed to fully implement the reformed version of Nebraska's so-called "Indian bounty law" have been mailed out.

The checks totaled $109,705 and were issued by the State Department of Administrative Services to Knox and Thurston Counties, both of which contain Indian lands, and the Nebraska Indian Commission.

On the books for years was a law that allowed the two counties to collect state money to run their jails, based on the number of Indians held in them. The idea was to help the counties replace the property tax revenue they lost by virtue of having Indian reservations within their boundaries.

Indian groups contended the law amounted to a bounty on Indian prisoners but the counties said they had to have the assistance or go under. A standoff on the issue occurred until 1974.

In that year, a new law was passed under the guidance of then State. Sen. Duke Snyder of Omaha. The per-prisoner bounty was taken out and a formula was adopted which gave the counties jail operations money based on the taxable value of Indian lands they had.

But also adopted in the law was a provision designed to encourage establishment of alcohol rehabilitation programs. County officials said that was the major reason they had so many Indians in jail in the first place.

The money allocated was to be split between jails and rehabilitation at the discretion of the counties.

During this year's session, lawmakers decided neither county discretion nor the money available was adequate and they changed the law again, this time separating financing of jail operations and rehabilitation.

Thurston County received $48,758 in subsidies for law enforcement and jail operations while Knox County received $24,379.

In addition, the Indian Commission received $36,568 for alcohol rehabilitation programs for both counties. Of that amount, $24,379 will be used in Thurston County for programs on the Winnebago and Omaha reservations and $12,189 will be used in Knox County on the Santee reservation.

The total dollars available for both law enforcement and jails and rehabilitation are based on the taxable value of land included in the reservations as was provided for in the 1974 law.

Law enforcement and jail operations get an amount equal to 30 mills on the dollar of assessed valuation and half again that amount is earmarked for rehabilitation.

Administrators Set To Discuss School 'Basics'

School administrators from across the state will discuss the "basics" during a three-day conference which opens at the Radisson Cornhusker in Lincoln Wednesday.

New administrators will spend Wednesday touring the State Department of Education offices and meeting with consultants to learn the functions of the department, sponsors of the conference.

Two nationally known educators will be the keynote speakers at Thursday and Friday sessions. Dr. Ralph Tyler will speak on "A Look at Basics, Past, Present and Future," Thursday morning at 9 a.m. Tyler is one of the founders of the National Assessment of Educational Progress and is currently serving as a consultant with Science Research Associates.

Dr. Robert Howsam, Dean of the College of Education at the University of Houston, will speak on "Teacher Education, Today and Tomorrow," Friday at 9 a.m.

Grand Island School Bond Issue Sought

Grand Island (AP) — The Northwest High School Board of Education has unanimously approved its 1976-77 budget and called for a bond issue to replace the sinking fund eliminated from that budget.

The proposed budget totals $1,087,050, including general fund appropriations of $962,050. The general mill levy will increase by 3.23 mills, but the total increase for the district is only 1.18 mills. That results from the discontinuance of the 2.88 mill sinking fund levy in the current budget.

In a statement to voters in the district, the board said the sinking fund levy, even if it was expanded to the four mills allowed by law, would not pay for the necessary building program. Instead, the board said it would drop that sinking fund and seek a bond issue, probably in the Nov. 2 general election.

Investigation Of Murder Of Roselli Requested

Washington (AP) — The Senate Select Committee on Intelligence asked the Justice Department on Tuesday to investigate the murder of John Roselli, a mobster who had told Senate investigators about his involvement in CIA plots to kill Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro

A committee spokesman also confirmed that Roselli had made a secret appearance in April before Senate investigators probing the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Roselli's body was identified Sunday after it had been found in a chain-wrapped oil drum floating in Biscayne Bay off Miami. Dade County, Fla., officials said Roselli had died of asphyxiation and called it a gangland-style slaying.

Hospitals Doubt Any Saving To Be Passed On

By The Associated Press

Another wrinkle developed Tuesday in the Legislature's effort to get some understanding of whether medical malpractice insurance rates for hospitals in Nebraska are too high.

The Public Health Committee heard nearly three hours of testimony, during which the Nebraska Hospitals Association said that, while some insurance costs have declined, others have increased.

That means there may be no savings to pass on to the public in terms of lower health care costs, NHA Executive Director Stuart Mount told the committee.

Omaha Sen. John Cavanaugh said he was "absolutely stunned" by Mount's testimony.

The thrust of the testimony boiled down to this:

Insurance Director Benjamin Nelson said that, on basic malpractice insurance rates, an increase of 150% has been allowed. Initially, the increase was 300%, but Nelson ordered that cut in half after a study by his department showed such a hike was unjustified.

Mount agreed with him on that point.

However, Mount then said that the savings of up to $500,000 for the state's hospitals apparently may be eaten up by increases in the cost of what is called "excess" malpractice insurance coverage, the amount hospitals buy after they purchase the basic.

Nelson testified again, saying he couldn't say for certain if Mount was right or wrong.

He said that "in some cases, many cases," the excess insurance premium is tied to the basic, and therefore the excess rate could drop accordingly.

Under questioning from Cavanaugh, Nelson said his department is involved in a study to determine if the excess rates are too high. The same kind of study led to the reduction in the basic rate increase.

"The hospitals realized a savings of up to $500,000 and now we are being told that that savings can't be passed on to the people of Nebraska," Cavanaugh said. "I find that incredible and intolerable."

Regarding testimony that the excess increase might more than outdistance the basic insurance savings, Cavanaugh said, "I think that that is untrue and if it is true it is unjustifiable."

"There is no reason why this savings should not be passed on to consumers," Cavanaugh said.

Cavanaugh urged Nelson to complete the study on excess insurance rates as soon as possible.

He also had high praise for Nelson for the initial study done by the Insurance Department that led to the cut in the increased premiums.

Nelson told the committee that, on basic malpractice coverage, the situation in Nebraska has improved for hospitals and is stable for doctors.

Last year the Legislature was concerned that malpractice insurance might become unavailable and passed legislation that proponents said was aimed at providing a better climate for insurance.

Nebraska Keeps Economic Pace

In April, the Nebraska economy maintained much the same pace of improvement over 1975 as it achieved in March.

April's total dollar volume of economic activity was 11.5% above that of April 1975. The cumulative dollar volume for the first four months of 1976 was 10.4% ahead of the same period in 1975. This was a slight improvement over a 10% increase recorded for the first three months of this year compared with the same period of 1975.

Writing in the August issue of "Business in Nebraska," Duane Hackmann of the Bureau of Business Research in the University of Nebraska-Lincoln College of Business Administration notes that "the strengths and weaknesses of the various sectors of the state's economy were much the same in April as in March, except that both dollar and physical volume indexes for the agricultural sector were not as much above year-ago levels in April as in March."

Nevertheless, the agricultural indexes were further above their 1967 base levels in April than in March.

Manufacturing activity continued to rise moderately, but the distributive and government sectors showed little change. Construction activity, already well below last year's level, dropped even more because of a nonresidential building decline which more than offset an increase in residential construction.

The rate of improvement in the volume of economic activity appears to be greater at the national level than for Nebraska. Generally, the state's economy has been above 1975 levels less often than the national economy during the first four months of this year, although Nebraska still is well ahead of the nation when compared with 1967 levels.

Retail activity, as measured by the dollar volume of net taxable retail sales deflated for price-level rise, continues at levels well above last year's, although not quite as much as those for March. April's real volume of sales was 12.4% ahead of the same month last year after being ahead by 19.2% in March. The four-month, year-to-date volume was 14.4% ahead of the same period in 1975 after being ahead by 15.2% for the first three months of 1976.

Net taxable retail sales of Nebraska planning and development regions and cities (deflated for prices changes):

Douglas County Board Delays Fee Payment

Omaha (AP) — The Douglas County Board Tuesday held up payment of legal fees for a county official convicted of malfeasance in office.

The motion by Commissioner William Green to delay payment pending further study passed 4-0, with Commissioner George Buglewicz absent.

County Clerk Lloyd Kilmer wants taxpayers to pay his $5,098.78 legal bill for his defense in a 1974 criminal case he lost.

The board delayed action after County Atty. Donald Knowles challenged payment at this time. Knowles told newsmen earlier he thought it would be illegal for the county to pay the bill.

After the meeting, board chairman Michael Albert said he will ask the state attorney general for an opinion.

Albert said that since Knowles, a Democrat, prosecuted Kilmer, a Republican, in the case, it would be best to get an independent opinion.

"If a county official does something wrong inadvertently while in office, then I would defend him," Knowles said. "But if they shoot their brother or rape their sister I don't think the county should pay for it."

Knowles said he was exaggerating to point out the difference between a county official incurring criminal liability and a county official doing something illegal or wrong that he didn't know was illegal or wrong.

Knowles did not challenge the amount of the fee, which attorney Edward Fogarty said is for 160 hours of legal work.

Kilmer defended his request that the county pay the bill.

Replying to Knowles, Kilmer said, "If they (commissioners) are going to get an opinion, it ought to be a totally independent opinion, an unbiased opinion.

"The county attorney was the adversary in this matter," Kilmer said.

Fogarty said that after research, he advised Kilmer to submit the bill to the County Board for payment.

State law says that public officials sued for omissions in their performance should be provided a defense by the county, Fogarty said.

Nebraska Keeps Economic Pace

In April, the Nebraska economy maintained much the same pace of improvement over 1975 as it achieved in March.

April's total dollar volume of economic activity was 11.5% above that of April 1975. The cumulative dollar volume for the first four months of 1976 was 10.4% ahead of the same period in 1975. This was a slight improvement over a 10% increase recorded for the first three months of this year compared with the same period of 1975.

Writing in the August issue of "Business in Nebraska," Duane Hackmann of the Bureau of Business Research in the University of Nebraska-Lincoln College of Business Administration notes that "the strengths and weaknesses of the various sectors of the state's economy were much the same in April as in March, except that both dollar and physical volume indexes for the agricultural sector were not as much above year-ago levels in April as in March."

Nevertheless, the agricultural indexes were further above their 1967 base levels in April than in March.

Manufacturing activity continued to rise moderately, but the distributive and government sectors showed little change. Construction activity, already well below last year's level, dropped even more because of a nonresidential building decline which more than offset an increase in residential construction.

The rate of improvement in the volume of economic activity appears to be greater at the national level than for Nebraska. Generally, the state's economy has been above 1975 levels less often than the national economy during the first four months of this year, although Nebraska still is well ahead of the nation when compared with 1967 levels.

Retail activity, as measured by the dollar volume of net taxable retail sales deflated for price-level rise, continues at levels well above last year's, although not quite as much as those for March. April's real volume of sales was 12.4% ahead of the same month last year after being ahead by 19.2% in March. The four-month, year-to-date volume was 14.4% ahead of the same period in 1975 after being ahead by 15.2% for the first three months of 1976.

Net taxable retail sales of Nebraska planning and development regions and cities (deflated for prices changes):

Douglas County Board Delays Fee Payment

Omaha (AP) — The Douglas County Board Tuesday held up payment of legal fees for a county official convicted of malfeasance in office.

The motion by Commissioner William Green to delay payment pending further study passed 4-0, with Commissioner George Buglewicz absent.

County Clerk Lloyd Kilmer wants taxpayers to pay his $5,098.78 legal bill for his defense in a 1974 criminal case he lost.

The board delayed action after County Atty. Donald Knowles challenged payment at this time. Knowles told newsmen earlier he thought it would be illegal for the county to pay the bill.

After the meeting, board chairman Michael Albert said he will ask the state attorney general for an opinion.

Albert said that since Knowles, a Democrat, prosecuted Kilmer, a Republican, in the case, it would be best to get an independent opinion.

"If a county official does something wrong inadvertently while in office, then I would defend him," Knowles said. "But if they shoot their brother or rape their sister I don't think the county should pay for it."

Knowles said he was exaggerating to point out the difference between a county official incurring criminal liability and a county official doing something illegal or wrong that he didn't know was illegal or wrong.

Knowles did not challenge the amount of the fee, which attorney Edward Fogarty said is for 100 hours of legal work.

Kilmer defended his request that the county pay the bill.

Replying to Knowles, Kilmer said, "If they (commissioners) are going to get an opinion, it ought to be a totally independent opinion, an unbiased opinion.

"The county attorney was the adversary in this matter," Kilmer said.

Fogarty said that after research, he advised Kilmer to submit the bill to the County Board for payment.

State law says that public officials sued for omissions in their performance should be provided a defense by the county, Fogarty said.

Medical Association Underpaid Postage

Washington (AP) — The American Medical Association submitted false reports to the Postal Service for 4½ years, allowing it to underpay postage bills by as much as $450,000, an AMA lawyer says.

The admission of the false reports and underpayments was made in an Aug. 13, 1975, letter to the AMA legal department from Lee M. Mitchell, an attorney for the AMA.

The Associated Press obtained a copy of the letter, and Mitchell confirmed its authenticity.

The letter is among the AMA documents given to the Postal Service by an unidentified man believed to be a former AMA employe. The Postal Service announced last month after receiving the documents that it was reopening an investigation of possible fraud by the AMA.

Mitchell's letter to the AMA legal department advised that:

"The AMA may be charged with having submitted false reports of (Journal of the American Medical Association, the organization's weekly magazine) circulation to the Postal Service in violation of the United States Criminal Code."

He recommended the AMA go to postal officials and acknowledge the erroneous reports, which AMA officials subsequently did. However, no additional postage has been paid, AMA spokesman Joseph Breu said in Chicago.

The issue concerns a legal requirement that organizations with second-class mailing permits distribute no more than 10 per cent of their circulation as free sample copies. Copies exceeding the sample copy limitation must be mailed at a higher postage rate.

The false reports came after the AMA board of directors decided in 1970 to expand the JAMA circulation by sending free copies to physicians who were not AMA members, the letter said.

"These persons were to receive the publication without cost, apparently with the goal of increasing JAMA's attractiveness to advertisers by adding to its circulation physicians who were high-volume subscribers of drugs and medical devices," Mitchell said.

However, the AMA in reports to the Postal Service understated its nonpaid circulation by about 30,000 to 40,000 copies per issue for a 230-week period ending in 1974, the letter said.

"We would estimate that postage was underpaid during the period in question by between $299,000 and $450,000," it said. The letter said fines for the false reports "could be as much as $117,000."

Mitchell said his review was only of JAMA, but "we believe these issues may also be relevant to 10 AMA specialty journals and to AMA's Today's Health magazine."

Rhodesians Assault Camp In Mozambique

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Rhodesian forces killed more than 300 "terrorists" in what a government communique issued Tuesday called a hot-pursuit raid on a black guerrilla base in neighboring Mozambique.

Informed sources said the attack was a helicopter assault on a camp about three miles inside Mozambique.

The operation was a major escalation of the conflict between Rhodesia's white-minority government and Marxist-oriented Mozambique, which is helping train guerrillas to fight the Salisbury regime.

Some 30 Mozambican soldiers and "about 10 civilians who were supporting the terrorists" also were killed in the raid Sunday, the communique said. It added:

"During the course of this operation it was necessary to destroy a roadblock and bridge. Further casualties were inflicted.

"In this action the Rhodesian forces suffered no casualties apart from slight injuries."

The communique did not say if Rhodesian warplanes had provided cover for the attack nor did it give the location.

Rhodesia announced Monday that it would follow a policy of hot pursuit after guerrillas killed four white soldiers the day before in a mortar barrage on a military outpost near the frontier.

There was no immediate comment from Mozambique and the raid was not reported by Mozambique radio stations. There also was no statement from white-ruled South Africa, Rhodesia's chief ally.

Mozambique and Rhodesia share an 800-mile border, and Mozambique has been a springboard for guerrilla hit-and-run attacks on Rhodesian outposts and farm centers for nearly four years.

The border was closed by Mozambique in March, after a bombing raid in February on one of its villages by Rhodesian planes, and since then Mozambican and Rhodesian soldiers frequently have exchanged shots across the border.

Sunday's helicopter assault was the third raid into Mozambique since February acknowledged by the Salisbury government. Mozambique claims there have been others.

Many Rhodesians, especially those living near the border, have been demanding reprisal raids against the string of bases in Mozambique where it is estimated that some 6,000 guerrillas are being trained.

Blacks Give Money Back To Carter Campaign

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The Baptist Ministers' Union of Oakland and the Mount Zion Missionary District Association have returned the $2,000 they received from Jimmy Carter's campaign organization.

Each group had been given $1,000.

"We assumed that this was to be expense money disbursed through the black clergy for workers in the campaign," the Rev. J. L. Richard, who heads both groups, said in a brief statement.

"The questionable implications currently being suggested becloud our original good intentions."

Sanderson, Bader Quit Jobs At UNL

Dr. Kenneth L. Bader, vice chancellor for student affairs at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, has resigned to become chief executive officer of the American Soybean Association in October.

The appointment was announced by Seymour Johnson, president of the association, at the group's annual meeting in Kansas City.

Bader will direct the association's staff of 42 persons located throughout the world. The association is engaged in soybean market development in foreign countries.

During the past four years, Bader had been responsible for student development, housing, academic services, Nebraska Union, minority affairs and the Student Health Service at UNL. His salary at UNL is $36,750.

Winn Sanderson, budget officer of the University of Nebraska system, also announced his resignation.

Sanderson will become senior executive vice president of Medsa, Inc., a Lincoln-based holding company for nine subsidiaries.

Sanderson said the job change would also enable him to accept the presidency of a nonprofit corporation, Institutional Policy Analysis in Education. He had not been able to accept that position while employed by the university.

About Tough Schedules

Much is being made of Missouri's tough nonconference schedule. You might say the same thing in an opposite way about the schedule facing Nebraska, Kansas and Iowa State.

Let's assume the Cornhuskers' schedule for 1976 was drawn up eight to 10 years ago. Louisiana State was 6-3-1 in 1967, 7-3 in 1968 and 9-1 in 1969. At the same time, Nebraska was having 6-4, 6-4 and 9-2 years.

You can even make a point in Indiana being on the schedule. The Hoosiers were 9-1 in 1967, cochampions of the Big Ten and ranked No. 4 in the nation. They had the same record as the Huskers in 1968.

Texas Christian had a couple of seasons during that period when it tied for second and third in the Southwest Conference.

Miami, playing much the same back-breaking schedule it does now, went 7-3 in 1967, losing one of them 24-22 to a Notre Dame team that went 8-2.

All four of NU's nonconference opponents are coming off losing seasons: LSU 4-7, Indiana 2-8-1, TCU 1-10 and Miami 2-8. That doesn't make the competition easy, especially when you consider that LSU almost was good enough to beat the Huskers last season.

IU Scared Buckeyes

Indiana improved late in the year, barely falling to Ohio State's then top-rated Buckeyes in the final quarter, gaining a tie with Wisconsin, and losing to Michigan State 14-6 and Purdue 9-7.

Texas Christian ended the year by beating Rice 28-21 after falling in a tight one to Texas A&M earlier by 14-6. Miami falls in the same class with LSU as far as tough schedules are concerned. Remember, the Hurricanes led Nebraska at the half here last season.

Here are the nonconference opponents of other Big Eight teams this season, with last year's records in parenthesis:

Iowa State: Drake (3-8), at Air Force (2-8-1), Kent State (4-7) and Utah (1-10).

Kansas: Washington State (3-8), Kentucky (2-8), at Oregon State (1-10) and Wisconsin (4-6-1).

Kansas State: at Brigham Young (6-5), at Texas A&M (10-2), Wake Forest (3-8), and at Florida State (3-8).

Missouri: at Southern Cal (8-4), Illinois (5-6), at Ohio State (11-1), and North Carolina (3-7-1).

Colorado: at Texas Tech (6-5), at Washington (6-5), Miami, Fla. (2-8), and Drake (3-8).

Okalhoma: At Vanderbilt (7-4), Florida State (3-8), California (8-3), and Texas (10-2).

Big Eight Notes

Big Eight teams went 28-4 in nonconference play last season before losing three of four bowl games. The league was produced at a 131-42-2 record against outsiders in the last five years. Starting in 1971, and Big Eight teams went 28-8-1, 25-12, 27-7-1 and 23-11 before last year.

Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer, discussing his offensive backfield recently at Kansas City: "We've got nobody like Joe Washington and I hope nobody else in the league has, but we've got some young backs that looked great in high school and looked good as freshmen. In time, they'l be good, with a style of their own to get things done."

Switzer mentioned Billy Sims, Kenny King, George Crumby, Woody Shepard, and Tom Lott and said "all are very talented young backs."

Sooner assistant coach Don Jimerson, speaking to an Oklahoma broadcasters group recently, said: "Our offensive team probably will be as good as we have had, especially in the backfield." That would be pretty good.

Swinging Into The Nationals

The Lincoln Swingers wait Tuesday at the Lincoln Municipal Airport for the plane trip to the National Junior High girls softball tournament this week at Binghampton, N.Y. The girls raised most of the expense money for the trip to the tourney. The Swingers won the state tourney championship two weeks ago while the Lincoln Joys placed second in the meet held at North Platte.

Holmes Rated Toughest Course

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

The toughest golf course in Lincoln in relation to par?

It all depends on the tees you use, according to results of the Nebraska Amateur Golf Association's course rating project which recently was completed.

It's Holmes Park if you play from the blue championship tees. It's the Hillcrest Country Club if you use the normal men's tees. And, it's the Lincoln Country Club from the ladies' tees.

As a result of the survey, which cost NAGA about $2,000, handicaps of all Nebraska golfers can be fed into a computer and an exact handicap can be determined no matter which course is being played.

"The program, which has been in the making for several years, required the full support of all the clubs and we received it," said Del Ryder, executive secrectary of NAGA and chairman of the course rating committee. "The professionally trained rating teams did an excellent job and were well received at each course."

Although 75 courses were rated, only the 49 courses in the state which subscribe to the NAGA handicap system will be the ones which have both USGA approved course rating and handicapping.

Yardage is the main factor in the ratings, but course conditions either add or subtract from the figure which becomes par on each hole. Considered are such things as sand bunkers, rough, watered fairways, water hazards and proximity of out-of-bounds areas.

The state's toughest course from championship tees is Capehart Golf Club at Bellevue, which should be no surprise to contestants in the recent men's amateur tournament. It is rated 72.8 The Holmes layout rates 69.6. Other Lincoln courses from the blue tees rank Hillcrest 69.4, Lincoln Country Club 69.0 and Pioneers Park 68.0. The new Mahoney course hasn't been rated.

Men's tee ratings: Hillcrest 68.2, LCC 68.0, Holmes 68.0, and Pioneers 66.9. Ladies tee: LCC 71.8, Hillcrest 71.6, Holmes 71.0, Pioneer 70.6.

Albert Eyeing Record Meet At Columbus

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Buoyed by the largest opening day in the history of the Columbus horse races, Warren Albert is eyeing a record handle.

"Despite the beastly hot weather, we should be able to average between $250,000 and $260,000," said the Columbus Races general manager after Tuesday's first program attracted 3,449 patrons who wagered $270,452 on the nine races.

The first 10 days will be the State Fairgrounds' races. Beginning Aug. 24, Columbus will host its regular 25-day horse racing season.

The first 15 days of the Lincoln meet were hosted by Ak-Sar-Ben in Omaha. The Lincoln races were switched this year while the new grandstand was being constructed at the State Fairgrounds.

Despite the 10 additional days, Albert does not expect a major decrease in interest in the Columbus Races.

"I don't think it'll make much difference if they're called the Lincoln Races at Columbus or just Columbus," he explained. "I think we'll probably go better than $265,000 for the whole meet. Our only problem here is when the football games start on television. It takes away some of our people.

"There's also a dropping off after Labor Day since everybody's had it for the summer. Overall, I told someone we'd handle $9.5 million in the 35 days, but I'm not sure which part we'll do it in."

Albert said Tuesdays, Fridays and Saturdays are the busiest days for Columbus. Thursdays are hurt by downtown merchants staying open in the early evening, he added.

Still, Albert said the Platte County population only amounts to between 20 to 25 per cent of the total attendance.

"We're different than Omaha and Lincoln. A lot of Omaha people go to Ak-Sar-Ben. The same in Lincoln. We don't have that big population here. Even if the local crowds fall off 10 per cent over the longer season, the handle may only drop one per cent," he noted.

Albert said he expected the 10 days of the Lincoln meet to earn between $125,000 and $130,000 for the State Fairgrounds. That money will be used to pay off the bonds for the new grandstand.

"They (Lincoln races) had a different arrangement with Ak-Sar-Ben. We made our arrangement with them without regard to Omaha," Albert said. "They're getting a lot more than we are with that new grandstand.

"We've got to make our own. Don't get me wrong, I'm glad to help them but I wish the other tracks would get something," he added.

Albert said Columbus will deposit the pari-mutuel tax money in a special account for the State Fairgrounds. "It's really a simple administrative matter. Only Henry Brandt (State Fairgrounds' general manager) can draw from it," he said.

Last year's opening day crowd of 3,339 wagered $214,914.

The 25-day Columbus meeting last season produced an average daily mutuel handle of $252,561.08.

"If we can just escape this heat, we'll be all right. When you get temperatures over 95, like today, you can just see the handle go down. There's nothing you can do about that," Albert said.

Net Tourney 'Successful'

By RYLY JANE HAMBLETON
Star Sports Writer

Although this was just the first intersectional tennis tournament for younger age-group tennis players, director Joy Rodenberg is already talking about enlarging the tourney for next year.

"You should never ask tournament directors if they're going to do the same thing next year on the last day of a tournament," Rodenberg said. "It's too easy to say 'I'll never do it again.' But we think this has been a very successful tournament."

And the future looks even brighter for the younger tennis players in the Missouri Valley, Intermountain and Texas sections.

"We would like to add another section next year, so we could have two matches in each age group going at a time and offer more tennis," Rodenberg explained. "But we still want to keep the tenseness out of it. Maybe the Southern or Western sections would be added, which would also add some more top-notch competition."

But even without the added section, the competition was outstanding in the experimental tourney.

The boys 16 competition had the most surprises for both participants and spectators.

Leland Putterman, the No. 2 player from the Texas section, defeated both the Missouri Valley and Intermountain No. 1 players in Monday's action. But Tuesday, Mark Johnson the Missouri Valley No. 1 player turned the tables by defeating David Dowlen, the No. 1 player from Texas.

Johnson, of Henryetta, Okla., went into the match with Dowlen of Houston, with a 2-1 record. Dowlen was 3-0. During the first match of the day, Mike Benson pushed Dowlen to three sets, while later Johnson handily defeated Benson, 6-3, 6-0.

Johnson scored a 7-6, 7-5 win over Dowlen in the final boys 16 singles match at Hillcrest Country Club, but there were times when neither player was sure what would happen during the next game.

Dowlen broke Johnson's serve three times during the first set, and Johnson broke Dowlen's three times. Johnson won the tiebreaker, 5-2.

In the second set, the two broke each other's serve just once.

However, Johnson won his serve to make it 6-5 after an ace and some nice passing shots and then broke Dowlen for the 7-5 match and set.

Texas won the team trophy with 46 wins, while Missouri Valley was second with 27 and Intermountain had 15. The girls' trophy award, given most wins with fewest games lost, will be shared by Kathy Foxworth, Missouri Valley in the 12-year-old group and Nancy Talley of Texas in 14s.

The boys trophy is undecided with one match to be played Wednesday. Talbot Davis, in the 14 group from Texas finished with six total wins and lost 29 games. Steve Herzog, in the 12 group from Texas won six and has lost just 23 games with the one doubles match to be played.

BACKHAND RETURN . . . for Mark Johnson against Mike Benson.

Winning Unimportant To Athletic Director

By JIM CAMDEN
Star Staff Writer

'Who gives a damn about state championships? We care about kids.'

Tom Ecker is an athletic director who doesn't care about winning.

Some people may think that Ecker either doesn't know much about his duties or is not long for his position; but in reality, quite the opposite is true.

Ecker, who has served on Olympic committees, headed the amateur athletic program in Sweden and written five books on sports, has been the athletic director of the Cedar Rapids, Iowa, public school system for eight years. He addressed a workshop of Nebraska educators Tuesday.

Cedar Rapids schools have a 21-sport program that uses no tax money except for coaching salaries. Coaches have a no-cut policy where athletes practice every day and compete every week. The program includes 10 sports for boys, nine for girls and two co-ed sports.

The program has been called one of the most extensive and best run in the country, Ecker said.

He said the program is designed to get the most students involved in sports, not to win championships.

Any student who wants to participate in a sport gets to play, he said. When a large number turn out for a certain sport, teams are divided according to athletic ability and play teams from other schools in their own level of skill.

"There's no stigma attached to playing on a B Level instead of an A," he said.

A coach can win the state championship and lose his job if he's not doing the right things for kids, Ecker said. Conversely, a coach can go 0-18 and stay forever if Ecker thinks he is doing a good job.

"Who gives a damn about state championships? We care about kids," he said.

Despite this nonchalant attitude toward winning, Cedar Rapids schools have won 25 state championships in eight years. Ecker attributes this to having such a broadbased program that potential athletes aren't cut before they get a chance to develop.

The system has also added many sports since he became director, especially for girls.

Girls have been cheated for too long, Ecker said, and Title IX, the federal law which requires equal athletic opportunity for both sexes, is putting things where they shoould have been 50 years ago.

Title IX, he added, is "a lousy law that's so poorly put together it's a bureaucratic nightmare.

"But it's better than what we had before."

In increasing the sports program for girls, Ecker said that the public is no problem, and the press is coming around. It's the school officials, usually women officials, that cause the biggest slowdown.

Ecker said that the arguments that girls don't want sports programs, don't need them or get hurt more than boys in sports just don't hold water.

But girls should compete against other girls, not against boys; both sexes shouldn't be grouped on the same team when they reach the high school level. The reason for his is purely phusical, Ecker explained.

Ecker said his athletic program, like all athletic systems in Iowa, is almost independent of tax funding. Tax dollars are not used for program costs such as uniforms, equipment, transportation or meals on the road. The only tax money spent is for coaches' salaries.

Program costs are supported mainly through gate receipts.

The advantage to this is when the school budget is cut back, the athletic programs continue to thrive.

Federal Judge Cracks Down On NCAA's Aid System

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — A federal district court judge declared unconstitutional Tuesday the National Collegiate Athletic Association's method of computing aid to student-athletes at its member colleges and universities.

Judge Richard D. Rogers also ordered University of Kansas track sprinter Clifford Wiley restored to full eligibility on scholarship in a case which could have far-reaching effects on the NCAA.

An attorney for the NCAA, the Big Eight Conference and the university, George Gangwere, said he assumed the organizations would appeal the decision to the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals in Denver.

There was no immediate comment from NCAA headquarters in Kansas City.

It is believed only the second time the NCAA has lost a decision at this high level. The other case involved Howard University some years ago.

Wiley, declared ineligible by K.U last March because his track scholarship and a federal student grant combined to provide him with more income than the NCAA formula permitted, brought suit.

Rogers issued injunctions last spring permitting Wiley to continue to compete for K.U. in the conference and NCAA track meets—competition which he contended were vital in his effort to win a place on the U.S. Olympic team. He did not make the Olympic team.

In his opinion, Rogers noted that Wiley, a black sophomore from Baltimore, came from a family of nine children He also noted that Wiley's parents were divorced when he was six years old, and that the father had contributed nothing to the support of the family since.

The decision also noted that Wiley received the maximum $1,400 federal aid for the 1975-76 school year under the government's Basic Educational Opportunity Grant program.

He also received $2,621 from his track scholarship, pushing him beyond the $2,756 maximum a student-athlete at K.U. could receive under the NCAA formula.

"... The court finds that Article 3, Section 4 (b) as drafted and applied by the NCAA denies Clifford Wiley equal protection as guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States when applied to student-athletes receiving an athletic scholarship covering only 'commonly accepted educational expenses' and a full Basic Educational Opportunity Grant becasue of a zero student eligibility index," Rogers wrote.

"We find that limiting financing for a student-athlete with a zero student eligibility index under the BEOG program is totally irrational and contradictory to the purposes of the association."

Rogers issued a permanent injunction against K.U., the Big Eight and the NCAA to prohibit them from denying Wiley the right to participate in track or from denying him any rights and privileges associated with his track scholarship.

The judge said he also found the NCAA method of counting the BEOG grants in with other aid for determining the maximum student aid "violates the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment."

Sells Motorcycle

Miller Withdraws From Meet

Johnny Miller, the second favorite in the PGA according to British bookie shops, has withdrawn from the championship classic because of a mild case of blood poisoning from an injured right hand.

PGA officials said Miller fell from his motorcycle last weekend ripping open his right palm. Doctors have told Miller that he should suffer no lasting effects from the injury.

"I was really looking forward to the PGA," said Miller. "It used to be that I didn't care about the PGA but after I won the British Open I realized I had a chance to win the grand slam," said Miller, who won the U.S. Open in 1973. Miller added that his motorcycle is now up for sale.

Football

The Tampa Bay Buccaneers have returned former Nebraska player Jim McFarland to the Miami Dolphins because the veteran tight end could not pass the team's physical examination.

The New York Giants and New York Jets, washed out of their Monday night NFL exhibition game by Hurricane Belle, will play Wednesday night in Yankee Stadium.

Charges of rape against two University of Kentucky football players and a former team member were dismissed, because of insufficient evidence.

Syracuse University football coach Frank Maloney has been charged with driving while intoxicated after a one-car accident.

Other Sports

In the 110-meter hurdles Willie Davenport and Guy Drut, the Olympic gold medal winner, finished in a rare tie for first in the time of 13.57 seconds.

Two Las Vegas newspapers said Jerry Tarkanian, the University of Nevada-Las Vegas basketball coach, may be ready to take the head coaching job with the Los Angeles Lakers.

The Soviet Union wants $210 million from CBS-TV for television rights to the 1980 Summer Olympic Games. The Russians are also insisting on the telecasts including portraits of Russian athletes at home and filmed pieces of Russian culture.

The Quebec government will conclude arrangements with Canadian and U.S. banks to borrow $700 million to pay the bulk of the $995 million Olympic Games deficit.

Lefthander Don Gullett of the Cincinnati Reds is not expected to pitch for three weeks because of inflammation between his left shoulder and neck.

The Los Angeles Strings of the WTT, averaging just over 4,600 fans per game, say they are willing to pay Jimmy Connors more than $200,000 a year if he'll sign with them.

Adult Closed Tourney Slated

The Lincoln Adult Closed tennis tournament, one of the largest tourneys in the city, is scheduled to run Aug. 20-22 this year at the Woods Park tennis complex.

There will be several divisions including advanced and beginners and consolations in certain divisions. Entry blanks will be available for all Lincoln residents and full-time in-town students at the Woods Tennis Shack. Deadline for entries is Monday.

Foster, Boit Gain Victories

Helsinki (UPI) — Brendan Foster of Britain won the 5,000 meters in 13:26.34 Tuesday at the Finnish international track and field games as double Olympic champion Lasse Viren, suffering from a head cold, finished seventh in 13:42.1.

Mike Boit of Kenya won the 800 meters in 1:44.90, with Olympic bronze medallist Rick Wohlhuter of Chicago a poor sixth in 1:50.26. Boit had not been allowed by Kenyan authorities to run in Stockholm Monday because of New Zealand's participation, but New Zealanders did not compete here.

The 5,000 meters race was a disappointment since both Viren and Foster felt before the race that a record was possible. But the going was slow, with Martti Vainio of Finland leading the pack until the last 1,000 meters, when Foster took over. Knut Kvalheim, Norway, was second in 13:26.73 and Paul Geis, Eugene, Ore., third in 13:27.43.

In the 800 meters, European champion Luciano Susanj pulled up and doctors said he had broken an achilles tendon and was out of further competition for the season.

Francie Larrieu Lutz of Long Beach, Calif., set an American record in the women's 1,500 meters in 4:07.01. En route to victory, her intermediate times were 1:04.6 at 400 meters, 2:12.3 at 800 meters.

Jim Bolding of Long Beach captured the 400 meter hurdles in 49.3, with fellow American Quentin Wheeler, of New Shrewsbury, N.J., 1.2 seconds behind in third. Briton Alan Pascoe just edged Wheeler for second in 50.45.

Arnie Robinson of San Diego took the long jump with a leap of 25 feet 3¼ inches (7.70 meters).

Jacek Wszola, Poland, with a jump of 7 feet 4¼ inches (2.24 meters) won the high jump over controversial Dwight Stones. The Huntington Beach, Calif. native cleared the same height but lost on more misses. Tom Woods and Roy Kotinek gave the U.S. a 2-3-4 finish in the event, with Woods at 2.21 and Kotinek at 2.15.

In other events, Panama's Guy Abrahams took the 100-meter dash in 10.5 seconds, Heikki Kangas of Finland took the hammer throw with a toss of 225 feet 8½ inches (68.8 meters), and Miklos Nemeth of Hungary won the javelin with a throw of 288 feet 1½ inches (87.82 meters).

The games marked the 70th anniversary of the Finnish Track and Field Association. A boisterous crowd of 25,383 attended the games at the Olympic Stadium.

Stan's Lounge Clinches Title

LaVane Johnson hurled a perfect game through 4 and 1/3 innings and held on to blank Walker Tire 5-0 and help Stan's Lounge clinch the AAA fastpitch softball league in a Tuesday night game at Ballard Field.

Johnson didn't allow a man on base until the fifth inning, when with one out Mike Kelley singled. Johnson allowed two more hits but struckout 13 Walker Tire batters for the seven innings. Stan's is now 22-5 on the year.

In the nightcap Cookie Irons slammed a two-run homer in the third inning and pitcher Bruce Wefer scored on a sacrifice fly by Don Baack to help Racquet Lounge edge Deans Brothers 4-3.

Columbus Earns Berth

Columbus — Tom Lange drove in four runs and combined with a strong relief pitching effort by Mike Brandt the Columbus junior Legion baseball team upset Grand Island 7-4 to win the A-6 district championship Tuesday night and earn a berth in the state tournament.

Lange homered in the first with one man on to boost Columbus to a 2-0 lead. He then added a run-scoring single in the fifth to help the home team gain a 4-0 lead.

But in the bottom of the fifth Grand Island collected four runs on six hits off Columbus starter Jeff Schumacher to tie the game.

Columbus scored the winning run in the sixth when Lange sacrificed in a run to put the winners ahead 5-4.

Columbus, which lost three games to Grand Island this year, will now advance to the state tournament in Ralston with a 21-17 record. Grand Island closes its season with a 24-14 record.

Monday night the Columbus midgets earned a berth in the state tournament. It is the first time since 1969 that Columbus has sent both teams to the state meet.

In another final two American Legion Junior Class A area baseball games Tuesday night. Westside Robert's defeated Prep Robert's.

Westside Robert's will represent Area 1, while Prep Robert's will be the Area 2 representative.

Orantes, Vilas Win

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Manuel Orantes of Spain and Guillermo Vilas of Argentina scored relatively easy victories Tuesday in their first-round matches in the $157,000 National Clay Court Tennis championships.

Orantes, the defending titlist who was seeded No. 3, rolled by Julian Ganzabal of Argentina, 6-0, 6-2. The second-seeded Vilas survived a shaky start to stop Californian Hank Pfister, 7-5, 6-2.

However, three of the top-seeded women's stars were defeated.

No. 3 Janet Newberry of La Jolla, Calif., lost to hometown rival Mary Struthers, 6-4, 6-1, for the major upset of the early play.

Floridian Eddie Dibbs, seeded 5th, claimed a second round victory by stopping Ivan Molina of Colombia, 7-5, 6-2.

Medical Association Underpaid Postage

Washington (AP) — The American Medical Association submitted false reports to the Postal Service for 4½ years, allowing it to underpay postage bills by as much as $450,000, an AMA lawyer says.

The admission of the false reports and underpayments was made in an Aug. 13, 1975, letter to the AMA legal department from Lee M. Mitchell, an attorney for the AMA.

The Associated Press obtained a copy of the letter, and Mitchell confirmed its authenticity.

The letter is among the AMA documents given to the Postal Service by an unidentified man believed to be a former AMA employe. The Postal Service announced last month after receiving the documents that it was reopening an investigation of possible fraud by the AMA.

Mitchell's letter to the AMA legal department advised that:

"The AMA may be charged with having submitted false reports of (Journal of the American Medical Association, the organization's weekly magazine) circulation to the Postal Service in violation of the United States Criminal Code,"

He recommended the AMA go to postal officials and acknowledge the erroneous reports, which AMA officials subsequently did. However, no additional postage has been paid, AMA spokesman Joseph Breu said in Chicago.

The issue concerns a legal requirement that organizations with second-class mailing permits distribute no more than 10 per cent of their circulation as free sample copies. Copies exceeding the sample copy limitation must be mailed at a higher postage rate.

The false reports came after the AMA board of directors decided in 1970 to expand the JAMA circulation by sending free copies to physicians who were not AMA members, the letter said.

"These persons were to receive the publication without cost, apparently with the goal of increasing JAMA's attractiveness to advertisers by adding to its circulation physicians who were high-volume subscribers of drugs and medical devices," Mitchell said.

However, the AMA in reports to the Postal Service understated its nonpaid circulation by about 30,000 to 40,000 copies per issue for a 230-week period ending in 1974, the letter said.

"We would estimate that postage was underpaid during the period in question by between $299,000 and $450,000," it said. The letter said fines for the false reports "could be as much as $117,000."

Mitchell said his review was only of JAMA, but "we believe these issues may also be relevant to 10 AMA specialty journals and to AMA's Today's Health magazine."

Rhodesians Assault Camp In Mozambique

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Rhodesian forces killed more than 300 "terrorists" in what a government communique issued Tuesday called a hot-pursuit raid on a black guerrilla base in neighboring Mozambique.

Informed sources said the attack was a helicopter assault on a camp about three miles inside Mozambique.

The operation was a major escalation of the conflict between Rhodesia's white-minority government and Marxist-oriented Mozambique, which is helping train guerrillas to fight the Salisbury regime.

Some 30 Mozambican soldiers and "about 10 civilians who were supporting the terrorists" also were killed in the raid Sunday, the communique said. It added:

"During the course of this operation it was necessary to destroy a roadblock and bridge. Further casualties were inflicted.

"In this action the Rhodesian forces suffered no casualties apart from slight injuries."

The communique did not say if Rhodesian warplanes had provided cover for the attack nor did it give the location.

Rhodesia announced Monday that it would follow a policy of hot pursuit after guerrillas killed four white soldiers the day before in a mortar barrage on a military outpost near the frontier.

There was no immediate comment from Mozambique and the raid was not reported by Mozambique radio stations. There also was no statement from white-ruled South Africa, Rhodesia's chief ally.

Mozambique and Rhodesia share an 800-mile border, and Mozambique has been a springboard for guerrilla hit-and-run attacks on Rhodesian outposts and farm centers for nearly four years.

The border was closed by Mozambique in March, after a bombing raid in February on one of its villages by Rhodesian planes, and since then Mozambican and Rhodesian soldiers frequently have exchanged shots across the border.

Sunday's helicopter assault was the third raid into Mozambique since February acknowledged by the Salisbury government. Mozambique claims there have been others.

Many Rhodesians, especially those living near the border, have been demanding reprisal raids against the string of bases in Mozambique where it is estimated that some 6,000 guerrillas are being trained.

Blacks Give Money Back To Carter Campaign

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The Baptist Ministers' Union of Oakland and the Mount Zion Missionary District Association have returned the $2,000 they received from Jimmy Carter's campaign organization.

Each group had been given $1,000.

"We assumed that this was to be expense money disbursed through the black clergy for workers in the campaign," the Rev. J. L. Richard, who heads both groups, said in a brief statement.

"The questionable implications currently being suggested becloud our original good intentions."

Sanderson, Bader Quit Jobs At UNL

Dr. Kenneth L. Bader, vice chancellor for student affairs at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, has resigned to become chief executive officer of the American Soybean Association in October.

The appointment was announced by Seymour Johnson, president of the association, at the group's annual meeting in Kansas City.

Bader will direct the association's staff of 42 persons located throughout the world. The association is engaged in soybean market development in foreign countries.

During the past four years, Bader had been responsible for student development, housing, academic services, Nebraska Union, minority affairs and the Student Health Service at UNL. His salary at UNL is $36,750.

Wmn Sanderson, budget officer of the University of Nebraska system, also announced his resignation.

Sanderson will become senior executive vice president of Medsa, Inc., a Lincoln-based holding company for nine subsidiaries.

Sanderson said the job change would also enable him to accept the presidency of a nonprofit corporation, Institutional Policy Analysis in Education. He had not been able to accept that position while employed by the university.

MacPhail Punishes Yankees

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees, fined $1,000 and reprimanded by the American League Tuesday for using their instant replay scoreboard at Yankee Stadium to show close plays, responded by accusing the league of a "cover up" policy and hinted they would continue to show them.

George Steinbrenner, managing partner of the Yanks, had complained to AL President Lee MacPhail about the umpiring in Sunday's 8-5 loss to the Baltimore Orioles. The Yankees also put out a news release criticizing what the team alleged was a series of bad calls by the crew headed by Lou DiMuro.

The Yankees were particularly incensed about an eighth-inning call by Bill Kunkel. On the play, New York's Gene Locklear was called out at first base. The Yankees insisted Locklear was safe, that Baltimore first baseman Tony Muser juggled the ball and did not have his foot on the base.

The Yankees replayed the incident on the giant screen, evoking a bitter reaction from the crowd, then posted the umpires' names on the screen.

MacPhail sent a telegram to Steinbrenner Tuesday which said, in part:

". . . it has come to my attention that the New York club again used the replay scoreboard in a manner contrary to policy recommended by this league. I am also informed that, following a close decision on the field, you posted the names of the umpires in a manner calculated to produce fan reaction against the umpires.

"Irresponsible action of this sort could result in physical harm to an umpire and, in fact, it has been reported to me that, on this occasion, a bottle was thrown on the field, possibly from an upper deck, landing near the umpire. I also have read a copy of a publicity release given out by the Yankees containing inaccuracies and demeaning to league officials."

John Candelaria receives a hug from his wife, Alice, outside the Pirate clubhouse after he hurled a no-hit shutout Monday night in Pittsburgh.

Gem Now Real For Candelaria

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (UPI) — He may be 6-foot-7, mustachioed and five years past the voting age, but the Pirates' ice tea-sipping, wise-crackinng "Candy Man" is still just a big kid at heart.

So it's easy to understand why, on the morning after John Candelaria became the first Pirate to hurl a no-hitter at home since 1907, the carefree southpaw acted kind of like the little boy who runs from his bedroom to the den the morning after Christmas to make sure the shiny two-wheeler he always wanted is still by the tree.

As Candy awoke Tuesday, scratching what was only a mere hour's sleep from his dark eyes, his first thought was to "find out if it was real.

"I went right out and brought a paper and looked at the box score. It was right there," Candy said.

A big, toothy, grin spread over his face, which was bent shyly, as usual, toward the floor and away from the stare of strangers.

Newsprint assured Candelaria of the reality of the achievement he had dreamed of as a sandlot player in Brooklyn, but the scores of reporters, well-wishers and fame-seekers who bombarded his home with telephone calls and telegrams Tuesday made the feat take on a grotesque air.

"I couldn't take any more phone calls. They were driving me crazy," Candy said.

He left his wife and daughter to cope with the madness in mid-afternoon and sought refuge in the relative privacy of the Pirates' dugout at Three Rivers Stadium. Shortly afterwards he was out on the field with the rest of the Pirate pitchers and a few other weak hitters for batting practice.

"I won't change," Candelaria said. "It affected me. It's great. But I can't live on this one game. Some people have just one great year and that's what they live on. I've only been here a year and I've got a lot more to learn."

A bonus is a sure thing at seasons' end and commercial endorsements are likely to come his way, but Candelaria, 11-4 on the season, has other things to think of for the time being.

You see, the way the "Candy Man" explains it, as happy as the non-hitter made him, "winning a World Series would make me feel even better."

Sprinters, Stockers Eye Races

By KEN HAMBLETON
Star Sports Writer

Lincolnite Gary Dunkle hasn't finished in the Knoxville Nationals sprint car championships races since his first year there in 1971.

But entering the 16th annual event Dunkle is figured to be one of the drivers to beat in the 140-plus car field entered in the races Wednesday through Saturday, at the Marion County Fairgrounds half-mile dirt track in Knoxville, Ia.

Dunkle, who won four features during the regular season at Knoxville, will lead a Lincoln contingent of drivers that includes Don Maxwell in the Lincoln Welding Special, Dick Kenney, Wayne Holz and others.

"We're putting a new engine that I built many of the parts for, including pistons, in our car for the qualifying on Wednesday," said Dunkle a tool and die maker. "We'll need a lot more horsepower for the qualifications than we will for the championship race on Saturday.

"The track will be a lot smoother Wednesday than it will be by Saturday, and qualifying well is the most important thing we face," said Dunkle. "There will be 22 cars in the 35-lap final Saturday and there probably won't be more than a half-second between the qualifying times of all the cars."

Other entries for the races with a guaranteed purse of $36,005.00 with additional lap and contingency money, include Doug Wolfgang, who recently won the 1976 Knoxville point championship, and former IMCA champion Dick Suttcliffe, who also won this year's point title at Eagle Raceway.

Joe Saldana, formerly of Lincoln, will be trying to regain his lap record on the track from Eddie Leavitt, who snapped the six-year-old mark last week, and Jan Opperman, formerly from Beaver Crossing, now a standout on the USAC circuit are also early entries in the championships.

"I think if I can finish in the top five I'll be happy because of the top quality of the drivers competing," said Dunkle. "I just better be the one to catch because sprint car races are not endurance races and once you get in front you have almost all the advantages to staying there."

Qualifications will be held Wednesday and Thursday with a non-qualifier race on Friday. Saturday there will be heat races capped by three title races with a 35-lap feature for the national title.

Omaha's Sunset Speedway will be hosting the final leg of the three-race series Wednesday night at 8 p.m. with $500 of the $3,000 purse going to the winner. And the overall point champion gains $300 extra.

Dean Ward of Grand Island and Dick Jensen of Aurora, the top two drivers at Midwest, are listed sixth and eighth respectively in the tri-city standings.

Hobby stockers will be heading to Beatrice for the Gage County championships at Beatrice Speedway Wednesday night at 7:30 p.m. Gene Jakub of Columbus, Jim Manning of Cordova along with Hap Terrill, Orville Hoffman, Ken and Rick Krogh will be some of the drivers competing from the Lincoln area.

YMCA Cagers Finals Readied

Kelley's Heroes and Hot Summer Knights will meet in the finals of the YMCA Summer basketball league championships by virtue of semifinal wins Tuesday night at the Downtown YMCA.

Kelley's topped Mighty High by forfeit and Hot Summer Knights downed Free 29-28. The two finalists will meet at 6:30 p.m. Thursday night at the YMCA for the title.

About Tough Schedules

Much is being made of Missouri's tough nonconference schedule. You might say the same thing in an opposite way about the schedule facing Nebraska, Kansas and Iowa State.

Let's assume the Cornhuskers' schedule for 1976 was drawn up eight to 10 years ago. Louisiana State was 6-3-1 in 1967, 7-3 in 1968 and 9-1 in 1969. At the same time, Nebraska was having 6-4, 6-4 and 9-2 years.

You can even make a point in Indiana being on the schedule. The Hoosiers were 9-1 in 1967, cochampions of the Big Ten and ranked No. 4 in the nation. They had the same record as the Huskers in 1968.

Texas Christian had a couple of seasons during that period when it tied for second and third in the Southwest Conference.

Miami, playing much the same back-breaking schedule it does now, went 7-3 in 1967, losing one of them 24-22 to a Notre Dame team that went 8-2.

All four of NU's nonconference opponents are coming off losing seasons: LSU 4-7, Indiana 2-8-1, TCU 1-10 and Miami 2-8. That doesn't make the competition easy, especially when you consider that LSU almost was good enough to beat the Huskers last season.

IU Scared Buckeyes

Indiana improved late in the year, barely falling to Ohio State's then top-rated Buckeyes in the final quarter, gaining a tie with Wisconsin, and losing to Michigan State 14-6 and Purdue 9-7.

Texas Christian ended the year by beating Rice 28-21 after falling in a tight one to Texas A&M earlier by 14-6. Miami falls in the same class with LSU as far as tough schedules are concerned. Remember, the Hurricanes led Nebraska at the half here last season.

Here are the nonconference opponents of other Big Eight teams this season, with last year's records in parenthesis:

Iowa State: Drake (3-8), at Air Force (2-8-1), Kent State (4-7) and Utah (1-10).

Kansas: Washington State (3-8), Kentucky (2-8), at Oregon State (1-10) and Wisconsin (4-6-1).

Kansas State: at Brigham Young (6-5), at Texas A&M (10-2), Wake Forest (3-8), and at Florida State (3-8).

Missouri: at Southern Cal (8-4), Illinois (5-6), at Ohio State (11-1), and North Carolina (3-7-1).

Colorado: at Texas Tech (6-5), at Washington (6-5), Miami, Fla. (2-8), and Drake (3-8).

Okalhoma: At Vanderbilt (7-4), Florida State (3-8), California (8-3), and Texas (10-2).

Big Eight Notes

Big Eight teams went 28-4 in nonconference play last season before losing three of four bowl games. The league was produced at a 131-42-2 record against outsiders in the last five years. Starting in 1971, and Big Eight teams went 28-8-1, 25-12, 27-7-1 and 23-11 before last year.

Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer, discussing his offensive backfield recently at Kansas City: "We've got nobody like Joe Washington and I hope nobody else in the league has, but we've got some young backs that looked great in high school and looked good as freshmen. In time, they'l be good, with a style of their own to get things done."

Switzer mentioned Billy Sims, Kenny King, George Crumby, Woody Shepard, and Tom Lott and said "all are very talented young backs."

Sooner assistant coach Don Jimerson, speaking to an Oklahoma broadcasters group recently, said: "Our offensive team probably will be as good as we have had, especially in the backfield." That would be pretty good.

Swinging Into The Nationals

The Lincoln Swingers wait Tuesday at the Lincoln Municipal Airport for the plane trip to the National Junior High girls softball tournament this week at Binghampton, N.Y. The girls raised most of the expense money for the trip to the tourney. The Swingers won the state tourney championship two weeks ago while the Lincoln Joys placed second in the meet held at North Platte.

Holmes Rated Toughest Course

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

The toughest golf course in Lincoln in relation to par?

It all depends on the tees you use, according to results of the Nebraska Amateur Golf Association's course rating project which recently was completed.

It's Holmes Park if you play from the blue championship tees. It's the Hillcrest Country Club if you use the normal men's tees. And, it's the Lincoln Country Club from the ladies' tees.

As a result of the survey, which cost NAGA about $2,000, handicaps of all Nebraska golfers can be fed into a computer and an exact handicap can be determined no matter which course is being played.

"The program, which has been in the making for several years, required the full support of all the clubs and we received it," said Del Ryder, executive secretary of NAGA and chairman of the course rating committee "The professionally trained rating teams did an excellent job and were well received at each course."

Although 75 courses were rated, only the 49 courses in the state which subscribe to the NAGA handicap system will be the ones which have both USGA approved course rating and handicapping.

Yardage is the main factor in the ratings, but course conditions either add or subtract from the figure which becomes par on each hole. Considered are such things as sand bunkers, rough, watered fairways, water hazards and proximity of out-of-bounds areas.

The state's toughest course from championship tees is Capehart Golf Club at Bellevue, which should be no surprise to contestants in the recent men's amateur tournament. It is rated 72 8 The Holmes layout rates 69.6. Other Lincoln courses from the blue tees rank Hillcrest 69.4, Lincoln Country Club 69.0 and Pioneers Park 68 0. The new Mahoney course hasn't been rated.

Men's tee ratings. Hillcrest 68.2, LCC 68.0, Holmes 68.0, and Pioneers 66.9. Ladies tee: LCC 71.8, Hillcrest 71.6, Holmes 71.0, Pioneer 70 6.

Albert Eyeing Record Meet At Columbus

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Buoyed by the largest opening day in the history of the Columbus horse races, Warren Albert is eyeing a record handle.

"Despite the beastly hot weather, we should be able to average between $250.000 and $260.000," said the Columbus Races general manager after Tuesday's first program attracted 3.449 patrons who wagered $270.452 on the nine races.

The first 10 days will be the State Fairgrounds' races. Beginning Aug. 24, Columbus will host its regular 25-day horse racing season.

The first 15 days of the Lincoln meet were hosted by Ak-Sar-Ben in Omaha The Lincoln races were switched this year while the new grandstand was being constructed at the State Fairgrounds.

Despite the 10 additional days, Albert does not expect a major decrease in interest in the Columbus Races.

"I don't think it'll make much difference if they're called the Lincoln Races at Columbus or just Columbus," he explained. "I think we'll probably go better than $265,000 for the whole meet. Our only problem here is when the football games start on television It takes away some of our people

"There's also a dropping off after Labor Day since everybody's had it for the summer. Overall, I told someone we'd handle $9 5 million in the 35 days, but I'm not sure which part we'll do it in."

Albert said Tuesdays, Fridays and Saturdays are the busiest days for Columbus. Thursdays are hurt by downtown merchants staying open in the early evening, he added.

Still, Albert said the Platte County population only amounts to between 20 to 25 per cent of the total attendance.

"We're different than Omaha and Lincoln A lot of Omaha people go to Ak-Sar-Ben. The same in Lincoln. We don't have that big population here. Even if the local crowds fall off 10 per cent over the longer season, the handle may only drop one per cent," he noted.

Albert said he expected the 10 days of the Lincoln meet to earn between $125,000 and $130,000 for the State Fairgrounds. That money will be used to pay off the bonds for the new grandstand.

"They (Lincoln races) had a different arrangement with Ak-Sar-Ben. We made our arrangement with them without regard to Omaha," Albert said. "They're getting a lot more than we are with that new grand stand

"We've got to make our own. Don't get me wrong, I'm glad to help them but I wish the other tracks would get something," he added.

Albert said Columbus will deposit the pari-mutuel tax money in a special account for the State Fairgrounds. "It's really a simple administrative matter. Only Henry Brandt (State Fairgrounds' general manager) can draw from it," he said.

Last year's opening day crowd of 3,339 wagered $214,914.

The 25-day Columbus meeting last season produced an average daily mutuel handle of $252,561 08.

"If we can just escape this heat, we'll be all right. When you get temperatures over 95, like today, you can just see the handle go down There's nothing you can do about that," Albert said.

Net Tourney 'Successful'

By RYLY JANE HAMBLETON
Star Sports Writer

Although this was just the first intersectional tennis tournament for younger age-group tennis players, director Joy Rodenberg is already talking about enlarging the tourney for next year.

"You should never ask tournament directors if they're going to do the same thing next year on the last day of a tournament," Rodenberg said. "It's too easy to say 'I'll never do it again.' But we think this has been a very successful tournament."

And the future looks even brighter for the younger tennis players in the Missouri Valley, Intermountain and Texas sections

"We would like to add another section next year, so we could have two matches in each age group going at a time and offer more tennis." Rodenberg explained. "But we still want to keep the tenseness out of it. Maybe the Southern or Western sections would be added, which would also add some more top-notch competition."

But even without the added section, the competition was outstanding in the experimental tourney.

The boys 16 competition had the most surprises for both participants and spectators.

Leland Putterman, the No. 2 player from the Texas section, defeated both the Missouri Valley and Intermountain No. 1 players in Monday's action. But Tuesday. Mark Johnson the Missouri Valley No. 1 player turned the tables by defeating David Dowlen, the No. 1 player from Texas.

Johnson, of Henryetta, Okla., went into the match with Dowlen of Houston, with a 2-1 record. Dowlen was 3-0. During the first match of the day, Mike Benson pushed Dowlen to three sets, while later Johnson handily defeated Benson, 6-3, 6-0.

Johnson scored a 7-6, 7-5 win over Dowlen in the final boys 16 singles match at Hillcrest Country Club, but there were times when neither player was sure what would happen during the next game.

Dowlen broke Johnson's serve three times during the first set, and Johnson broke Dowlen's three times Johnson won the tiebreaker, 5-2.

In the second set, the two broke each other's serve just once.

However, Johnson won his serve to make it 6-5 after an ace and some nice passing shots and then broke Dowlen for the 7-5 match and set.

Texas won the team trophy with 46 wins, while Missouri Valley was second with 27 and Intermountain had 15. The girls' trophy award, given most wins with fewest games lost, will be shared by Kathy Foxworth, Missouri Valley in the 12-year-old group and Nancy Talley of Texas in 14s.

The boys trophy is undecided with one match to be played Wednesday. Talbot Davis, in the 14 group from Texas finished with six total wins and lost 29 games. Steve Herzog, in the 12 group from Texas won six and has lost just 23 games with the one doubles match to be played.

BACKHAND RETURN . . . for Mark Johnson against Mike Benson.

Winning Unimportant To Athletic Director

By JIM CAMDEN
Star Staff Writer

Tom Ecker is an athletic director who doesn't care about winning.

Some people may think that Ecker either doesn't know much about his duties or is not long for his position; but in reality, quite the opposite is true.

Ecker, who has served on Olympic committees, headed the amateur athletic program in Sweden and written five books on sports, has been the athletic director of the Cedar Rapids, Iowa, public school system for eight years. He addressed a workshop of Nebraska educators Tuesday.

Cedar Rapids schools have a 21-sport program that uses no tax money except for coaching salaries. Coaches have a no-cut policy where athletes practice every day and compete every week. The program includes 10 sports for boys, nine for girls and two co-ed sports

The program has been called one of the most extensive and best run in the country, Ecker said.

He said the program is designed to get the most students involved in sports, not to win championships.

Any student who wants to participate in a sport gets to play, he said. When a large number turn out for a certain sport, teams are divided according to athletic ability and play teams from other schools in their own level of skill.

"There's no stigma attached to playing on a B Level instead of an A," he said.

A coach can win the state championship and lose his job if he's not doing the right things for kids, Ecker said. Conversely, a coach can go 0-18 and stay forever if Ecker thinks he is doing a good job.

"Who gives a damn about state championships? We care about kids," he said.

Despite this nonchalant attitude toward winning, Cedar Rapids schools have won 25 state championships in eight years. Ecker attributes this to having such a broadbased program that potential athletes aren't cut before they get a chance to develop.

The system has also added many sports since he became director, especially for girls.

Girls have been cheated for too long, Ecker said, and Title IX, the federal law which requires equal athletic opportunity for both sexes, is putting things where they shoould have been 50 years ago.

Title IX, he added, is "a lousy law that's so poorly put together it's a bureaucratic nightmare.

"But it's better than what we had before."

In increasing the sports program for girls, Ecker said that the public is no problem, and the press is coming around. It's the school officials, usually women officials, that cause the biggest slowdown.

Ecker said that the arguments that girls don't want sports programs, don't need them or get hurt more than boys in sports just don't hold water.

But girls should compete against other girls, not against boys; both sexes shouldn't be grouped on the same team when they reach the high school level. The reason for his is purely phusical. Ecker explained.

Ecker said his athletic program, like all athletic systems in Iowa, is almost independent of tax funding. Tax dollars are not used for program costs such as uniforms, equipment, transportation or meals on the road. The only tax money spent is for coaches' salaries.

Program costs are supported mainly through gate receipts

The advantage to this is when the school budget is cut back, the athletic programs continue to thrive.

'Who gives a damn about state championships? We care about kids.'

Federal Judge Cracks Down On NCAA's Aid System

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — A federal district court judge declared unconstitutional Tuesday the National Collegiate Athletic Association's method of computing aid to student-athletes at its member colleges and universities.

Judge Richard D. Rogers also ordered University of Kansas track sprinter Clifford Wiley restored to full eligibility on scholarship in a case which could have far-reaching effects on the NCAA.

An attorney for the NCAA, the Big Eight Conference and the university, George Gangwere, said he assumed the organizations would appeal the decision to the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals in Denver.

There was no immediate comment from NCAA headquarters in Kansas City.

It is believed only the second time the NCAA has lost a decision at this high level. The other case involved Howard University some years ago.

Wiley, declared ineligible by K.U last March because his track scholarship and a federal student grant combined to provide him with more income than the NCAA formula permitted, brought suit.

Rogers issued injunctions last spring permitting Wiley to continue to compete for K.U. in the conference and NCAA track meets—competition which he contended were vital in his effort to win a place on the U.S. Olympic team. He did not make the Olympic team.

In his opinion, Rogers noted that Wiley, a black sophomore from Baltimore, came from a family of nine children. He also noted that Wiley's parents were divorced when he was six years old, and that the father had contributed nothing to the support of the family since.

The decision also noted that Wiley received the maximum $1,400 federal aid for the 1975-76 school year under the government's Basic Educational Opportunity Grant program.

He also received $2,621 from his track scholarship, pushing him beyond the $2,756 maximum a student-athlete at K.U could receive under the NCAA formula.

". . . The court finds that Article 3, Section 4 (b) as drafted and applied by the NCAA denies Clifford Wiley equal protection as guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States when applied to student-athletes receiving an athletic scholarship covering only 'commonly accepted educational expenses' and a full Basic Educational Opportunity Grant becasue of a zero student eligibility index," Rogers wrote.

"We find that limiting financing for a student-athlete with a zero student eligibility index under the BEOG program is totally irrational and contradictory to the purposes of the association."

Rogers issued a permanent injunction against K.U., the Big Eight and the NCAA to prohibit them from denying Wiley the right to participate in track or from denying him any rights and privileges associated with his track scholarship.

The judge said he also found the NCAA method of counting the BEOG grants in with other aid for determining the maximum student aid "violates the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment."

Court Continues OU Order

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A hearing on a temporary restraining order to prevent enforcement of a new rule which would require the University of Oklahoma to fire some football coaches was continued Tuesday until Friday.

Oklahoma County District Court Judge Charles L. Owens denied a motion by Burck Bailey, an attorney for the National Collegiate Athletic Association, to postpone the hearing until Aug. 23.

"Being so close to the opening of football season, I feel that this matter should be resolved before it starts," Owens said. Oklahoma opens its football season Sept. 11 at Vanderbilt.

At the heart of the matter is a new NCAA rule setting the limits on the size of football coaching staffs. The rule would force Oklahoma to fire four assistant coaches and two parttime assistants.

In response to a suit filed by University of Oklahoma Regents, Oklahoma County District Court Judge David M. Cook issued a temporary restraining order July 30 blocking enforcement of the rule against Oklahoma and set a hearing on a temporary injunction for Tuesday.

Baily and Ben Burdick, who represents the university's regents and 13 of the assistant coaches, said they had agreed between themselves to delay the hearing until late August because many of the anticipated witnesses are attending an NCAA meeting in Chicago.

Judge Owens told the two lawyers, however, they didn't have the authority to delay the case. Bailey then said he would agree to a Friday hearing and hoped to be able to secure all the witnesses in time.

After the hearing, Owens said, "I think that there will be enough time to reach a decision on a permanent injunction before the season opens. It seems to me that we ought to get a final determination before OU goes out there with 16 coaches and everybody else has eight."

Barrett Leaves Sooners

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — An assistant football coach at the University of Oklahoma who could have lost his job if a disputed NCAA rule were enforced said Tuesday that he is taking an assistant coaching position with the University of Wyoming.

Steve Barrett becamme the second assistant football coach to leave Oklahoma in three weeks.

"I feel sure that Steve would not have accepted the position (with Wyoming) if the NCAA staff limitations had not been put into effect," Oklahoma football coach Barry Switzer said, after Barrett announced his departure.

A new NCAA rule limits colleges to eight full-time assistant football coaches. Oklahoma is appealing the rule in court, arguing that it can not properly break contracts with its assistant football coaches.

NU Volleyball Tryouts Slated

Nebraska's volleyball coach Pat Sullivan announced that the first volleyball workout sessions for those interested in trying out for the Lady Husker volleyball team would be held in Room 393 of the WPE Bulding from 3:00-5:30 p.m., August 23rd-30th.

Sullivan specified that the first week would only be used for conditioning and skill drill purposes. "Active selection of the team will not occur during this first week," stated Sullivan. "I only want to give interested individuals a chance to work out before tryouts start."

Actual tryouts for the team will begin August 30th. It is essential that any woman planning on trying out for the varsity or junior varsity team be there.

Catching Catfish

Steve Rezac, 10, of Lincoln didn't count on his line breaking when he wrestled this 13-pound, 11-ounce catfish into the shallow part of a private lake Sunday near Fremont. Frzac didn't let that stop him from getting the fish, though, as he pulled it in by hand and scooped it ashore.

The two were tied 177-177 in the ninth frame, but Frame clinched the win by striking out in the 10th. All Fenton could do was strike and spare.

Tiny Mallard Thinks Boy Is His Mom

Gallatin, Tenn. (UPI) — Charlie is one confused duck. He thinks 13-year-old Van Phillips is his mother.

Van was standing on his parents' boat dock on Old Hickory Lake about six weeks ago when he first saw Charlie floating in the murky water.

"I thought it was a leaf at first, but then it moved and I dived in and got him. He still had part of egg on him and had a small piece of wood in his throat and could barely breathe," Van said.

But Van and a friend who works at the dock extracted the splinter from the mouth of the newly hatched wild mallard, and it quickly revived.

Van took the duck back to the Nashville home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Phillips, who own the Bledsoe Creek boat dock and campground near here.

"I started feeding him a baby chicken starter food, and now he eats bread and nibbles at everything. He follows me everywhere. He doesn't like to be carried. He wants to follow."

Charlie follows Van around the yard like a pet dog and stays in a pen at night.

Miller Withdraws From Meet

Johnny Miller
Sells Motorcycle

Johnny Miller, the second favorite in the PGA according to British bookie shops, has withdrawn from the championship classic because of a mild case of blood poisoning from an injured right hand.

PGA officials said Miller fell from his motorcycle last weekend ripping open his right palm. Doctors have told Miller that he should suffer no lasting effects from the injury.

"I was really looking forward to the PGA," said Miller. "It used to be that I didn't care about the PGA but after I won the British Open I realized I had a chance to win the grand slam," said Miller, who won the U.S. Open in 1973. Miller added that his motorcycle is now up for sale.

Foster, Boit Gain Victories

Helsinki (UPI) — Brendan Foster of Britain won the 5,000 meters in 13:26.34 Tuesday at the Finnish international track and field games as double Olympic champion Lasse Viren, suffering from a head cold, finished seventh in 13:42.1.

Mike Boit of Kenya won the 800 meters in 1:44.90, with Olympic bronze medallist Rick Wohlhuter of Chicago a poor sixth in 1:50.26. Boit had not been allowed by Kenyan authorities to run in Stockholm Monday because of New Zealand's participation, but New Zealanders did not compete here.

The 5,000 meters race was a disappointment since both Viren and Foster felt before the race that a record was possible. But the going was slow, with Martti Vainio of Finland leading the pack until the last 1,000 meters, when Foster took over. Knut Kvalheim, Norway, was second in 13:26.73 and Paul Geis, Eugene, Ore., third in 13:27.43.

In the 800 meters, European champion Luciano Susanj pulled up and doctors said he had broken an achilles tendon and was out of further competition for the season.

Francie Larrieu Lutz of Long Beach, Calif., set an American record in the women's 1,500 meters in 4:07.01. En route to victory, her intermediate times were 1:04.6 at 400 meters, 2:12.3 at 800 meters.

Jim Bolding of Long Beach captured the 400 meter hurdles in 49.3, with fellow American Quentin Wheeler, of New Shrewsbury, N.J., 1.2 seconds behind in third. Briton Alan Pascoe just edged Wheeler for second in 50.45.

Arnie Robinson of San Diego took the long jump with a leap of 25 feet 3¼ inches (7.70 meters).

Jacek Wszola, Poland, with a jump of 7 feet 4¼ inches (2.24 meters) won the high jump over controversial Dwight Stones. The Huntington Beach, Calif. native cleared the same height but lost on more misses. Tom Woods and Roy Kotinek gave the U.S. a 2-3-4 finish in the event, with Woods at 2.21 and Kotinek at 2.15.

In other events, Panama's Guy Abrahams took the 100-meter dash in 10.5 seconds, Heikki Kangas of Finland took the hammer throw with a toss of 225 feet 8½ inches (68.8 meters), and Miklos Nemeth of Hungary won the javelin with a throw of 288 feet 1½ inches (87.82 meters).

The games marked the 70th anniversary of the Finnish Track and Field Association. A boisterous crowd of 25,383 attended the games at the Olympic Stadium.

Stan's Lounge Clinches Title

LaVane Johnson hurled a perfect game through 4 and 1/3 innings and held on to blank Walker Tire 5-0 and help Stan's Lounge clinch the AAA fastpitch softball league in a Tuesday night game at Ballard Field.

Johnson didn't allow a man on base until the fifth inning, when with one out Mike Kelley singled. Johnson allowed two more hits but struckout 13 Walker Tire batters for the seven innings. Stan's is now 22-5 on the year.

In the nightcap Cookie Irons slammed a two-run homer in the third inning and pitcher Bruce Wefer scored on a sacrifice fly by Don Baack to help Racquet Lounge edge Deans Brothers 4-3.

Columbus Earns Berth

Columbus — Tom Lange drove in four runs and combined with a strong relief pitching effort by Mike Brandt the Columbus junior Legion baseball team upset Grand Island 7-4 to win the A-6 district championship Tuesday night and earn a berth in the state tournament.

Lange homered in the first with one man on to boost Columbus to a 2-0 lead. He then added a run-scoring single in the fifth to help the home team gain a 4-0 lead.

But in the bottom of the fifth Grand Island collected four runs on six hits off Columbus starter Jeff Schumacher to tie the game.

Columbus scored the winning run in the sixth when Lange sacrificed in a run to put the winners ahead 5-4.

Columbus, which lost three games to Grand Island this year, will now advance to the state tournament in Ralston with a 21-17 record. Grand Island closes its season with a 24-14 record.

Monday night the Columbus midgets earned a berth in the state tournament. It is the first time since 1969 that Columbus has sent both teams to the state meet.

Peter Fonda's Business Is 'Communication'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Politics is Jane's game — she does it much better than I ever could. Communication is my business, and it's just as important. If we don't communicate, all of us on this earth might as well throw in the towel."

A barefoot Peter Fonda was expounding in his suite at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel. For such a taciturn man, Henry Fonda certainly spawned two talkative offspring.

Peter had come to town to help open his new American-International film, "Futureworld," a sequel to Michael Crichton's successful "Westworld." His arrival had been delayed because of the harvest on his Montana ranch.

"We've got 12 acres of apples, 60 of barley and 35 of grazing land," said the actor. "I let my neighbors graze their cattle, then I get to take a calf at the end of the season. We've also got a vegetable garden where we grow everything we need."

He also lives on his 80-foot yacht, the Tatoosh, now anchored at Lahaina, Hawaii, where he worked at communicating. Some of his critics wonder how much social content can be found in such a film as "Dirty Mary, Crazy Larry."

"I did the picture because I knew it would be exciting to watch," said Fonda. "It is incredibly entertaining, and for that reason reviewers have attacked it. Reviewers don't like forays into entertainment.

"It was a good exercise for me; I learned to act against 18 car stunts. And it was also good for audiences. Something must have been there, because people went to see it five times. That's the way you get $30-million earnings on a picture."

Fonda has a percentage of the profits, hence he can afford to keep the Tatoosh at anchor in Lahaina. He also had a big chunk of the 1969 "Easy Rider," which he produced and which changed the face of the film industry for a time.

Peter Fonda

"'Easy Rider' made me a direct threat to a lot of people," he remarked. "It gave independent producers a shot in the arm at a time when the big studios were running everything."

The big studios tried to follow the hugely successful film with others directed by untried film makers (Fonda's co-star, Dennis Hopper, had directed "Easy Rider.") All failed, and some of the films were not even released. Millions of dollars were lost in youth-cult "statements."

"Why blame me?" Fonda shrugged. "At least I got back into the theaters an audience that until then had been more interested in finding paper to wrap around their marijuana."

He not only bucked the industry with "Easy Rider" but the film unions as well. He made the film without crews from the I.A.T.S.E, which controls both the set workers and theater projectionists. Threatened with theater boycott, he "shelled out $30,000 under the table so I could get the picture shown in New York City."

Fonda added that "Easy Rider" also posed a threat for political reasons —"it asked questions without giving the answers."

Certainly films like "Dirty Mary, Crazy Larry" ask no questions.

"An idea for a film that would contain a statement of the human condition hasn't come through my head," Fonda explained. "Meanwhile, I think it's good to make pictures like 'Futureworld' which are entertaining at a time when people want to be entertained." His next will be a love story set in Europe, part of a four-picture contract between his company and United Artists.

As for the 1976 political race, he'll leave it to Jane.

"I'll campaign against the killing of baby seals and whales, the clear-cutting of forests and pollution of the atmosphere," he said. "Politics doesn't interest me. I can accomplish more by communicating. They don't know who the hell Jerry Brown is in Japan and Africa, but they know and accept me there."

Singer OK After Surgery

Nashville, Tenn. (AP) — Country music singer Tammy Wynette is recovering from an operation for removal of her gall bladder and separation of abdominal ahesions, hospital officials said Tuesday.

She was in fair condition at St. Thomas Hospital here after surgery Friday, a hospital spokesman said.

A spokesman said Miss Wynette entered the hospital late Thursday suffering severe stomach pains.

The pains, which the singer has suffered in recent months, should be corrected by the surgery, the spokesman said.

'Sail Skateboarding'

Nags Head, N.C. (AP) — C. D. Quidley, a young beach motel employe, may have created a new sport — "sail skateboarding" — compliments of Hurricane Belle.

Quidley donned a wetsuit and a woolen hat and gathered his skateboard and a large plastic garbage bag during Hurricane Belle's gusts at midday at this Outer Banks resort.

He got on his skateboard and opened the plastic bag to the wind and zoomed off down North Carolina 12 in the rain.

Burr Cancels Final Week

Chicago (UPI) — Raymond Burr, best known as television's Perry Mason and Ironsides, has canceled the final week of a scheduled five-week performance in "The Good Doctor" because of a painful dental problem.

George Keathley, managing director of Drury Lane Theater, said Burr for three weeks "has been troubled by a persistent dental problem, which has caused him severe pain."

MacPhail Punishes Yankees

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees, fined $1,000 and reprimanded by the American League Tuesday for using their instant replay scoreboard at Yankee Stadium to show close plays, responded by accusing the league of a "cover up" policy and hinted they would continue to show them.

George Steinbrenner, managing partner of the Yanks, had complained to AL President Lee MacPhail about the umpiring in Sunday's 8-5 loss to the Baltimore Orioles. The Yankees also put out a news release criticizing what the team alleged was a series of bad calls by the crew headed by Lou DiMuro.

The Yankees were particularly incensed about an eighth-inning call by Bill Kunkel. On the play, New York's Gene Locklear was called out at first base. The Yankees insisted Locklear was safe, that Baltimore first baseman Tony Muser juggled the ball and did not have his foot on the base.

The Yankees replayed the incident on the giant screen, evoking a bitter reaction from the crowd, then posted the umpires' names on the screen.

MacPhail sent a telegram to Steinbrenner Tuesday which said, in part:

". . . it has come to my attention that the New York club again used the replay scoreboard in a manner contrary to policy recommended by this league I am also informed that, following a close decision on the field, you posted the names of the umpires in a manner calculated to produce fan reaction against the umpires.

"Irresponsible action of this sort could result in physical harm to an umpire and, in fact, it has been reported to me that, on this occasion, a bottle was thrown on the field, possibly from an upper deck, landing near the umpire. I also have read a copy of a publicity release given out by the Yankees containing inaccuracies and demeaning to league officials."

John Candelaria receives a hug from his wife, Alice, outside the Pirate clubhouse after he hurled a no-hit shutout Monday night in Pittsburgh.

Gem Now Real For Candelaria

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (UPI) — He may be 6-foot-7, mustachioed and five years past the voting age, but the Pirates' ice tea-sipping, wise-crackinng "Candy Man" is still just a big kid at heart.

So it's easy to understand why, on the morning after John Candelaria became the first Pirate to hurl a no-hitter at home since 1907, the carefree southpaw acted kind of like the little boy who runs from his bedroom to the den the morning after Christmas to make sure the shiny two-wheeler he always wanted is still by the tree.

As Candy awoke Tuesday, scratching what was only a mere hour's sleep from his dark eyes, his first thought was to "find out if it was real.

"I went right out and brought a paper and looked at the box score. It was right there," Candy said.

A big, toothy, grin spread over his face, which was bent shyly, as usual, toward the floor and away from the stare of strangers.

Newsprint assured Candelaria of the reality of the achievement he had dreamed of as a sandlot player in Brooklyn, but the scores of reporters, well-wishers and fame-seekers who bombarded his home with telephone calls and telegrams Tuesday made the feat take on a grotesque air.

"I couldn't take any more phone calls. They were driving me crazy," Candy said.

He left his wife and daughter to cope with the madness in mid-afternoon and sought refuge in the relative privacy of the Pirates' dugout at Three Rivers Stadium. Shortly afterwards he was out on the field with the rest of the Pirate pitchers and a few other weak hitters for batting practice.

"I won't change," Candelaria said. "It affected me. It's great. But I can't live on this one game. Some people have just one great year and that's what they live on. I've only been here a year and I've got a lot more to learn."

A bonus is a sure thing at seasons' end and commercial endorsements are likely to come his way, but Candelaria, 11-4 on the season, has other things to think of for the time being.

You see, the way the "Candy Man" explains it, as happy as the non-hitter made him, "winning a World Series would make me feel even better."

Sprinters, Stockers Eye Races

By KEN HAMBLETON
Star Sports Writer

Lincolnite Gary Dunkle hasn't finished in the Knoxville Nationals sprint car championships races since his first year there in 1971.

But entering the 16th annual event Dunkle is figured to be one of the drivers to beat in the 140-plus car field entered in the races Wednesday through Saturday, at the Marion County Fairgrounds half-mile dirt track in Knoxville, Ia.

Dunkle, who won four features during the regular season at Knoxville, will lead a Lincoln contingent of drivers that includes Don Maxwell in the Lincoln Welding Special, Dick Kenney, Wayne Holz and others.

"We're putting a new engine that I built many of the parts for, including pistons, in our car for the qualifying on Wednesday," said Dunkle a tool and die maker. "We'll need a lot more horsepower for the qualifications than we will for the championship race on Saturday.

"The track will be a lot smoother Wednesday than it will be by Saturday, and qualifying well is the most important thing we face," said Dunkle. "There will be 22 cars in the 35-lap final Saturday and there probably won't be more than a half-second between the qualifying times of all the cars."

Other entries for the races with a guaranteed purse of $36,005.00 with additional lap and contingency money, include Doug Wolfgang, who recently won the 1976 Knoxville point championship, and former IMCA champion Dick Suttcliffe, who also won this year's point title at Eagle Raceway.

Joe Saldana, formerly of Lincoln, will be trying to regain his lap record on the track from Eddie Leavitt, who snapped the six-year-old mark last week, and Jan Opperman, formerly from Beaver Crossing, now a standout on the USAC circuit are also early entries in the championships.

"I think if I can finish in the top five I'll be happy because of the top quality of the drivers competing," said Dunkle. "I just better be the one to catch because sprint car races are not endurance races and once you get in front you have almost all the advantages to staying there."

Qualifications will be held Wednesday and Thursday with a non-qualifier race on Friday. Saturday there will be heat races capped by three title races with a 35-lap feature for the national title.

Omaha's Sunset Speedway will be hosting the final leg of the three-race series Wednesday night at 8 p m. with $500 of the $3,000 purse going to the winner. And the overall point champion gains $300 extra.

Dean Ward of Grand Island and Dick Jensen of Aurora, the top two drivers at Midwest, are listed sixth and eighth respectively in the tri-city standings.

Hobby stockers will be heading to Beatrice for the Gage County championships at Beatrice Speedway Wednesday night at 7:30 p m Gene Jakub of Columbus, Jim Manning of Cordova along with Hap Terrill, Orville Hoffman, Ken and Rick Krogh will be some of the drivers competing from the Lincoln area.

Gain Biggest In Month

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market scored its biggest gain in more than a month Tuesday with a boost from hopes for some favorable news on inflation later in the week.

Trading remained relatively quiet, however.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks climbed 9.97 to 993.43, its sharpest rise since July 9, when it picked up 11.13 points.

Gainers outpaced losers by close to a 2-1 margin in the daily tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Big Board volume totalled 16.69 million shares, up from 11.70 million Monday, when the session closed an hour early because of Hurricane Belle.

The government is due to report Thursday on its wholesale price index for July.

Speculation circulated on Wall Street Tuesday that the index, used as a primary measure of inflationary pressures, would turn in a stable showing or even a decline.

"There are hopes that it will be favorable, especially since commodity prices have been declining sharply recently," observed Newton D. Zinder at E.F. Hutton & Co.

The rally was led by glamor issues. IBM rose 4 points, Digital Equipment more than 3, and Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing, the newest of the Dow 30, more than 2.

Burroughs, Texas Instruments, Fairchild Camera and Xerox each added more than a point.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose .92 to 104.41, and the NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks was up .46 at 55.76.

Coca-Cola Bottling of New York led the active list for the second straight day, rising a fraction in trading marked by blocks of 144,900 and 92,500 shares.

J. Ray McDermott, which reported earnings for the quarter ended June 30 of more than twice comparable year-ago figures, tacked on more than a point.

SealRite, Indal Sign Purchase Agreement

Principal shareholders of SealRite Industries Inc., of Lincoln have signed a purchase agreement with Indal Inc., the U.S. holding company of Indal Ltd. of Canada.

SealRite President Herbert Heumann said Indal anticipates paying about $1.8 million for 70% of the SealRite stock. A $33.17-a-share tender offer has been mailed to shareholders, he said.

SealRite, a manufacturer of wood windows and insulating glass units, will be operated as a subsidiary of Indal Inc. Management and employes of SealRite would hold the remaining stock and continue to operate the company, Heumann said. Heumann will be board chairman of SealRite, with Paul Brown of Lincoln as president.

The company presently employs about 125 persons, Brown said, and expects to be adding more employes as the business expands under Indal. The factory payroll now is about $50,000 a month, he said.

SealRite Industries sales for the fiscal year ending Nov. 30 are expected to reach $6 million, Heumann said.

Reduced Hauling Rates OKd For Norfolk Firm

The Nebraska Public Service Commission Tuesday granted a reduced rate schedule for Clark Bros. Transfer of Norfolk for hauling iron and steel and related products intrastate.

The commission ordered that the "25 miles and under" category be removed from that tariff for all carriers and reduced the rates on three other existing mileage brackets.

Clark Bros. said the purpose of the reduced rates was to obtain business now moving via contract and company trucks. The new schedule will generate from 74 cents to $1.12 per running mile, which is compensatory. The order is effective Sept. 1.

The commission also granted approval of an application by the Seward County Cooperative Association of Seward and Garland to consolidate their licensed public grain warehouses.

Sperry New Holland To Expand

Lexington (UPI) — Officials of the Sperry New Holland plant said Tuesday construction will begin immediately on an addition to its plant here which will cost more than $3 million.

Eventually the added facilities will make possible the creation of 300 jobs, the company said.

Court Continues OU Order

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A hearing on a temporary restraining order to prevent enforcement of a new rule which would require the University of Oklahoma to fire some football coaches was continued Tuesday until Friday

Oklahoma County District Court Judge Charles L Owens denied a motion by Burck Bailey, an attorney for the National Collegiate Athletic Association, to postpone the hearing until Aug 23

"Being so close to the opening of football season, I feel that this matter should be resolved before it starts," Owens said Oklahoma opens its football season Sept 11 at Vanderbilt

At the heart of the matter is a new NCAA rule setting the limits on the size of football coaching staffs The rule would force Oklahoma to fire four assistant coaches and two parttime assistants

In response to a suit filed by University of Oklahoma Regents, Oklahoma County District Court Judge David M Cook issued a temporary restraining order July 30 blocking enforcement of the rule against Oklahoma and set a hearing on a temporary injunction for Tuesday

Baily and Ben Burdick, who represents the university's regents and 13 of the assistant coaches, said they had agreed between themselves to delay the hearing until late August because many of the anticipated witnesses are attending an NCAA meeting in Chicago

Judge Owens told the two lawyers, however, they didn't have the authority to delay the case Bailey then said he would agree to a Friday hearing and hoped to be able to secure all the witnesses in time.

After the hearing, Owens said, "I think that there will be enough time to reach a decision on a permanent injunction before the season opens It seems to me that we ought to get a final determination before OU goes out there with 16 coaches and everybody else has eight "

Barrett Leaves Sooners

NORMAN, Okla (AP) — An assistant football coach at the University of Oklahoma who could have lost his job if a disputed NCAA rule were enforced said Tuesday that he is taking an assistant coaching position with the University of Wyoming

Steve Barrett becamme the second assistant football coach to leave Oklahoma in three weeks

"I feel sure that Steve would not have accepted the position (with Wyoming) if the NCAA staff limitations had not been put into effect, Oklahoma football coach Barry Switzer said, after Barrett announced his departure

A new NCAA rule limits colleges to eight full-time assistant football coaches Oklahoma is appealing the rule in court, arguing that it can not properly break contracts with its assistant football coaches

NU Volleyball Tryouts Slated

Nebraska's volleyball coach Pat Sullivan announced that the first volleyball workout sessions for those interested in trying out for the Lady Husker volleyball team would be held in Room 393 of the WPE Bulding from 3 00-5 30 p m , August 23rd-30th

Sullivan specified that the first week would only be used for conditioning and skill drill purposes "Active selection of the team will not occur during this first week," stated Sullivan "I only want to give interested individuals a chance to work out before tryouts start "

Actual tryouts for the team will begin August 30th It is essential that any woman planning on trying out for the varsity or junior varsity team be there

Tiny Mallard Thinks Boy Is His Mom

Gallatin, Tenn (UPI) — Charlie is one confused duck. He thinks 13-year-old Van Phillips is his mother

Van was standing on his parents' boat dock on Old Hickory Lake about six weeks ago when he first saw Charlie floating in the murky water.

"I thought it was a leaf at first, but then it moved and I dived in and got him He still had part of egg on him and had a small piece of wood in his throat and could barely breathe," Van said

But Van and a friend who works at the dock extracted the splinter from the mouth of the newly hatched wild mallard, and it quickly revived

Van took the duck back to the Nashville home of his parents, Mr and Mrs Dudley Phillips, who own the Bledsoe Creek boat dock and campground near here

"I started feeding him a baby chicken starter food, and now he eats bread and nibbles at everything He follows me everywhere He doesn t like to be carried He wants to follow

Charlie follows Van around the yard like a pet dog and stays in a pen at night

Peter Fonda's Business Is 'Communication'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Politics is Jane's game — she does it much better than I ever could. Communication is my business, and it's just as important. If we don't communicate, all of us on this earth might as well throw in the towel."

A barefoot Peter Fonda was expounding in his suite at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel. For such a taciturn man, Henry Fonda certainly spawned two talkative offspring.

Peter had come to town to help open his new American-International film, "Futureworld," a sequel to Michael Crichton's successful "Westworld." His arrival had been delayed because of the harvest on his Montana ranch.

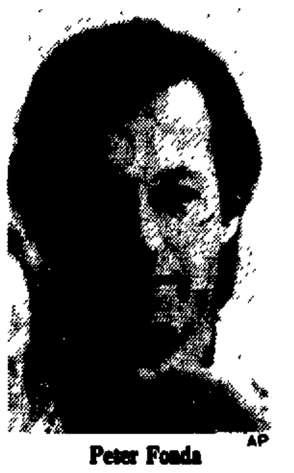
"We've got 12 acres of apples, 60 of barley and 35 of grazing land," said the actor. "I let my neighbors graze their cattle, then I get to take a calf at the end of the season. We've also got a vegetable garden where we grow everything we need."

He also lives on his 80-foot yacht, the Tatoosh, now anchored at Lahaina, Hawaii, where he worked at communicating. Some of his critics wonder how much social content can be found in such a film as "Dirty Mary, Crazy Larry."

"I did the picture because I knew it would be exciting to watch," said Fonda. "It is incredibly entertaining, and for that reason reviewers have attacked it. Reviewers don't like forays into entertainment.

"It was a good exercise for me; I learned to act against 18 car stunts. And it was also good for audiences. Something must have been there, because people went to see it five times. That's the way you get $30-million earnings on a picture."

Fonda has a percentage of the profits, hence he can afford to keep the Tatoosh at anchor in Lahaina. He also had a big chunk of the 1969 "Easy Rider," which he produced and which changed the face of the film industry for a time.



Peter Fonda AP

" 'Easy Rider' made me a direct threat to a lot of people," he remarked. "It gave independent producers a shot in the arm at a time when the big studios were running everything."

The big studios tried to follow the hugely successful film with others directed by untried film makers (Fonda's co-star, Dennis Hopper, had directed "Easy Rider.") All failed, and some of the films were not even released. Millions of dollars were lost in youth-cult "statements."

"Why blame me?" Fonda shrugged. "At least I got back into the theaters an audience that until then had been more interested in finding paper to wrap around their marijuana."

He not only bucked the industry with "Easy Rider" but the film unions as well. He made the film without crews from the I.A.T.S.E, which controls both the set workers and theater projectionists. Threatened with theater boycott, he "shelled out $30,000 under the table so I could get the picture shown in New York City."

Fonda added that "Easy Rider" also posed a threat for political reasons —"it asked questions without giving the answers."

Certainly films like "Dirty Mary, Crazy Larry" ask no questions.

"An idea for a film that would contain a statement of the human condition hasn't come through my head," Fonda explained. "Meanwhile, I think it's good to make pictures like 'Futureworld' which are entertaining at a time when people want to be entertained." His next will be a love story set in Europe, part of a four-picture contract between his company and United Artists.

As for the 1976 political race, he'll leave it to Jane.

"I'll campaign against the killing of baby seals and whales, the clear-cutting of forests and pollution of the atmosphere," he said. "Politics doesn't interest me. I can accomplish more by communicating. They don't know who the hell Jerry Brown is in Japan and Africa, but they know and accept me there."

Singer OK After Surgery

Nashville, Tenn. (AP) — Country music singer Tammy Wynette is recovering from an operation for removal of her gall bladder and separation of abdominal abesions, hospital officials said Tuesday.

She was in fair condition at St. Thomas Hospital here after surgery Friday, a hospital spokesman said.

A spokesman said Miss Wynette entered the hospital late Thursday suffering severe stomach pains.

The pains, which the singer has suffered in recent months, should be corrected by the surgery, the spokesman said.

'Sail Skateboarding'

Nags Head, N.C. (AP) — C. D. Quidley, a young beach motel employe, may have created a new sport — "sail skateboarding" — compliments of Hurricane Belle.

Quidley donned a wetsuit and a woolen hat and gathered his skateboard and a large plastic garbage bag during Hurricane Belle's gusts at midday at this Outer Banks resort.

He got on his skateboard and opened the plastic bag to the wind and zoomed off down North Carolina 12 in the rain.

Burr Cancels Final Week

Chicago (UPI) — Raymond Burr, best known as television's Perry Mason and Ironsides, has canceled the final week of a scheduled five-week performance in "The Good Doctor" because of a painful dental problem.

George Keathley, managing director of Drury Lane Theater, said Burr for three weeks "has been troubled by a persistent dental problem, which has caused him severe pain."

American Party Takes Stands

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The newly formed American Party of Nebraska is formally and officially opposed to open housing laws, school desegregation mandates and federal aid to public schools.

Printed copies of the party's platform, adopted at its state convention in June, were distributed at a legislative hearing in Omaha last week.

Latest voter registration figures, compiled at the secretary of state's office last April, list party membership in Nebraska at 133.

But American Party voters did succeed last May in nominating a congressional candidate in the Third District to oppose the Republican and Democratic nominees in November.

Their choice, Dr. Bill Steen of Sargent, is the party's state chairman.

"We believe that the Democrats and the Republicans are in reality two separate wings of a socialist, liberal philosophy for those who prefer labels rather than positions," the party's platform states.

"We consider ourselves common sense constitutional conservatives."

The platform opposes "forced housing . . . the degrading racial imbalance law and any forced busing schemes" for the schools.

"We believe in the constitutional rights to own, rent and dispose of privately owned property with no infringement by the local, state or federal government or any appointive authority.

"There is no such thing as a free man who does not retain the right to dispose of his property as he sees fit."

As for racial balance in the schools, the platform states, "any government that mandates forced association is in conflict with the laws of nature and the God-given rights of free men."

Children should not be categorized by race, the party document states.

As for school aid, the platform opposes all federal aid to public schools "because it leads to federal control."

On other matters, the American Party opposes "all attempts to liberalize any anti-abortion laws," gun control legislation, "compulsory" fluoridation of water supplies, sex education in the schools, regional or metropolitan government and federal aid to local police.

The party supports "the return of voluntary prayer and Bible reading in the schools," capital punishment, election of all judges, adoption of a partisan legislature, abolition of the Federal Reserve System and criminal penalties for "the unsolicited presentation or exhibition of obscenity, including any public display of homosexuality."

The platform opposes continued U.S. membership in the United Nations and suggests that "no positive good (can) be gained from aiding, trading or making agreements with Communists."

Domestically, the party is "opposed to any additional welfare proposals and will work to reduce and, in time, eliminate the state and federal government's involvement in welfare."

In summary, the American Party states, it believes in "less governments (and) more individual responsibility."

Guidelines For Alcoholism Bill OKd

By GRACIA McANDREW
Star Staff Writer

Guidelines for a new state bill on alcoholism were approved Tuesday by members of the State Department of Public Institution's alcoholism division.

According to the proposed guidelines, implementation of the bill, which would increase regional treatment and rehabilitation services for alcoholics, would be financed by higher liquor taxes.

If approved by the Unicameral, the higher taxes would include beer, to be increased two cents to 12 cents per gallon; wine, to be higher by 10 cents or 85 cents per gallon; and alcohol and spirits, to be increased by 10 cents to $2.10 per gallon.

Approximately $13 million to $17 million in revenue is generated by current liquor taxes, said Dr. William Ford, division director. However, if the bill was implemented, revenue would be increased and the division would receive from $1 million to $1.5 million to increase services in its six regions.

Consequently, the state would be able to provide 75% of the funds required to provide services for each region.

A similar bill (LB993) to finance alcoholic services was not enacted by the Legislature last year.

Also at the meeting, the board voted to investigate the possibility of initiating a State Voluntary Alcoholism Association.

Ford told commission members that the National Council on Alcoholism has tentatively offered a three-year grant for the establishment of the association t stimulate citizen interest and involvement in the problems of and existing programs on alcoholism.

The association "would be independent of state government," Ford said, adding it would "increase, on the grassroots level, the interest and involvement in alcoholic services."

Noting that the association would be nonprofit and similar to state mental health associations, Ford said, the group could facilitate greater public education programs — something the state and regional alcoholism agencies cannot do because of restricted budgets.

At a later meeting of the division's citizens advisory council, Ford said the division's projected budget includes $391,390 in federal funding and grants and $83,000 in state money.

A breakdown of the 1976-77 budget includes: $37,514 for Region I (the Panhandle area); $37,178 for Region II (North Platte area); $44,210 for Region III (Hastings, Grand Island and Kearney area); $46,802 for Region IV (Norfolk and northern Nebraska counties); $50,663 for Region V (Lincoln and southeast Nebraska); and $68,630 for Region VI (Omaha area).

Afghanistan Running Into Beef Difficulties

Dr. Ted Doane, professor of animal science at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, said Afghanistan is facing major breeding and management problems in its beef production because of a "lack of communication between researcher and farmer."

Doane, who returned to UNL for a brief visit, has been teaching and coordinating research at Afghanistan's Kabul University for the past 18 months as part of an NU contract with the U.S. Agency for International Development.

"We must convince them (agricultural authorities) that it is far more important for the farmer and nomad, because their incomes depend upon it, to have the information gained from research than it is for the researcher's own sake," Doane said.

He urged international aid and assistance to develop what he called the importance of research with Kabul's staff members.

But he said the major obstacle is not one of attitude, but of money.

"The Kabul educational system is very young but has made tremendous progress in the last 30 years," Doane said. "The teaching quality is rather good, but research is short of staff and monetary resources."

He contrasted Afghanistan's beef and sheep production, which he said is "very good."

"They (sheep) are specific breeds and are very well adapted to the land," he said.

Gain Biggest In Month

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market scored its biggest gain in more than a month Tuesday with a boost from hopes for some favorable news on inflation later in the week.

Trading remained relatively quiet, however.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks climbed 9.97 to 993.43, its sharpest rise since July 9, when it picked up 11.13 points.

Gainers outpaced losers by close to a 2-1 margin in the daily tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Big Board volume totalled 16 69 million shares, up from 11.70 million Monday, when the session closed an hour early because of Hurricane Belle.

The government is due to report Thursday on its wholesale price index for July.

Speculation circulated on Wall Street Tuesday that the index, used as a primary measure of inflationary pressures, would turn in a stable showing or even a decline.

"There are hopes that it will be favorable, especially since commodity prices have been declining sharply recently," observed Newton D. Zinder at E.F. Hutton & Co.

The rally was led by glamor issues. IBM rose 4 points, Digital Equipment more than 3, and Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing, the newest of the Dow 30, more than 2.

Burroughs, Texas Instruments, Fairchild Camera and Xerox each added more than a point.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose .92 to 104.41, and the NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks was up .46 at 55.76.

Coca-Cola Bottling of New York led the active list for the second straight day, rising a fraction in trading marked by blocks of 144,900 and 92,500 shares.

J. Ray McDermott, which reported earnings for the quarter ended June 30 of more than twice comparable year-ago figures, tacked on more than a point.

SealRite, Indal Sign Purchase Agreement

Principal shareholders of SealRite Industries Inc., of Lincoln have signed a purchase agreement with Indal Inc., the U S holding company of Indal Ltd. of Canada

SealRite President Herbert Heumann said Indal anticipates paying about $1 8 million for 70% of the SealRite stock. A $33 17-a-share tender offer has been mailed to shareholders, he said.

SealRite, a manufacturer of wood windows and insulating glass units, will be operated as a subsidiary of Indal Inc. Management and employes of SealRite would hold the remaining stock and continue to operate the company, Heumann said. Heumann will be board chairman of SealRite, with Paul Brown of Lincoln as president.

The company presently employs about 125 persons, Brown said, and expects to be adding more employes as the business expands under Indal. The factory payroll now is about $50,000 a month, he said.

SealRite Industries sales for the fiscal year ending Nov. 30 are expected to reach $6 million, Heumann said.

Reduced Hauling Rates OKd For Norfolk Firm

The Nebraska Public Service Commission Tuesday granted a reduced rate schedule for Clark Bros Transfer of Norfolk for hauling iron and steel and related products intrastate.

The commission ordered that the "25 miles and under" category be removed from that tariff for all carriers and reduced the rates on three other existing mileage brackets.

Clark Bros. said the purpose of the reduced rates was to obtain business now moving via contract and company trucks. The new schedule will generate from 74 cents to $1.12 per running mile, which is compensatory. The order is effective Sept. 1.

The commission also granted approval of an application by the Seward County Cooperative Association of Seward and Garland to consolidate their licensed public grain warehouses.

Sperry New Holland To Expand

Lexington (UPI) — Officials of the Sperry New Holland plant said Tuesday construction will begin immediately on an addition to its plant here which will cost more than $3 million.

The expansion will increase the grain combine manufacturing plant's size 60% and will cover 178,600 square feet, according to Ted Jackson, company vice president for manufacturing in North America.

Eventually the added facilities will make possible the creation of 300 jobs, the company said.

Parents Of Gifted Ask For School Challenge

By J. L. SCHMIDT
Star Staff Writer

Parents of highly gifted students in the Lincoln public schools want their children to have more of a challenge.

That's one of the conclusions drawn by the school's staff following several weeks of interviews with parents, according to Ron Brandt, assistant superintendent of curriculum, who released the findings to the Lincoln Board of Education Tuesday.

Of the parents interviewed, 26 gave a positive response when asked if their child was sufficiently challenged, but, "a substantial minority, 18," answered in the negative, Brandt said.

Another significant finding was that 45 parents thought their children should be given separate instruction part of the day, Brandt added. Very little support was given for special Saturday or summer sessions.

The most perferred method of grouping was tutoring, with 24 parents suggesting that technique, Brandt said. Resource rooms were mentioned by 17 and 11 favored grouping by level of achievement.

Separation of students has been a concern of the board who voiced concern that students shouldn't be isolated from their peers.

Superintendent John Prasch explained a proposed program for the gifted which will be used in the schools this fall. He said he hoped to keep it a "low visibility program to the general public" in an effort to avoid creating a stigma for the students involved.

Other procedural matters affecting students were discussed with an eye toward an August 30 opening.

Plans for a continued cultural awareness program, now dubbed multi-cultural education, were reviewed by the board as were the results of testing in the schools.

Plans for a shortened day for staff development at Prescott School, endorsed by the parent group at the school and presented to the board several months ago, have been curtailed by a ruling from the State Department of Education.

Prasch explained the ruling from Hugh Harlan, administrator of the section of school management services with the state department which said that the plan would be in violation of Rule 14, a state mandate governing accreditation standards.

Harlan noted, in a letter to Prasch, that implementation of the plan would be in violation of the rule and the schools "would stand to lose a portion of state aid and state apportionment."

"We would recommend," the letter continued, "that you delay the implementation of this proposal for at least one year."

Harlan explained that the department is revising the state accreditation standards and that the proposal will be included in that study. The board urged Prasch to push for some flexibility in those standards so the schools could experiment with the plan.

The Prescott plan would lengthen the hours of class on four days with an early dismissal one day a week for staff planning and development. Rule 14 requires a full day and 175 calendar days of school and the Prescott plan would not be compatible with the law, the Harlan letter said.

The board approved appointments to a grievance panel for Title IX programs which deal with sex discrimination in the schools. Appointees include: Southeast High student Jill Gradwohl, Dawes teacher John Fischer, Pound assistant principal Betty Pauly, parent Ellie Beeman, board attorney Ed Perry and a representative from the Lincoln PTA council.

The board voted to discontinue an insurance program for student band instruments because of rising costs and a lack of interest. The program, which provided the insurance at reduced rates, has created "considerable paper work," according to Robert Den Hartog, assistant superintendent for business affairs.

Approval of a new school site for the proposed Highlands addition, to be built northeast of the municipal airport, was given to the developers pending a legal description for the plot as well as other minor details.

The new location was necessary after developers changed the entire layout to satisfy noise pollution standards required before federal funding could be secured for the project.

New, Ringo Movie Filming

Former Beatle Ringo Starr shows off his new haircut while posing with Angelika, his partner in a 45-minute movie being filmed in Hamburg, West Germany. 2 Survive 29 Hours In Sea

Cape Canaveral, Fla. (UPI) — Two young men bunched seaweed together to stay afloat and kicked small sharks away in a 29-hour fight against hurricane-whipped seas and exposure.

The two Floridians, Wayne Contelmo of Bartow, and Dennis Pocaca of Delray Beach, dropped into the foaming sea when they lost their grip as they went hand over hand down a rope to a dinghy that was being pulled behind their 35-foot sailboat, the Nimbus.

They told their rescuer, Capt. Gene Riggs of the 72-foot scallop trawler Teresa Ann, that the sailboat just kept heading away from them. "They said they thought the others were just leaving them to stew but after about 45 minutes they didn't think the others were joking," Riggs said.

The men were sighted Monday evening by the crew of the Greek freighter Taeofano Livanos in the Gulf Stream off Melbourne Beach, more than 100 miles from the scene of the accident.

Seas in the wake of Hurricane Belle were too rough for the freighter to attempt a rescue, so the crew fired flares, alerting the crew of the Teresa Ann, which was nearby.

Riggs said the men poured out their story and consumed five gallons of water, two six-packs of soft drinks and "really packed away a lot of chicken and ham sandwiches and cake" during the six-hour return trip to land.

"We were kinda clumsy," Riggs said they told him in describing their fall into the sea. He asked if they had been drinking and they said no.

About 45 minutes after they were dumped into the ocean, the ship turned and headed their way. But while still about 30 minutes away, it turned from them again despite the yelling and whistles of the pair.

The two said they saw no other boats and planes but did see sharks. Riggs said they told him that sharks circled them for awhile, never getting close enough to bite. A scholl of small sharks, however, came right up to them and they kicked them to scare them away.

Clad only in swimming trunks, they took the string out of their suits and bound their wrists together at night so that they wouldn't drift away from each other.

Seaweed surrounded them during the night and they bunched it together to make a bed to help them float.

"They said in the morning they saw a floating gallon jug and got that for floatation," Riggs said. "They spotted a plank and one of them swam for it. Just then a huge brown fin ripped through the water close by. A very large shark swam by and eventually went away."

Contelmo and Pocaca had been on a weekend outing with five other persons, who also ran into some bad luck after they lost the two.

Coast Guard Chief Petty Officer Ray Baker at Miami said the Nimbus ran aground Monday night in the Lake Worth Inlet.

Woman Wants Children Transferred

A Lincoln parent who claimed that one of her sons was attacked while working un a public school and another one was "repeatedly threatened" while attending Lincoln High School asked the Board of Education to transfer her children to another school Tuesday.

Mrs. Kathryn Westwood said that her son David was attacked while working for the Job Experience Training (JET) program in one of the schools and son Richard was threatened by "a gang" while attending school last year. She asked for a transfer to Lincoln Southeast for her sons, as well as a transfer from Everett Junior High to Pound Junior High for her daughter.

Superintendent John Prasch said there is no documented evidence of her claims and informed her that she would have to appeal her case to the transfer appeals board which meets Wednesday, Aug. 18. Prasch said, after the meeting, that Mrs. Westwood's appearance before the board may have been the result of a "misunderstanding" during a telephone conversation.

"She may have thought the Tuesday meeting was the appeals board," he said.

Dr. Eldon Heskett, director of student services for the schools, in charge of the JET program, said he has no record of David being enrolled in that program.

Heskett, who also sits on the appeals board, said, "If there's a problem, we don't solve it by transferring a student."

Southeast is a closed school, meaning that it's full, and transfers aren't usualy approved to the school, Prasch noted.

You say that you'd tolerate a few chuckholes in the street if you could find more new books in the library?

You say that the Lincoln Police Department needs a police-community relations coordinator?

What do you say about the way your city tax dollars will be spent in the coming year?

Your chance to say it comes Thursday night at 7:30 p.m. in the City Council chambers in the County-City Building at 555 S. 10th.

It won't be long before you learn the effect of your statement. The council intends to take final action on the budget that night, after citizen comments are received.

For the past several weeks the City Council has been culling through the budget proposed in July by Mayor Helen Boosalis, making tentative cuts.

This year, it operated somewhat differently than in the past. It solicited from the mayor her opinion on where cuts could be made in the budgets of different agencies.

In most cases, when the council made cuts, it made them where she suggested.

When the work was done the council had trimmed almost $1 million from the mayor's tax-supported budget of $26.5 million.

Property taxes would be pushed up only about 1% by the budget after the council's cuts, assuming that the wage hike to city employes, now being negotiated, does not exceed 7½%.

In addition to cuts in the budgets of tax-supported agencies, the council also trimmed about $422,000 from the $74.5 million Lincoln Electric System budget. It left untouched, however, the proposed $13.2 million Lincoln General Hospital budget, the $1.7 million Lincoln Transportation System budget, the $5.7 million water system budget and the $3.5 million sanitary sewer system budget.

Those five budgets, which are supported entirely or partially by ratepayers, bring the total city budget to a record $141 million.

Opposition to some of the proposed cuts has surfaced already. The council expects to hear from the Fire Fighters Union on the trimming of the 12 firemen's jobs.

It expects to hear opposition to reducing funding for the School Resource Officer program, which puts police officers in school to develop rapport with youngsters and to be an educational resource for teachers.

The council may also hear from the Lincoln Electric System board and the Municipal Court judges, since it refused to hold 11th-hour meetings with them on the budget cuts prior to the Thursday night hearing.

Here is a summary of the council's tentative spending decisions, showing first the currently proposed amount of each agency's budget, followed by the amount the council cut or added to the mayor's initially-proposed budget:

Council	$ 88,313	+$ 20,000

Convention Unit Discussed Again

By CYNTHIA JOHNSON
Star Staff Writer

The on again, off again issue of building a convention center adjacent to Pershing Municipal Auditorium came up at the Tuesday morning meeting of the auditorium advisory council.

Although no action was taken on the matter, council member Dick White said, "It's an appropriate time to look at the convention facilities situation" again.

White noted that a couple of years ago, the Downtown Advisory Committee looked into the feasibility of building a convention center.

However, nothing came of that investigation.

And now, "for the first time, Lincoln is losing conventions to outstate towns" like Kearney and Grand Island, White said.

White told council members that the Lincoln Center Development Association has called an Aug. 16 meeting to discuss such matters as the convention center.

Auditorium manager Ike Hoig said that past investigations have shown that it would cost up to $10,000 to draw up preliminary plans for a convention center.

During the meeting, the council also authorized Hoig to install handrails in the arena seating area.

The rails — which will be installed on one side of the stairway aisles up to the tenth row of seats — will cost approximately $5,000, Hoig said.

Council member Marge Fahrnbruch also suggested that Hoig look into affixing reflectorized tape to the stairs, to assist people going up and down when the auditorium is darkened.

In other business:

— Hoig told council members that the recently instituted practice of providing parking for auditorium patrons in the federal building garage has resulted in a $550 profit. Although the profit has been relatively small, White urged the council to continue to offer the facility during certain evening events because it provides a service to those patrons who want to use it.

— The council voted to retain Stanley Portsche in his position as council chairman for another year. Other officers who also will serve another term are White, vice-chairman; and Mrs. Fahrnbruch, secretary.

County Budget Hearing Colorful

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

Eight Lancaster County department heads asked county commissioners to add almost $200,000 to the already $25.9 million county budget.

One private citizen argued that taxes are already too high.

And after an evening of sometimes strained confrontations between elected department heads and the three commissioners, one pastor suggested that "elected officials should love one another anyhow."

Only the overtaxed citizen and the pastor drew applause from the crowd of more than 80 people who attended the county board's annual budget hearing Tuesday night.

County commissioners listened, took notes and occasionally asked questions as, one by one, department heads, sometimes followed by supporters representing other community interests, urged them to put specific dollars back into individual budgets.

The debate, at times, became bitter.

County Assessor Fritz Meyer, seldom on friendly terms with any of the commissioners, contended there was only one commissioner present during his initial July budget hearing.

"Bruce (Hamilton) happened to be on vacation, and Bob (Colin) was under the table. Jan (Gauger) was the only one there," he said.

Meyer also promised that when the lines grew long during car registration months, he would put a sign on his office wall reading, "See the commissioners; they cut my budget."

"Of course that's after the election, Jan," said Meyer, a more than obvious reference to Meyer's hope that Mrs. Gauger will be defeated in her re-election bid this November.

But Meyer did give the board a promise of sorts that he would "probably" be able to get updated property valuations ready by 1977 if commissioners restored more than $50,000 they earlier cut from his budget proposal.

Higher property values will mean that the county (and city) can raise more money with each mill of tax levy and will thus be better abel to keep up with inflation and growing government costs.

At least one misunderstanding was cleared up during the evening.

When County Treasurer Frank Golden complained that he had never had a July preliminary budget hearing, commissioners reminded him that he and other treasurer staff members met with Hamilton, Colin and board staff in early July.

County Engineer Marv Nuernberger, who took the largest cuts of any department in the three budgets that run his office, also gave the longest plea for the most money — about $100,000 more — and had the most outside support.

Nuernberger graphically described one very hazardous railroad crossing on a county road, then said, "I sincerly hope that you get the picture because it disturbs me greatly when some people propose to save mountains of money deemphasizing the importance of most of our county roads.

"Hell, 70% of all highway deaths are on substandard county roads because elected officials like you and me have been asleep for forty years. I am awake and doing something about it, and I am pleading for your cooperation," he said.

Individuals representing the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, Waverly School District, City of Waverly and one Lincoln neighborhood group supported Nuernberger's request for additional funds.

Other specific departmental requests included two additional patrol cars and a radio for the sheriff; more money for boarding juveniles in group and foster homes, additional employes in the treasurer's office and new equipment for the county attorney's office.

But the biggest hit of the evening was the man who asked for less — not more — money for county programs.

After sitting through almost two hours of more-money requests, Jack Singer, owner of Singer Auto Parts, told commissioners, "I don't know how you stand it."

Referring to sheriff department testimony that officers could not use cars with more than 90,000 miles even for civil work, Singer said, "I'm driving a truck with 90,000 and it's not too terribly bad. I can't afford a new car. Maybe with tax money I could."

And after hearing departmental requests for new typewriters, calculators and validating equipment, Singer added, "Jack Singer gets along with an adding machine that you have to punch the button three times. It's not even electric, but it still adds up the money."

Commissioners will make final decisions on the budget, which currently requires a 13.297 mill levy, during a Thursday morning meeting.

Court Says Coverage Can't Be Diminished

A county board cannot constitutionally change from family to single coverage the health insurance plan provided elected officials during their term of office, the Nebraska Justice Department said Tuesday.

The county officials compensation question was submitted by Greeley County Atty. Harold E. Connors.

The resulting opinion, written by Asst. Atty. Gen. Gary B. Schneider, noted that before the terms beginning in January 1975, the county provided family health insurance coverage to all elected officials and appointed employes. The county now wishes to change some to single coverage.

The state Constitution "prohibits diminishing the compensation of any officer and does not merely prohibit diminishing his salary," the opinion said.

"Benefits such as health insurance coverage are generally thought to be part of the total compensation package."

The opinion referred to a 1956 Nebraska Supreme Court case considering the same constitutional provision. The court found that protection against lowering compensation was "not to benefit the public official but the public."

The court stood on the principle that nothing promised a public official for his services by law should be withheld or taken away, no matter if by direct, indirect or evasive actions.

The opinion continued, "The elected official was, at the time he ran for office, promised by law family health insurance coverage as a portion of his compensation for his services." Thus, the Constitution allows no diminution.

Ex-Lincolnite Joins World Bank Unit

Washington (AP) — Former Nebraskan Warren D. Fairchild, director of the U.S. Water Resources Council since September 1973, said Tuesday he is joining the Washington staff of the World Bank as a mission leader for the Pakistani National Water Plan in the bank's southern Asia division.

He plans to begin his new position approximately Sept. 1.

Executive secretary of the Nebraska Soil and Water Conservation Commission for 13 years, Fairchild left Lincoln in 1970 to become assistant commissioner for resource planning for the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation in Washington. He was graduated from the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture in 1953.

Eddie James's Motel Guests Are Different

Red Bluff, Calif. (UPI) — Eddie James decided to give up ranching four years ago and start a motel but his guests are a little different — most of them are horses.

The Bar-3 Horse Motel is used mostly for overnight guests rather than long-term boarding. Accommodations include stereo music and heaters in the stalls, and fenced paddocks for recreation areas.

While James prefers horses as guests, he is quick to point out that the Bar-3 doesn't discriminate.

"I also take dogs in," he said. "On weekends it's hard to get into a kennel. Also, I take show cattle once in a while."

Demand for space at the five-acre Bar-3 has increased about 200% since it opened, so James expanded the motel from 6 to 15 stalls. Rate are $6 per night for a box stall and $5 with the door left open to the paddock.

He is also installing an intercom system to monitor the stalls and alert him to any problems among the guests, which range from thoroughbred race and show horses to polo ponies.

Located near busy Interstate 5 midway between the Southern California and Northwest horse-riding circuits, the motel is a logical place for owners to board their horses overnight.

"In January I get the polo-playing set on the way to Palm Springs and Santa Barbara from Portland and Seattle," he said. "And I have them back in April and May when the season's over."

James said he has few problems with rowdy guests because "I don't mix strange horses together." He said running a horse motel is similar to operating a regular motel.

"Ninety per cent of my business is done by reservations," he said. "The owners even have me make reservations for them in a 'people motel.'"

Temperatures Soar Upward Over Most Of State

Nebraska temperatures zoomed up to the century mark at Burwell Tuesday, while Lincoln, Omaha and Norfolk recorded highs of 99 degrees.

Warm winds accompanied the continued dry weather over the state, although a few scattered thundertorms occurred.

In Hastings, winds gusted up to 86 miles per hour Monday night, damaging trees and downing power and telephone lines. One large tree was uprooted in the northern part of Hastings by the strong winds.

The Hastings windstorm was accompanied by a .67 of an inch of moisture and parts of nearby Clay County also reported high winds and a hard rain.

Fremont received wind gusts of 52 miles per hour late Monday.

Showers elsewhere included .6 of an inch at Valparaiso, .38 at Boys Town, .33 southwest of Malcolm, and from .42 to .04 in the Omaha vicinity.

Only a trace of moisture was recorded at the Lincoln Airport, while Lincoln's 1976 total rainfall stands at 14.35 inches, 3.89 inches below normal.

Swiss Offer Half-Fare

Geneva, Switzerland (UPI) — The Swiss Federal Railways now offer a 15-day half-fare travel card for $16 in addition to the full month card for $22. With the cards, travelers save 50 per cent on transportation on railways, lake steamers and postal buses.

A senior citizen half-fare card for $26 — women must be 62, men, 65 — offers the same discount but is good for one year. In addition, the card is honored for reduced rate accommodations at certain hotels.

Quieter Streets May Be Possible

By BOB REEVES
Star Staff Writer

Would you like to live on Quiet Street?

Dr. E. D. Lyman, City-County health director, wishes the city would name a street in honor of the Health Department's "Quiet Street" program.

His somewhat facetious suggestion could become part of the department's all-out drive to publicize the city's noise pollution ordinance during the next two months.

If the ordinance is enforced, every street in Lincoln could become Quiet Street, or at least quieter. Gary Walsh, air and noise health supervisor, described the program at the health board meeting Tuesday night.

Starting October 1, health department personnel will work with Lincoln police officers in monitoring noise levels. Drivers of vehicles exceeding the legal limits will be informed about the effects of noise on health, and will be asked to notify the health department when their noisemakers have been repaired.

The health board also will review any noise impact statements submitted to the city by the Federal Highway Department, under a tentative agreement with the mayor's office, Walsh said.

Lyman called attention to a "critical space problem" faced by his department as it consolidates city-county alcholism services and takes over the animal control program from the Humane Society. There is not enough office space to go around in the 2200 St. Marys Ave. building, which also houses the County Welfare Dept., he said.

These reports, as required by the Environmental Action Plan, contain certain data needed for a study of a highway project prior to the start of the planning period. Since not all highway improvements are of the same magnitude, nor will they have similar economic, social and environmental effects, a project level will be assigned to each project to indicate the complexity of the project and the detail of the required study procedure. The projects have been classified as "Non-Major" by the Nebraska Department of Roads and the Federal Highway Administration. Such classification indicates a minimum degree of study and does not require an Environmental Impact Statement or a Negative Declaration.

Copies of these reports have been sent to agencies and local officials having an interest in the projects. These reports are available for public inspection at the office of the Lancaster County Engineer, County-City Building, Lincoln, Nebraska.

Comments relative to the reports may be submitted to the above address until September 10, 1976. Following that date, all comments received will be reviewed and the Final Planning Study Reports will be prepared.

American Party Takes Stands

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The newly formed American Party of Nebraska is formally and officially opposed to open housing laws, school desegregation mandates and federal aid to public schools.

Printed copies of the party's platform, adopted at its state convention in June, were distributed at a legislative hearing in Omaha last week.

Latest voter registration figures, compiled at the secretary of state's office last April, list party membership in Nebraska at 133.

But American Party voters did succeed last May in nominating a congressional candidate in the Third District to oppose the Republican and Democratic nominees in November.

Their choice, Dr. Bill Steen of Sargent, is the party's state chairman.

"We believe that the Democrats and the Republicans are in reality two separate wings of a socialist, liberal philosophy for those who prefer labels rather than positions," the party's platform states.

"We consider ourselves common sense constitutional conservatives."

The platform opposes "forced housing . . . the degrading racial imbalance law and any forced busing schemes" for the schools.

"We believe in the constitutional rights to own, rent and dispose of privately owned property with no infringement by the local, state or federal government or any appointive authority.

"There is no such thing as a free man who does not retain the right to dispose of his property as he sees fit."

As for racial balance in the schools, the platform states, "any government that mandates forced association is in conflict with the laws of nature and the God-given rights of free men."

Children should not be categorized by race, the party document states.

As for school aid, the platform opposes all federal aid to public schools "because it leads to federal control."

On other matters, the American Party opposes "all attempts to liberalize any anti-abortion laws," gun control legislation, "compulsory" fluoridation of water supplies, sex education in the schools, regional or metropolitan government and federal aid to local police.

The party supports "the return of voluntary prayer and Bible reading in the schools," capital punishment, election of all judges, adoption of a partisan legislature, abolition of the Federal Reserve System and criminal penalties for "the unsolicited presentation or exhibition of obscenity, including any public display of homosexuality."

The platform opposes continued U.S. membership in the United Nations and suggests that "no positive good (can) be gained from aiding, trading or making agreements with Communists."

Domestically, the party is "opposed to any additional welfare proposals and will work to reduce and, in time, eliminate the state and federal government's involvement in welfare."

In summary, the American Party states, it believes in "less governments (and) more individual responsibility."

Guidelines For Alcoholism Bill OKd

By GRACIA McANDREW
Star Staff Writer

Guidelines for a new state bill on alcoholism were approved Tuesday by members of the State Department of Public Institution's alcoholism division.

According to the proposed guidelines, implementation of the bill, which would increase regional treatment and rehabilitation services for alcoholics, would be financed by higher liquor taxes.

If approved by the Unicameral, the higher taxes would include beer, to be increased two cents to 12 cents per gallon; wine, to be higher by 10 cents or 85 cents per gallon; and alcohol and spirits, to be increased by 10 cents to $2.10 per gallon.

Approximately $13 million to $17 million in revenue is generated by current liquor taxes, said Dr. William Ford, division director. However, if the bill was implemented, revenue would be increased and the division would receive from $1 million to $1.5 million to increase services in its six regions.

Consequently, the state would be able to provide 75% of the funds required to provide services for each region.

A similar bill (LB993) to finance alcoholic services was not enacted by the Legislature last year.

Also at the meeting, the board voted to investigate the possibility of initiating a State Voluntary Alcoholism Association.

Ford told commission members that the National Council on Alcoholism has tentatively offered a three-year grant for the establishment of the association t stimulate citizen interest and involvement in the problems of and existing programs on alcoholism.

The association "would be independent of state government," Ford said, adding it would "increase, on the grassroots level, the interest and involvement in alcoholic services."

Noting that the association would be nonprofit and similar to state mental health associations, Ford said, the group could facilitate greater public education programs — something the state and regional alcoholism agencies cannot do because of restricted budgets.

At a later meeting of the division's citizens advisory council, Ford said the division's projected budget includes $391,390 in federal funding and grants and $83,000 in state money.

A breakdown of the 1976-77 budget includes: $37,514 for Region I (the Panhandle area); $37,178 for Region II (North Platte area); $44,210 for Region III (Hastings, Grand Island and Kearney area); $46,802 for Region IV (Norfolk and northern Nebraska counties); $50,663 for Region V (Lincoln and southeast Nebraska); and $68,630 for Region VI (Omaha area).

Afghanistan Running Into Beef Difficulties

Dr. Ted Doane, professor of animal science at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, said Afghanistan is facing major breeding and management problems in its beef production because of a "lack of communication between researcher and farmer."

Doane, who returned to UNL for a brief visit, has been teaching and coordinating research at Afghanistan's Kabul University for the past 18 months as part of an NU contract with the U.S. Agency for International Development.

"We must convince them (agricultural authorities) that it is far more important for the farmer and nomad, because their incomes depend upon it, to have the information gained from research than it is for the researcher's own sake," Doane said.

He urged international aid and assistance to develop what he called the importance of research with Kabul's staff members.

But he said the major obstacle is not one of attitude, but of money.

"The Kabul educational system is very young but has made tremendous progress in the last 30 years," Doane said. "The teaching quality is rather good, but research is short of staff and monetary resources."

He contrasted Afghanistan's beef and sheep production, which he said is "very good."

"They (sheep) are specific breeds and are very well adapted to the land," he said.

Life Or 'Fancy Chemistry'? Viking Won't Know Soon

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Viking's laboratory on Mars won't know for weeks — if ever — whether gaseous activity in the Martian soil is evidence of life or merely "fancy chemistry," Viking scientists agreed Tuesday.

The most pessimistic member of the biology team who spoke at a forum on puzzling results of the robot lander's experiments was Dr. Joshua Lederberg, a leading figure in the search for extraterrestrial life.

"I think the most likely outcome is that with the completion of further experiments we may be roughly in the position we are now," Lederberg said. "That is, of having a set of very exciting, very provocative data and not too likely to have made a categorical conclusion about it."

The problem lies not so much with the Viking equipment, several speakers said, but in the fact that "biology is chemistry," and thus it is difficult to determine whether or not certain chemical processes are going on inside a living system.

Drs. Harold Klein and Leslie Orgel of the Viking biology team said there could yet be definite biological signals from the experiments that would be reasonably conclusive.

In any case, said project scientist Dr. Gerald Soffen, "We will not have the answer until at least the controls are done for the experiments and we have the organic and inorganic analysis" of the Martian soil.

At the earliest, it would be Aug. 23 before controls — repeats of the experiments under different conditions — and the analyses would be completed, said Dr. Norman Horowitz.

All the scientists agreed that although the Martian soil samples dug up by Viking have exhaled certain gases in surprising amounts, there is nothing yet to show living organisms are the cause.

"We are seeing some fancy chemistry, there's no doubt about it," said Orgel, of the Salk Institute. "But it is not out of the range of things that can be done by inorganic (nonliving) means."

"Biology does even fancier chemistry," he added.

Two experiments currently under way will go far toward bringing a tentative answer, the scientists said.

One is the organic analysis of the soil by an instrument aboard the Viking lander. The gas Chromatograp mass spectrometer, is searching for organic moleclues, which are tiny chemical units that can indicate the presence of life. Organic compounds can be produced by nonliving processes, too; but if there are no organic molecules in the soil, the possibility of life is virtually ruled out.

This experiment has been delayed by trouble in obtaining a soil sample, but results could be available by this weekend, said Dr. Klaus Biemann of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The other key experiment is an attempt to reproduce the Viking results using simulated Martian soil at Ames Research Institute in Mountain View, Calif.

If the same results can be obtained under the laboratory conditions — which are using inorganic materials — it would be a strong suggestion that the puzzling Viking data from one experiment are not a result of Martian life.

Spinola Returns Home To Prison, Denunciation

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Former President Antonio de Spinola, the general whose book inspired the Portuguese revolution, returned from Brazilian exile Tuesday to military detention and Communist denunciation.

A military police statement said Spinola was taken to Caxias military prison outside Lisbon, where he was questioned by a military judge. A police spokesman said Spinola was not under arrest but that there was a warrant out for him in connection with his alleged role in a March 1975 rightist coup atempt.

The pro-Soviet Portuguese Communist party demanded in a statement that Spinola be tried for terrorism and antigovernment conspiracy. The two-week-old Socialist minority government pleaded for calm.

In parliament, Acacio Barreiros, sole deputy of the far-left Popular Democratic Union, urged the assembly to seek Spinola's trial as a "fascist and an enemy of the people." Assembly President Vasco da Gama Fernandes ruled the question constitutionally irrelevant to current debate.

Parents Of Gifted Ask For School Challenge

By J. L. SCHMIDT
Star Staff Writer

Parents of highly gifted students in the Lincoln public schools want their children to have more of a challenge.

That's one of the conclusions drawn by the school's staff following several weeks of interviews with parents, according to Ron Brandt, assistant superintendent of curriculum, who released the findings to the Lincoln Board of Education Tuesday

Of the parents interviewed, 26 gave a positive response when asked if their child was sufficiently challenged, but, "a substantial minority, 18," answered in the negative, Brandt said.

Another significant finding was that 45 parents thought their children should be given separate instruction part of the day, Brandt added Very little support was given for special Saturday or summer sessions

The most perferred method of grouping was tutoring, with 24 parents suggesting that technique, Brandt said Resource rooms were mentioned by 17 and 11 favored grouping by level of achievement

Separation of students has been a concern of the board who voiced concern that students shouldn t be isolated from their peers

Superintendent John Prasch explained a proposed program for the gifted which will be used in the schools this fall He said he hoped to keep it a "low visibility program to the general public ' in an effort to avoid creating a stigma for the students involved

Other procedural matters affecting students were discussed with an eye toward an August 30 opening

Plans for a continued cultural awareness program now dubbed multi-cultural education, were reviewed by the board as were the results of testing in the schools

Plans for a shortened day for staff development at Prescott School, endorsed by the parent group at the school and presented to the board several months ago have been curtailed by a ruling from the State Department of Education

Prasch explained the ruling from Hugh Harlan administrator of the section of school management services with the state department which said that the plan would be in violation of Rule 14, a state mandate governing accreditation standards

Harlan noted, in a letter to Prasch, that implementation of the plan would be in violation of the rule and the schools "would stand to lose a portion of state aid and state apportionment "

'We would recommend," the letter continued, "that you delay the implementation of this proposal for at least one year."

Harlan explained that the department is revising the state accreditation standards and that the proposal will be included in that study. The board urged Prasch to push for some flexibility in those standards so the schools could experiment with the plan

The Prescott plan would lengthen the hours of class on four days with an early dismissal one day a week for staff planning and development Rule 14 requires a full day and 175 calendar days of school and the Prescott plan would not be compatible with the law, the Harlan letter said

The board approved appointments to a grievance panel for Title IX programs which deal with sex discrimination in the schools. Appointees include Southeast High student Jill Gradwohl, Dawes teacher John Fischer, Pound assistant principal Betty Pauly, parent Ellie Beeman, board attorney Ed Perry and a representative from the Lincoln PTA council

The board voted to discontinue an insurance program for student band instruments because of rising costs and a lack of interest The program, which provided the insurance at reduced rates, has created "considerable paper work," according to Robert Den Hartog, assistant superintendent for business affairs

Approval of a new school site for the proposed Highlands addition, to be built northeast of the municipal airport, was given to the developers pending a legal description for the plot as well as other minor details

The new location was necessary after developers changed the entire layout to satisfy noise pollution standards required before federal funding could be secured for the project

Woman Wants Children Transferred

A Lincoln parent who claimed that one of her sons was attacked while working un a public school and another one was "repeatedly threatened while attending Lincoln High School asked the Board of Education to transfer her children to another school Tuesday

Mrs Kathryn Westwood said that her son David was attacked while working for the Job Experience Training (JET) program in one of the schools and son Richard was threatened by "a gang while attending school last year She asked for a transfer to Lincoln Southeast for her sons, as well as a transfer from Everett Junior High to Pound Junior High for her daughter

Superintendent John Prasch said there is no documented evidence of her claims and informed her that she would have to appeal her case to the transfer appeals board which meets Wednesday, Aug 18 Prasch said, after the meeting, that Mrs Westwood s appearance before the board may have been the result of a "misunderstanding" during a telephone conversation

"She may have thought the Tuesday meeting was the appeals board," he said

Dr Eldon Heskett, director of student services for the schools in charge of the JET program, said he has no record of David being enrolled in that program

Heskett who also sits on the appeals board, said, If there s a problem, we don't solve it by transferring a student

Southeast is a closed school, meaning that it s full and transfers aren't usualy approved to the school Prasch noted

Taxpayers To Have Input At Public Budget Hearing

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

You say that firing 12 firemen might place lives in danger?

You say that you'd tolerate a few chuckholes in the street if you could find more new books in the library?

You say that the Lincoln Police Department needs a police-community relations coordinator?

What do you say about the way your city tax dollars will be spent in the coming year?

Your chance to say it comes Thursday night at 7 30 p m in the City Council chambers in the County-City Building at 555 S. 10th

It won t be long before you learn the effect of your statement The council intends to take final action on the budget that night, after citizen comments are received

For the past several weeks the City Council has been culling through the budget proposed in July by Mayor Helen Boosalis, making tentative cuts

This year it operated somewhat differently than in the past It solicited from the mayor her opinion on where cuts could be made in the budgets of different agencies

In most cases when the council made cuts it made them where she suggested

When the work was done the council had trimmed almost $1 million from the mayor s tax-supported budget of $26 5 million

Property taxes would be pushed up only about 1 by the budget after the council s cuts assuming that the wage hike to city employes, now being negotiated does not exceed 7½ ‹

In addition to cuts in the budgets of tax-supported agencies the council also trimmed about $422 000 from the $74 5 million Lincoln Electric System budget It left untouched, however, the proposed $13 2 million Lincoln General Hospital budget, the $1 7 million Lincoln Transportation System budget, the $5 7 million water system budget and the $3 5 million sanitary sewer system budget

Those five budgets, which are supported entirely or partially by ratepayers bring the total city budget to a record $141 million

Opposition to some of the proposed cuts has surfaced already The council expects to hear from the Fire Fighters Union on the trimming of the 12 firemen s jobs

It expects to hear opposition to reducing funding for the School Resource Officer program which puts police officers in school to develop rapport with youngsters and to be an educational resource for teachers

The council may also hear from the Lincoln Electric System board and the Municipal Court judges since it refused to hold 11th hour meetings with them on the budget cuts prior to the Thursday night hearing

Here is a summary of the council's tentative spending decisions, showing first the currently proposed amount of each agency's budget, followed by the amount the council cut or added to the mayor's initially-proposed budget

Mayor	$ 110 613	$ 2 000

By CYNTHIA JOHNSON
Star Staff Writer

The on again, off again issue of building a convention center adjacent to Pershing Municipal Auditorium came up at the Tuesday morning meeting of the auditorium advisory council

Although no action was taken on the matter, council member Dick White said, "It's an appropriate time to look at the convention facilities situation" again

White noted that a couple of years ago the Downtown Advisory Committee looked into the feasibility of building a convention center

However, nothing came of that investigation.

And now, "for the first time, Lincoln is losing conventions to outstate towns" like Kearney and Grand Island, White said

White told council members that the Lincoln Center Development Association has called an Aug 16 meeting to discuss such matters as the convention center

Auditorium manager Ike Hoig said that past investigations have shown that it would cost up to $10 000 to draw up preliminary plans for a convention center

During the meeting, the council also authorized Hoig to install handrails in the arena seating area

The rails — which will be installed on one side of the stairway, aisles up to the tenth row of seats — will cost approximately $5 000, Hoig said

Council member Marge Fahrnbruch also suggested that Hoig look into affixing reflectorized tape to the stairs, to assist people going up and down when the auditorium is darkened

In other business

— Hoig told council members that the recently instituted practice of providing parking for auditorium patrons in the federal building garage has resulted in a $550 profit Although the profit has been relatively small, White urged the council to continue to offer the facility during certain evening events because it provides a service to those patrons who want to use it

— The council voted to retain Stanley Portsche in his position as council chairman for another year Other officers who also will serve another term are White, vice-chairman, and Mrs. Fahrnbruch, secretary

New Ringo Movie Filming

Former Beatle Ringo Starr shows off his new haircut while posing with Angelika, his partner in a 45-minute movie being filmed in Hamburg, West Germany. The movie, being made at Trensbuettle Castle near here, is titled "Ringo's Songs" and will be released later this year when his new recording becomes available

2 Survive 29 Hours In Sea

Cape Canaveral, Fla (UPI) — Two young men bunched seaweed together to stay afloat and kicked small sharks away in a 29-hour fight against hurricane-whipped seas and exposure

The two Floridians, Wayne Contelmo of Bartow, and Dennis Pocaca of Delray Beach, dropped into the foaming sea when they lost their grip as they went hand over hand down a rope to a dinghy that was being pulled behind their 35-foot sailboat, the Nimbus

They told their rescuer, Capt Gene Riggs of the 72-foot scallop trawler Teresa Ann, that the sailboat just kept heading away from them "They said they thought the others were just leaving them to stew but after about 45 minutes they didn't think the others were joking," Riggs said

The men were sighted Monday evening by the crew of the Greek freighter Taeofano Livanos in the Gulf Stream off Melbourne Beach, more than 100 miles from the scene of the accident

Seas in the wake of Hurricane Belle were too rough for the freighter to attempt a rescue, so the crew fired flares, alerting the crew of the Teresa Ann, which was nearby

Riggs said the men poured out their story and consumed five gallons of water, two six-packs of soft drinks and "really packed away a lot of chicken and ham sandwiches and cake" during the six-hour return trip to land

"We were kinda clumsy," Riggs said they told him in describing their fall into the sea He asked if they had been drinking and they said no

About 45 minutes after they were dumped into the ocean, the ship turned and headed their way But while still about 30 minutes away it turned from them again despite the yelling and whistles of the pair

The two said they saw no other boats and planes but did see sharks Riggs said they told him that sharks circled them for awhile, never getting close enough to bite A scholl of small sharks, however, came right up to them and they kicked them to scare them away

Clad only in swimming trunks, they took the string out of their suits and bound their wrists together at night so that they wouldn t drift away from each other

Seaweed surrounded them during the night and they bunched it together to make a bed to help them float

"They said in the morning they saw a floating gallon jug and got that for floatation," Riggs said "They spotted a plank and one of them swam for it Just then a huge brown fin ripped through the water close by A very large shark swam by and eventually went away "

Contelmo and Pocaca had been on a weekend outing with five other persons, who also ran into some bad luck after they lost the two

Coast Guard Chief Petty Officer Ray Baker at Miami said the Nimbus ran aground Monday night in the Lake Worth Inlet

County Budget Hearing Colorful

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

Eight Lancaster County department heads asked county commissioners to add almost $200,000 to the already $25.9 million county budget.

One private citizen argued that taxes are already too high.

And after an evening of sometimes strained confrontations between elected department heads and the three commissioners, one pastor suggested that "elected officials should love one another anyhow."

Only the overtaxed citizen and the pastor drew applause from the crowd of more than 80 people who attended the county board's annual budget hearing Tuesday night.

County commissioners listened, took notes and occasionally asked questions as, one by one, department heads, sometimes followed by supporters representing other community interests, urged them to put specific dollars back into individual budgets.

The debate, at times, became bitter.

County Assessor Fritz Meyer, seldom on friendly terms with any of the commissioners, contended there was only one commissioner present during his initial July budget hearing.

"Bruce (Hamilton) happened to be on vacation, and Bob (Colin) was under the table. Jan (Gauger) was the only one there," he said.

Meyer also promised that when the lines grew long during car registration months, he would put a sign on his office wall reading, "See the commissioners; they cut my budget."

"Of course that's after the election, Jan," said Meyer, a more than obvious reference to Meyer's hope that Mrs. Gauger will be defeated in her re-election bid this November.

But Meyer did give the board a promise of sorts that he would "probably" be able to get updated property valuations ready by 1977 if commissioners restored more than $50,000 they earlier cut from his budget proposal.

Higher property values will mean that the county (and city) can raise more money with each mill of tax levy and will thus be better abel to keep up with inflation and growing government costs.

At least one misunderstanding was cleared up during the evening.

When County Treasurer Frank Golden complained that he had never had a July preliminary budget hearing, commissioners reminded him that he and other treasurer staff members met with Hamilton, Colin and board staff in early July

County Engineer Marv Nuernberger, who took the largest cuts of any department in the three budgets that run his office, also gave the longest plea for the most money — about $100,000 more — and had the most outside support.

Nuernberger graphically described one very hazardous railroad crossing on a county road, then said, "I sincerly hope that you get the picture because it disturbs me greatly when some people propose to save mountains of money deemphasizing the importance of most of our county roads.

"Hell, 70% of all highway deaths are on substandard county roads because elected officials like you and me have been asleep for forty years. I am awake and doing something about it, and I am pleading for your cooperation," he said.

Individuals representing the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, Waverly School District, City of Waverly and one Lincoln neighborhood group supported Nuernberger's request for additional funds.

Other specific departmental requests included two additional patrol cars and a radio for the sheriff; more money for boarding juveniles in group and foster homes, additional employes in the treasurer's office and new equipment for the county attorney's office.

But the biggest hit of the evening was the man who asked for less — not more — money for county programs.

After sitting through almost two hours of more-money requests, Jack Singer, owner of Singer Auto Parts, told commissioners, "I don't know how you stand it."

Referring to sheriff department testimony that officers could not use cars with more than 90,000 miles even for civil work, Singer said, "I'm driving a truck with 90,000 and it's not too terribly bad. I can't afford a new car. Maybe with tax money I could "

And after hearing departmental requests for new typewriters, calculators and validating equipment, Singer added, "Jack Singer gets along with an adding machine that you have to punch the button three times. It's not even electric, but it still adds up the money."

Commissioners will make final decisions on the budget, which currently requires a 13.297 mill levy, during a Thursday morning meeting

First Lady Betty Ford, attending the opening night tribute to the late Duke Ellington in New York Tuesday evening, leads dancer Judith Jamison in a routine as other members of the Alvin Ailey Dancers provide the tempo. Court Says Coverage Can't Be Diminished

A county board cannot constitutionally change from family to single coverage the health insurance plan provided elected officials during their term of office, the Nebraska Justice Department said Tuesday.

The county officials compensation question was submitted by Greeley County Atty. Harold E. Connors.

The resulting opinion, written by Asst. Atty. Gen. Gary B. Schneider, noted that before the terms beginning in January 1975, the county provided family health insurance coverage to all elected officials and appointed employes. The county now wishes to change some to single coverage.

The state Constitution "prohibits diminishing the compensation of any officer and does not merely prohibit diminishing his salary," the opinion said.

"Benefits such as health insurance coverage are generally thought to be part of the total compensation package."

The opinion referred to a 1956 Nebraska Supreme Court case considering the same constitutional provision. The court found that protection against lowering compensation was "not to benefit the public official but the public."

The court stood on the principle that nothing promised a public official for his services by law should be withheld or taken away, no matter if by direct, indirect or evasive actions.

The opinion continued, "The elected official was, at the time he ran for office, promised by law family health insurance coverage as a portion of his compensation for his services." Thus, the Constitution allows no diminution.

Ex-Lincolnite Joins World Bank Unit

Washington (AP) — Former Nebraskan Warren D. Fairchild, director of the U.S. Water Resources Council since September 1973, said Tuesday he is joining the Washington staff of the World Bank as a mission leader for the Pakistani National Water Plan in the bank's southern Asia division.

He plans to begin his new position approximately Sept. 1.

Executive secretary of the Nebraska Soil and Water Conservation Commission for 13 years, Fairchild left Lincoln in 1970 to become assistant commissioner for resource planning for the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation in Washington. He was graduated from the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture in 1953.

Eddie James's Motel Guests Are Different

Red Bluff, Calif. (UPI) — Eddie James decided to give up ranching four years ago and start a motel but his guests are a little different — most of them are horses.

The Bar-3 Horse Motel is used mostly for overnight guests rather than long-term boarding. Accommodations include stereo music and heaters in the stalls, and fenced paddocks for recreation areas.

While James prefers horses as guests, he is quick to point out that the Bar-3 doesn't discriminate.

"I also take dogs in," he said. "On weekends it's hard to get into a kennel. Also, I take show cattle once in a while."

Demand for space at the five-acre Bar-3 has increased about 200% since it opened, so James expanded the motel from 6 to 15 stalls. Rate are $6 per night for a box stall and $5 with the door left open to the paddock.

He is also installing an intercom system to monitor the stalls and alert him to any problems among the guests, which range from thoroughbred race and show horses to polo ponies.

Located near busy Interestate 5 midway between the Southern California and Northwest horseriding circuits, the motel is a logical place for owners to board their horses overnight.

"In January I get the polo-playing set on the way to Palm Springs and Santa Barbara from Portland and Seattle," he said. "And I have them back in April and May when the season's over."

James said he has few problems with rowdy guests because "I don't mix strange horses together " He said running a horse motel is similar to operating a regular motel

"Ninety per cent of my business is done by reservations," he said "The owners even have me make reservations for them in a 'people motel.' "

Temperatures Soar Upward Over Most Of State

Warm winds accompanied the continued dry weather over the state, although a few scattered thundertorms occurred

The Hastings windstorm was accompanied by a .67 of an inch of moisture and parts of nearby Clay County also reported high winds and a hard rain.

Fremont received wind gusts of 52 miles per hour late Monday.

Quieter Streets May Be Possible

By BOB REEVES
Star Staff Writer

Would you like to live on Quiet Street?

Dr. E. D. Lyman, City-County health director, wishes the city would name a street in honor of the Health Department's "Quiet Street" program.

His somewhat facetious suggestion could become part of the department's all-out drive to publicize the city's noise pollution ordinance during the next two months.

If the ordinance is enforced, every street in Lincoln could become Quiet Street, or at least quieter. Gary Walsh, air and noise health supervisor, described the program at the health board meeting Tuesday night.

Starting October 1, health department personnel will work with Lincoln police officers in monitoring noise levels. Drivers of vehicles exceeding the legal limits will be informed about the effects of noise on health, and will be asked to notify the health department when their noisemakers have been repaired.

The health board also will review any noise impact statements submitted to the city by the Federal Highway Department, under a tentative agreement with the mayor's office, Walsh said.

Lyman called attention to a "critical space problem" faced by his department as it consolidates city-county alcholism services and takes over the animal control program from the Humane Society. There is not enough office space to go around in the 2200 St. Marys Ave building, which also houses the County Welfare Dept., he said.

These reports, as required by the Environmental Action Plan, contain certain data needed for a study of a highway project prior to the start of the planning period. Since not all highway improvements are of the same magnitude, nor will they have similar economic, social and environmental effects, a project level will be assigned to each project to indicate the complexity of the project and the detail of the required study procedure. The projects have been classified as "Non-Major" by the Nebraska Department of Roads and the Federal Highway Administration. Such classification indicates a minimum degree of study and does not require an Environmental Impact Statement or a Negative Declaration

Copies of these reports have been sent to agencies and local officials having an interest in the projects. These reports are available for public inspection at the office of the Lancaster County Engineer, County-City Building, Lincoln, Nebraska

Comments relative to the reports may be submitted to the above address until September 18, 1976. Following that date, all comments received will be reviewed and the Final Planning Study Reports will be prepared

Not A Job But WORK

We feel that if we continue our pace of over 100 units per month, there is no way that we can take care of our customers the way that we would like. We have therefore decided to locate another experienced salesperson and have him trained before the 1977 models arrive.

If you are energetic, physically and mentally strong, like automobiles, like people and long hours, you might be qualified. If you like 3 regular meals a day, little excitement, average or low income and like to gossip about people, you are not qualified. If you feel you qualify, I will be more than happy to talk with you at your convenience.

Life Or 'Fancy Chemistry'? Viking Won't Know Soon

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Viking's laboratory on Mars won't know for weeks — if ever — whether gaseous activity in the Martian soil is evidence of life or merely "fancy chemistry," Viking scientists agreed Tuesday.

The most pessimistic member of the biology team who spoke at a forum on puzzling results of the robot lander's experiments was Dr. Joshua Lederberg, a leading figure in the search for extraterrestrial life.

"I think the most likely outcome is that with the completion of further experiments we may be roughly in the position we are now," Lederberg said. "That is, of having a set of very exciting, very provocative data and not too likely to have made a categorical conclusion about it."

The problem lies not so much with the Viking equipment, several speakers said, but in the fact that "biology is chemistry," and thus it is difficult to determine whether or not certain chemical processes are going on inside a living system.

Drs. Harold Klein and Leslie Orgel of the Viking biology team said there could yet be definite biological signals from the experiments that would be reasonably conclusive.

In any case, said project scientist Dr. Gerald Soffen, "We will not have the answer until at least the controls are done for the experiments and we have the organic and inorganic analysis" of the Martian soil.

At the earliest, it would be Aug. 23 before controls — repeats of the experiments under different conditions — and the analyses would be completed, said Dr. Norman Horowitz.

All the scientists agreed that although the Martian soil samples dug up by Viking have exhaled certain gases in surprising amounts, there is nothing yet to show living organisms are the cause.

"We are seeing some fancy chemistry, there's no doubt about it," said Orgel, of the Salk Institute. "But it is not out of the range of things that can be done by inorganic (nonliving) means."

"Biology does even fancier chemistry," he added.

Two experiments currently under way will go far toward bringing a tentative answer, the scientists said.

One is the organic analysis of the soil by an instrument aboard the Viking lander. The gas Chromatograp mass spectrometer, is searching for organic moleclues, which are tiny chemical units that can indicate the presence of life. Organic compounds can be produced by nonliving processes, too, but if there are no organic molecules in the soil, the possibility of life is virtually ruled out

This experiment has been delayed by trouble in obtaining a soil sample, but results could be available by this weekend, said Dr. Klaus Biemann of Massachusetts Institute of Technology

The other key experiment is an attempt to reproduce the Viking results using simulated Martian soil at Ames Research Institute in Mountain View, Calif.

If the same results can be obtained under the laboratory conditions — which are using inorganic materials — it would be a strong suggestion that the puzzling Viking data from one experiment are not a result of Martian life.

Spinola Returns Home To Prison, Denunciation

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Former President Antonio de Spinola, the general whose book inspired the Portuguese revolution, returned from Brazilian exile Tuesday to military detention and Communist denunciation.

A military police statement said Spinola was taken to Caxias military prison outside Lisbon, where he was questioned by a military judge. A police spokesman said Spinola was not under arrest but that there was a warrant out for him in connection with his alleged role in a March 1975 rightist coup atempt.

The pro-Soviet Portuguese Communist party demanded in a statement that Spinola be tried for terrorism and antigovernment conspiracy. The two-week-old Socialist minority government pleaded for calm.

In parliament, Acacio Barreiros, sole deputy of the far-left Popular Democratic Union, urged the assembly to seek Spinola's trial as a "fascist and an enemy of the people" Assembly President Vasco da Gama Fernandes ruled the question constitutionally irrelevant to current debate.

2. Fresh on the Market:
A lovely home for the large family. Beautiful open stairway and natural oak woodwork. Four bedrooms, aluminum siding, nice lot, and close to schools.

3. Better Than New:
This professionally decorated 3 bedroom home in Heritage Heights was a show home only 8 months ago. Quality throughout. Custom cabinets, deck off the dining, central air, and 9½ years of the transferable Home Owners Warranty.

4. Good Return:
Excellent duplex located in prime rental area. Completely re-decorated, newly insulated, and new roof. Area of newer units, full "D" zoned lot, central air, garage and good basement.

5. Unique:
Lots of living in this unusual 1½ story, 3 bedroom home. First floor laundry, huge garage, 2 full baths, open stairway to a balcony, central air and completely draped.

6. Don't Wait:

Not A Job But WORK

We feel that if we continue our pace of over 100 units per month, there is no way that we can take care of our customers the way that we would like We have therefore decided to locate another experienced salesperson and have him trained before the 1977 models arrive

If you are energetic, physically and mentally strong, like automobiles, like people and long hours, you might be qualified If you like 3 regular meals a day, little excitement, average or low income and like to gossip about people, you are not qualified If you feel you qualify, I will be more than happy to talk with you at your convenience

Review Asked For Tech School Decision

By United Press International

Sheridan County has asked the Nebraska Supreme Court to reconsider its July 21 decision that the current technical community college system is constitutional, it was learned Tuesday.

On file with the high court was a brief filed by attorneys for the county asking that the high court grant a rehearing in the constitutional case.

The attorneys said the July decision approving the current community college law is in error because it allows the very thing it says the Constitution prohibits.

The Constitution, in short, says the state cannot avoid any of its traditional financial responsibilities by converting state functions over to local ones.

In 1974, the Supreme Court ruled unconstitutional the original Technical Community College Act of 1971. It said the system, composed primarily of educational institutions which had been locally owned and governed junior colleges, was a state system and was therefore illegally using local property tax money.

In the 1975 session, the Unicameral passed a new law and transformed the system into a local one, giving up its direct financial controls. It also instituted a state aid to community colleges system.

The college aid system is similar to the aid program for local public elementary and secondary schools. The state money augments money raised by the property tax.

Sheridan County and others maintained the 1975 law did not transform the college system to a local one and was thus still using property tax money illegally and filed the action that brought about the July 21 decision.

The Constitution prohibits property tax levies for any state function.

In July, the court ruled the system had successfully been returned to a local one because there were no direct controls over the colleges contained in the state aid provisions.

"The mere granting of state aid does not render a school operation a state function," the court said.

Attorneys for Sheridan County said the court's findings would be valid except for one thing, there are now schools that were never local junior colleges. They were created as state institutions under the original community college law and thus were illegally converted to local units by the 1975 law only as a way to get around objections raised in the 1974 decision.

"It permits the Legislature to convert a state function, no matter how long it has been a state function, to a local function," the brief said.

It singled out the Western Tech campus at Sidney and the Alliance School of Practical Nursing as example of schools that were never locally owned and operated and thus can't be legally converted into local ones under any law.

Planning Study Shows Omaha Needs More Tornado Shelters

Omaha (AP) — When there is a tornado warning, shelter is available for less than half the people in major apartment developments, community shopping centers, and industrial parks in Omaha, according to City Planning Department survey.

There are almost no shelters for mobile home parks, and there are other cases in which shelters are available but not being used, said City Planner Susan Ruby, who conducted the survey.

A survey of shelter space available in public, parochial and private schools is still under way, she said.

The study was undertaken to see whether there should be any changes in city ordinances, building codes and zoning regulations to provide tornado protection, City Planner Michael Wiese said.

The survey was done to determine the protection that could be provided in the event of a "direct hit" by a tornado, Mrs. Ruby said.

She said it was not an exhaustive study and omitted day care centers with less than 25 students, apartment developments with less than 100 units and strip commercial dvelopments. The survey covered buildings constructed since 1965 and did not involve older parts of the city.

Of the 21 community shopping centers, only 10 had suitable shelters, she said. Less than half of the larger apartmet developments had adequate shelter space.

The survey was financed with part of a $50,000 federal grant for disaster planning made to the city after the 1975 tornado.

Hall Co. Oks Land Leasing For Law Unit

Grand Island (AP) — The Hall County Airport Authority has decided to agree with leasing land on a long-term basis to the state Law Enforcement Training Center for development of a new facility.

A provision for possible sale of that land to the state in the future will be considered later.

The leasing agreement came in a resolution in response to a request by James Wenger of Grand Island, chairman of the Nebraska Law Enforcement Task Force.

Wenger told the board some kind of recommendation was needed for the legislature in January so plans for an expanded training center could be formulated.

The present facility is leased by the state from the airport for $1 a year, but training center officials say more space is needed and believe a new facility is the answer.

The board agreed to offer to lease 20 acres of land in the southwest corner of the airport to the state for a future building program.

If the program wins legislative approval, the land would be leased for up to 40 years at full fair market value on a yearly rental basis.

Board members were reluctant to agree to sale of the land, saying they preferred to own it in order to have the continuing revenue for airport operation.

Dick Good, executive director of the Grand Island Chamber of Commerce, said, "Personally, I don't think the state will build on leased land.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Wednesday, August 11, 1976

Aquarian Gertrude Stein could have said it: "A rose is a rose but Uranus is a planet and the earth shakes and machines fly and electricity crackles and surprises occur in a house of wishes and friendship. My sign sings songs of victory and stubbornly has its way. A masterpiece has nothing to do with time and an Aquarian by any other name would please Shakespeare."

☆ ☆ ☆

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A voice within could provide valid answers. Listen and heed! Creative juices flow; express yourself. Check long-distance communication. Grand opportunity awaits — if you permit yourself to be ready for it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Build, organize, be responsible enough to accept authority. Older individual demonstrates faith in your capabilites. Capricorn, Cancer play key roles. Accent on involvement, intensification of relationship. If you're playing games, stakes are high — if you don't mean it — quit.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): What you try desperately to hold might be worth "letting go." This should become increasingly clear. Don't sell yourself short. Reject abuse — discard jealousy. Accent on advancement, a unifying of purpose. Aries, Libra could be involved.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Highlight creativity, independence, getting to heart of matters. New contacts prove fruitful. Emphasis on You will be "inspired" by one who had seemed a mere acquaintance. Surprises are featured. Travel talk is on agenda.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Teach and learn. Follow through on hunch. Deal with Aquarian. Dig deep for information, especially where investments enter picture. Concern with hidden matters is accented. A romantic situation may not be what it seems to be.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Diversify — change routine, leave details for another time. Take overall view — travel, make contacts, write, express, be social. Sense of humor now is valuable ally. Laugh at your own foibles and you gain allies. Emphasis on long-term relationship, contract, marriage.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): What seems a "lost cause" could be revived. Know it and be aware of legendary phoenix. Don't give up hope! Confusion is not tragedy. Some relatives could be panicky. This should not cloud your own judgment — or faith. You will rebuild on solid base.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Results become available — and you have evidence of involvement, profit, creativity, love. You come alive. You sense that something of importance is afoot — contrasted to recent past. Gemini, Virgo, Sagittarius could be in picture.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Involvement with Scorpio is distinct possibility. Accent on extricating yourself from oppressive situation. You gain friends, allies, backing of family by calling a half to ridiculous pattern.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Define terms — refine techniques. See places, people as they are, not merely as you wish they could be. Steer clear of self-deception. Discretion may be a necessity. A friend or relative confides — and wants to draw you into maze. Know it and say thanks but no thanks.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Money, security, solidarity, responsibility all form part of current pattern. Relationship intensifies. If single, there is talk of marriage. Married or single, there is consideration of business, commerce, moves to invest and to be more secure.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Cycle high and you finish key project, gain added recognition. You make imprint, get promoted, gain prestige, have standing in community elevated — all by doing what comes naturally. Means be you, not an imitation or robot.

IF AUGUST 11th IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are intuitive, a natrual teacher, a dynamic person, moody, drawn to unorthodox subjects — and persons. You draw to you individuals born under Aquarius and Cancer. Leo individuals also play roles in your life. You made mave or domestic adjustment this year — September and November are outstanding months.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Review Asked For Tech School Decision

By United Press International

Sheridan County has asked the Nebraska Supreme Court to reconsider its July 21 decision that the current technical community college system is constitutional, it was learned Tuesday.

On file with the high court was a brief filed by attorneys for the county asking that the high court grant a rehearing in the constitutional case.

The attorneys said the July decision approving the current community college law is in error because it allows the very thing it says the Constitution prohibits.

The Constitution, in short, says the state cannot avoid any of its traditional financial responsibilities by converting state functions over to local ones.

In 1974, the Supreme Court ruled unconstitutional the original Technical Community College Act of 1971. It said the system, composed primarily of educational institutions which had been locally owned and governed junior colleges, was a state system and was therefore illegally using local property tax money.

In the 1975 session, the Unicameral passed a new law and transformed the system into a local one, giving up its direct financial controls. It also instituted a state aid to community colleges system.

The college aid system is similar to the aid program for local public elementary and secondary schools. The state money augments money raised by the property tax.

Sheridan County and others maintained the 1975 law did not transform the college system to a local one and was thus still using property tax money illegally and filed the action that brought about the July 21 decision.

The Constitution prohibits property tax levies for any state function.

In July, the court ruled the system had successfully been returned to a local one because there were no direct controls over the colleges contained in the state aid provisions.

"The mere granting of state aid does not render a school operation a state function," the court said.

Attorneys for Sheridan County said the court's findings would be valid except for one thing, there are now schools that were never local junior colleges. They were created as state institutions under the original community college law and thus were illegally converted to local units by the 1975 law only as a way to get around objections raised in the 1974 decision.

"It permits the Legislature to convert a state function, no matter how long it has been a state function, to a local function," the brief said.

It singled out the Western Tech campus at Sidney and the Alliance School of Practical Nursing as example of schools that were never locally owned and operated and thus can't be legally converted into local ones under any law.

Planning Study Shows Omaha Needs More Tornado Shelters

Omaha (AP) — When there is a tornado warning, shelter is available for less than half the people in major apartment developments, community shopping centers, and industrial parks in Omaha, according to City Planning Department survey.

There are almost no shelters for mobile home parks, and there are other cases in which shelters are available but not being used, said City Planner Susan Ruby, who conducted the survey.

A survey of shelter space available in public, parochial and private schools is still under way, she said.

The study was undertaken to see whether there should be any changes in city ordinances, building codes and zoning regulations to provide tornado protection, City Planner Michael Wiese said.

The survey was done to determine the protection that could be provided in the event of a "direct hit" by a tornado, Mrs. Ruby said.

She said it was not an exhaustive study and omitted day care centers with less than 25 students, apartment developments with less than 100 units and strip commercial dvelopments. The survey covered buildings constructed since 1965 and did not involve older parts of the city.

Of the 21 community shopping centers, only 10 had suitable shelters, she said. Less than half of the larger apartmet developments had adequate shelter space.

The survey was financed with part of a $50,000 federal grant for disaster planning made to the city after the 1975 tornado.

Hall Co. Oks Land Leasing For Law Unit

Grand Island (AP) — The Hall County Airport Authority has decided to agree with leasing land on a long-term basis to the state Law Enforcement Training Center for development of a new facility.

A provision for possible sale of that land to the state in the future will be considered later.

The leasing agreement came in a resolution in response to a request by James Wenger of Grand Island, chairman of the Nebraska Law Enforcement Task Force.

Wenger told the board some kind of recommendation was needed for the legislature in January so plans for an expanded training center could be formulated.

The present facility is leased by the state from the airport for $1 a year, but training center officials say more space is needed and believe a new facility is the answer.

The board agreed to offer to lease 20 acres of land in the southwest corner of the airport to the state for a future building program.

If the program wins legislative approval, the land would be leased for up to 40 years at full fair market value on a yearly rental basis.

Board members were reluctant to agree to sale of the land, saying they preferred to own it in order to have the continuing revenue for airport operation.

Dick Good, executive director of the Grand Island Chamber of Commerce, said, "Personally, I don't think the state will build on leased land.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Wednesday, August 11, 1976

Aquarian Gertrude Stein could have said it: "A rose is a rose but Uranus is a planet and the earth shakes and machines fly and electricity crackles and surprises occur in a house of wishes and friendship. My sign sings songs of victory and stubbornly has its way. A masterpiece has nothing to do with time and an Aquarian by any other name would please Shakespeare."

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A voice within could provide valid answers. Listen and heed! Creative juices flow; express yourself! Check long-distance communication. Grand opportunity awaits — if you permit yourself to be ready for it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Build, organize, be responsible enough to accept authority. Older individual demonstrates faith in your capabilities. Capricorn, Cancer play key roles. Accent on involvement, intensification of relationship. If you're playing games, stakes are high — if you don't mean it — quit.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): What you try desperately to hold might be worth letting go. This should become increasingly clear. Don't sell yourself short. Reject abuse — discard jealousy. Accent on advancement, a unifying of purpose. Aries, Libra could be involved.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Highlight creativity, independence, getting to heart of matters. New contacts prove fruitful. Emphasis on You will be inspired by one who had seemed a mere acquaintance. Surprises are featured. Travel talk is on agenda.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Teach and learn. Follow through on hunch. Deal with Aquarian. Dig deep for information, especially where investments enter picture. Concern with hidden matters is accented. A romantic situation may not be what it seems to be.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Diversity — change routine, leave details for another time. Take overall view — travel, make contacts, write, express, be social. Sense of humor now is valuable ally. Laugh at your own foibles and you gain allies. Emphasis on long-term relationship, contract, marriage.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): What seems a "lost cause" could be revived. Know it and be aware of legendary phoenix. Don't give up hope! Confusion is not tragedy. Some relatives could be panicky. This should not cloud your own judgment — or faith. You will rebuild on solid base.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Results become available — and you have evidence of involvement, profit, creativity, love. You come alive. You sense that something of importance is afoot — contrasted to recent past. Gemini, Virgo, Sagittarius could be in picture.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Involvement with Scorpio is distinct possibility. Accent on extricating yourself from oppressive situation. You gain friends, allies, backing of family by calling a halt to ridiculous pattern.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Define terms — refine techniques. See places, people as they are, not merely as you wish they could be. Steer clear of self-deception. Discretion may be a necessity. A friend or relative confides — and wants to draw you into maze. Know it and say thanks but no thanks.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Money, security, solidarity, responsibility all form part of current pattern. Relationship intensifies. If single, there is talk of marriage. Married or single, there is consideration of business, commerce, moves to invest and to be more secure.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Cycle high and you finish key project, gain added recognition. You make imprint, get promoted, gain prestige, have standing in community elevated — all by doing what comes naturally. Means be you, not an imitation or robot.

IF AUGUST 11th IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are intuitive, a natural teacher, a dynamic person, moody, drawn to unorthodox subjects — and persons. You draw to you individuals born under Aquarius and Cancer. Leo individuals also play roles in your life. You made move or domestic adjustment this year — September and November are outstanding months.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
